Britain Hits U.N. Move On Rhodesia

Measure Would Block English Plan For Power

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) — Britain vetoed Friday a resolution in the Security Council that would have blocked British plans to give the all-white government of Southern Rhodesia more political and military power.

The Soviet Union and seven other countries on the 11-nation council supported the measure sponsored by Ghana, Morocco and the Philippines. The United States and France abstained.

It was only the third veto by Britain in the Security Council. Britain used vetoes twice on Oct. 30, 1956, to quash council resolutions condemning Britain during the Suez crisis.

FIVE MEMBERS

Each of the five permanent Security Council members — the United States, Britain, France, the Soviet Union and Nationalist China — is empowered to veto council resolutions.

The Soviet Union has used the veto 101 times. France has cast four vetoes—two on the Suez crisis and, in 1946 and 1947, on questions affecting Spain and Indonesia. China used the veto once. The United States has never used it.

The question of independence for Southern Rhodesia has occupied the General Assembly and its special committee on colonialism for the past three years.

The issue was raised in the council for the first time because of the breakup of the British-sponsored Central African Federation and the future independence of its components—Northern Rhodesia, Southern Rhodesia and Nyasaland.

African countries have been satisfied with a broad voting base established in Northern Rhodesia and Nyasaland as a prelude to independence under African-dominated governments.

However, the African nations also want Britain to insure that the African majority in Southern Rhodesia will gain power. Southern Rhodesia's white-ruled government gives no sign of stepping aside after independence.

In their resolution, the African nations charged that an explosive situation exists in Southern Rhodesia and professed to see as a danger to African nationalism British plans to transfer 100 planes to the Southern Rhodesia government.

But Britain maintains that Southern Rhodesia has been a self-governing territory for 40 years and London cannot interfere with domestic developments there.

These included adoption of a constitution in 1961 which paved the way for election of a white settler government representing about 300,000 Europeans to dominate three million African.

Woman Dies As Victim Of Her Own Plot

VACAVILLE, Calif. (UPI) — A suburban housewife apparently shot and killed her husband and ex-husband, police said Friday, then died "a victim of her own plot" when her house exploded.

Police Chief James Lhman told the bizarre story, pieced together from evidence found in the debris after the blast and from interviews with neighbors of Air Force T. Sgt. Pedro Montano, 35, and his wife, Georgia, 38.

The explosion occurred shortly after noon Thursday. It blasted windows and doors out of the Montano home and lifted the building six inches, according to witnesses.

Montano's body was found under a pile of burned sheets and blankets in his bedroom. The body of Mrs. Montano's ex-husband, Henry H. White, 45, Brentwood, was found inside the shattered house. Both men had been shot in the head.

WORE BEATNIK GARB

More Hecklers Forcibly Thrown Out Of Hearing

WASHINGTON (AP) — Weeping college girls and youths in beatnik garb were hauled screaming and shouting from a House hearing room Friday in a violent windup of two days of excitement on Capitol Hill.

While members of the House Committee on Un-American Activities questioned youthful Americans who defied a State Department ban and went to Cuba, black police wagons — sirens wailing — hauled off five young people who noisily protested the inquiry.

They were all released after being held briefly.

NEW VIOLENCE

And, as the hearing neared its end, new violence exploded inside the ornate House caucus room.

Thirteen demonstrators — some of them shrieking as police held their arms behind them—were carried from the room after they applauded defiant criticism of the committee by a girl who made the Cuban journey.

It was the third—and by far the toughest—show of police force in the hearing room itself.

One girl was lugged off hand and foot by four officers. Another girl squirmed loose and fell to the floor.

"Let them alone, let them alone," shouted others in the hearing room—packed by some 300 spectators, newsmen and two dozen visiting congressmen.

At the main entrance to the big House Office Building, across Independence Avenue from the Capitol, police literally threw out the demonstrators.

Some of them tumbled over and over, down the long marble stairway to the sidewalk.

One of the final witnesses was Catherine Prensky, 20, a student at City College of New York.

She told the committee, "socialism is the way to end racism and under socialism we can have congressmen who are truly representative and who are not elected because Negroes are not allowed to vote."

A storm of applause burst out, and Chairman Edwin E. Willis, D-La., ordered police to remove the demonstrators.

Earlier, police tossed dozens of young demonstrators out of the building at the start of the afternoon session. Five of them were hauled away in patrol wagons.

Four of the 59 who went to Cuba on June 25 and returned two weeks ago were questioned during the troubled windup session.

When it was over, Willis told newsmen he believes the demonstrations were Communist-inspired.

"Of course I do," he said when a reporter asked whether he thinks Communists were behind the distrubances.

U.S. Carries Out 2 Nuclear Tests

NEVADA TEST SITE (UPI) — Two underground nuclear explosions, one of which may have been as large as a million tons of TNT, were set off here Friday, jarring buildings as far away as Las Vegas, 60 miles to the southeast.

Some structures in downtown Las Vegas shook for 15 minutes, shaking some people so hard that one said "I felt like I was getting sea-sick."

The Atomic Energy Commission said one of the shots was of low yield and the other of intermediate power. Intermediate means the resultant explosion ranged from 20 kilotons to one megaton. A megaton is equal to one million tons of TNT.

NO REPORTS

There were no reports of damage in Las Vegas and when the 10 a.m. (PDT) vibration occurred, it was thought to be an earthquake. The AEC said it set off the intermediate blast at "about 10 a.m. PDT."

Dr. Charles Richter of California Institute of Technology in Pasadena, Calif., which originally detected the apparent earth temblor, said seismographic studies were being made to establish the relation of the blast to the "earthquake" record.

The University of California at Berkeley said it registered "a fairly strong" disturbance in southern Nevada beginning at 10:01 a.m. PDT and continuing for 15 minutes.

Technicians said the quake may have reached a magnitude of six or seven on the Richter scale, but that an exact figure was not immediately computed.

Washington Wig Boom Hits Snag

WASHINGTON (AP) — The wig boom in Washington has busted wide open.

The nation's capital reputedly is the hottest wig city in the country, but the heat is on the wig shops.

Three investigations are under way, a fourth in prospect. Forty-four collection suits are pending against as many defaulting wig-wearers. Countersuits have been filed against wig-sellers.

Some women who paid for fine European hair have complained they got cheaper, and coarser, Oriental hair. Some say they got yak hair. ONE got red spots on her head, she said.

The telephoned complaints of women who sought allure and found disilluion have kept one clerk busy full-time all week at the city's license office. Another full-time staffer at the Better Business Bureau is handling wigs only.

A spring and summer phenomenon was the blossoming of at least 20 new wig stores on favored shopping streets.

Wigs were selling like used cars, and for a reason. A contingent from the used-car lots had moved into the wig business and made it hum.

The three investigations in progress are by the Federal Trade Commission, the Better Business Bureau of Metropolitan Washington, and the D.C. Department of Licenses and Inspections.

Licensing officials will meet Sept. 18 with a delegation of licensed hairdressers and beauticians, who are demanding that the wig stores be licensed and regulated.

An FTC spokesman said Friday his agency is "looking into a number of wig matter," especially the use of the word "free" in wig ads.

The BBB said it has warned one company repeatedly to stop advertising that its wigs are "free." To get the "free" wig, said the

Claims GOP Can Defeat JFK In 1964 Election

BARTLESVILLE, Okla. (AP) — Talking like a man who would like to try, Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona said Friday that Republicans can win in 1964 if they offer a "clear-cut choice" to President Kennedy.

Goldwater, a conservative possibility for his party's presidential nomination although not an announced candidate, said in a speech prepared for the Republican Men's Club that no "Little Sir Echo" nominee will do.

SOUND POLICIES

He criticized GOP members he said advocate offering "the warmed-over, watered-down arguments of the Democrats," and said this would deny the American people "the clear-cut choice they want."

"The Republicans can and must offer this nation a choice when any of our candidates go before the electorate," he said. "We must offer the chance for sound policies here at home and for freedom around the world. We don't want to be known as Little Sir Echo. We want real Republican voices and choices to be heard.

"Those who would put chains on that choice do not serve Republican principles; they serve only liberal Democratic objectives of spending and spending to elect and elect."

The chains he was talking about, Goldwater said, would be applied by those who argue "that the Republican party should soft-pedal its efforts in the South because a determined effort in that area might give the party a racist tinge and cost our candidates votes in the metropolitan areas of the North."

Without naming either New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, a potential nomination rival, or Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., Goldwater said that "some people advise the Republican party to aim almost exclusively at the big city vote and would have us practically renounce the South."

"They hint darkly that we were subordinating the party to segregationists when we picked up a few House seats south of the Mason-Dixon line in 1962. This, of course, is completely and transparently untrue," Goldwater said.

"Not one of the Southern Republican members of the House or Senate has ever campaigned on racial issues, whereas almost without exception their Democrat opponents have.

Bandits Break Window, Stage Store Robbery

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. — (UPI) — Two men wearing padded jump suits, helmets and masks crashed bodily through the windows of a jewelry store Friday night, quickly scooped up between $100,000 and $200,000 worth of gems, and escaped in a car and a speed boat.

Police said the robbers fired shots from the rear window of their getaway car at a couple in a sports car who witnessed the robbery and tried to follow the bandits. A bullet in the pursuing car's radiator quickly ended the chase without injury, police said.

A police spokesman said the robbery was at the Leonard Taylor jewelry store here. Another store of the same chain was robbed of $1.7 million in jewels about a year ago, also by bandits who used a boat — but who were captured.

Police said three and perhaps four men in all were involved, including a getaway car driver and driver and possibly a pilot waiting in the boat.

The spokesman said the boat moved so quickly that by the time police knew what had happened, it was several miles south of the city roaring down the intracoastal waterway.

No Indictment In Moore Case

GADSDEN, Ala. (AP) — The Etowah County grand jury returned a no-bill Friday in the case of a man charged in the death of a Baltimore freedom walker.

The jury did not indict Floyd Simpson, who was charged with first degree murder in the ambush slaying of William L. Moore April 24.

Moore, a postman, was walking from Chattanooga, Tenn., to discuss racial moderation with Mississippi Gov. Ross Barnett at Jackson.

One Negro was on the 18-man jury panel.

Right Given Under Treaty Signed In '59

WASHINGTON (AP)— The United States served notice Friday it will carry out an inspection of bases in Antarctica — including the four maintained by the Soviet Union — between November and March.

The inspection right is given under a 1959 treaty which bound the United States and 11 other nations to use Antarctica only for peaceful purposes.

NO VIOLATION

The State Department said in a statement that the formal inspection "is not based on any anticipation that there have been treaty violations. Indeed the United States believes that any inspection will in fact reinforce the basis of mutual confidence that prevails in Antarctica."

The statement said the United States has advised the other treaty nations that it would welcome an inspection of U.S. bases.

The United States has informed the 11 other powers which signed the 1959 antarctica treaty of its intention to carry out on-site inspections.

U.S. officials refused to say whether there had been any formal objections raised, but indicated that there were. However, the objections apparently are not serious enough to prevent the operation from going forward.

Officials here emphasized that the United States has no reason to believe there have been any violations of treaty provisions limiting the use of bases to peaceful purposes but is exercising its right to make such a determination through inspection.

There are 36 principal stations maintained in the antarctica by treaty agreement.

Frost, Snow Hit In Areas Over Nation

By United Press International

Freezing temperatures and frost nipped the northern Midwest Friday and light snow fell near Limestone, Maine.

The Mercury dipped to 23 above at Ironwood, Mich., and 25 at Ashland, Wis.

Frost blanketed sections of Minnesota, Wisconsin and Michigan, and the 33-degree reading at Madison, in southern Wisconsin, was the lowest ever recorded there on Sept. 13.

GUSTY WINDS

Gusty winds up to 42 miles an hour and chilling rains accompanied the cold front as the nation's mid-section got its first sampling of autumn weather.

Fog and intermittent rain impeded rescue efforts after a Navy launch capsized in wind - swept Long Island sound. Twenty sailors plunged into the cold water were rescued or reached safety. A search was continued for one missing man.

The weatherman waxed poetic as the cold front speared across the midwest and northeast.

Weathermen said that a warming trend was moving slowly eastward from the northern Plains to the upper Great Lakes. Showers and thundershowers broke out from the north Atlantic Coast southwestward to the southern Plains and Gulf Coast.

Rains up to 5 inches washed sections of Texas.

Low temperatures in the Midwest included 28 at Rhinelander, Wis., and Traverse City, Mich.; 29 at Park Falls, Wis., and 30 at Eau Claire, Wis., and Duluth, Minn. It was a freezing 32 at Stevens Point, Wis., and Houghton, Mich.

Area To Enjoy Mild Weather

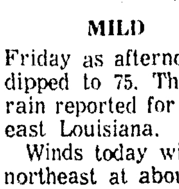
As the weatherman gets into the habit of forecasting cooler weather, the mercury is scheduled to rise only into the low 80s today. Clouds will once more dot the skies in the Monroe area but no rain was forecast. Tonight's low will be in the 60-65 range for the fifth time this month.



MILD

Friday's rain in the Twin Cities totaled only .87 inches but helped keep the mid-morning heat to a minimum. The Winnfield area received 1.34 inches of rain Friday as afternoon temperatures dipped to 75. This was the most rain reported for Friday in North-east Louisiana.

Winds today will blow from the northeast at about 5 to 15 m.p.h. Sunday will continue partly cloudy but a bit warmer.

IN BIRMINGHAM

U.S. Threatens 'Prosecution'

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Persistant angry protests against school integration in Birmingham brought a warning Friday of possible federal prosecution.

White students continued to boycott newly desegregated schools here and at Tuskegee, although attendance was higher than Thursday.

Teen-age demonstrators, shouting rebel yells and waving anti-Negro placards and Confederate flags, tried again to get students in still-segregated school to join in a sympathy walkout. The effort fell flat for the most part.

NO INCIDENT

In Huntsville and Mobile, where racial barriers also fell recently under federal court orders, Negro and white students went to class together again without incident.

The scene in Mobile was peaceful in contrast to Thursday's demonstration which resulted in arrest of 54 students.

A spokesman for the anti-Negro National States Rights party said he and three of his aides have been subpoenaed by a specially convened U.S. grand jury meeting here next Monday.

Dr. Edward R. Fields, the party's information director and editor of the party's publication, "The Thunderbolt," pledged to continue a campaign "to establish white private schools."

A statement from the office of U.S. attorney Macon L. Weaver said the grand jury was called to determine if anyone has unlawfully tried to obstruct federal court school desegregation orders.

The grand jury also is expected to investigate recent bombings of Negro homes.

OUTSIDE OF BODY

Doctors Keep Brain From Monkey Alive

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — A team of Cleveland doctors reported Friday that after several years of work they have succeeded in keeping a monkey's brain alive for several hours outside the animal's body.

Dr. Robert J. White, chief of neurosurgery at Metropolitan General Hospital, said the monkey's brain, when hooked up by plastic tubes to an oxygenating machine in his experiments, has the appearance of a living, functioning organism.

Brain waves recorded on electronic equipment and measurements of the use of oxygen and sugar by the brain are indications that the organ continues to function, he said.

Working with Dr. White in the experiments were Drs. Javier Verdura and Maurice S. Albin. Their work is being reported in Science, the magazine of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, in a forthcoming issue.

Dr. White said rhesus monkeys were used in initial experiments, and the detached brains were first hooked up by plastic tubes to an artery and vein in the groin of a "donor" monkey. The live donor monkey thus pumped blood to the brain and purified the blood returning from the brain.

Using a donor monkey, "we kept a brain alive for 12 hours," said Dr. White. Using an oxygenator filled with blood the doctors were able to keep a brain alive for four hours, he added. The oxygenator provides the oxygen needed by the brain and removes carbon monoxide. But it does not remove other harmful waste products.

The doctor said the development demonstrated that it might be possible to keep the brain of an injured human alive while surgeons worked on other parts of the body.

GOP Discounts Tax Cut Saving For Workers

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Republicans asserted Friday a tax cut proposed in an administration - backed bill awaiting House action would amount to only "cigarette money" for the average wage earner.

Nine of the 10 GOP members of the Ways and Means Committee charged also in a minority report that an amendment proposed by the Treasury Department would result in a $4.4-billion windfall to big business over the next 10 years.

The 10th Republican, Rep. Howard H. Baker of Tennessee, did not sign the report.

The committee approved the bill early this week after months of hearings. It is scheduled for House debate starting Sept. 24.

The Republicans said they oppose a tax cut at this time and called the measure "an integral part of an over-all fiscal program of planned deficits—a tax cut on borrowed money."

"A tax cut of more than $11 billion with no hope of a balanced budget for the foreseeable future, is both morally and fiscally wrong," they asserted.

The Republicans rejected what they called "President Kennedy's claim that planned deficits will produce economic prosperity."

SOUND POLICIES

He criticized GOP members he said advocate offering "the warmed-over, watered-down arguments of the Democrats," and said this would deny the American people "the clear-cut choice they want."

"The Republicans can and must offer this nation a choice when any of our candidates go before the electorate," he said. "We must offer the chance for sound policies here at home and for freedom around the world. We don't want to be known as Little Sir Echo. We want real Republican voices and choices to be heard.

"Those who would put chains on that choice do not serve Republican principles; they serve only liberal Democratic objectives of spending and spending to elect and elect."

The chains he was talking about, Goldwater said, would be applied by those who argue "that the Republican party should soft-pedal its efforts in the South because a determined effort in that area might give the party a racist tinge and cost our candidates votes in the metropolitan areas of the North."

Without naming either New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, a potential nomination rival, or Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., Goldwater said that "some people advise the Republican party to aim almost exclusively at the big city vote and would have us practically renounce the South."

"They hint darkly that we were subordinating the party to segregationists when we picked up a few House seats south of the Mason-Dixon line in 1962. This, of course, is completely and transparently untrue," Goldwater said.

"Not one of the Southern Republican members of the House or Senate has ever campaigned on racial issues, whereas almost without exception their Democrat opponents have.

Bandits Break Window, Stage Store Robbery

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. — (UPI) — Two men wearing padded jump suits, helmets and masks crashed bodily through the windows of a jewelry store Friday night, quickly scooped up between $100,000 and $200,000 worth of gems, and escaped in a car and a speed boat.

Police said the robbers fired shots from the rear window of their getaway car at a couple in a sports car who witnessed the robbery and tried to follow the bandits. A bullet in the pursuing car's radiator quickly ended the chase without injury, police said.

A police spokesman said the robbery was at the Leonard Taylor jewelry store here. Another store of the same chain was robbed of $1.7 million in jewels about a year ago, also by bandits who used a boat — but who were captured.

Police said three and perhaps four men in all were involved, including a getaway car driver and driver and possibly a pilot waiting in the boat.

The spokesman said the boat moved so quickly that by the time police knew what had happened, it was several miles south of the city roaring down the intracoastal waterway.

No Indictment In Moore Case

GADSDEN, Ala. (AP) — The Etowah County grand jury returned a no-bill Friday in the case of a man charged in the death of a Baltimore freedom walker.

The jury did not indict Floyd Simpson, who was charged with first degree murder in the ambush slaying of William L. Moore April 24.

Moore, a postman, was walking from Chattanooga, Tenn., to discuss racial moderation with Mississippi Gov. Ross Barnett at Jackson.

One Negro was on the 18-man jury panel.

U. S. Sets Inspection Of Russian, Other Bases In Antarctica

Right Given Under Treaty Signed In '59

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States served notice Friday it will carry out an inspection of bases in Antarctica — including the four maintained by the Soviet Union — between November and March.

The inspection right is given under a 1959 treaty which bound the United States and 11 other nations to use Antarctica only for peaceful purposes.

NO VIOLATION

The State Department said in a statement that the formal inspection "is not based on any anticipation that there have been treaty violations. Indeed the United States believes that any inspection will in fact reinforce the basis of mutual confidence that prevails in Antarctica."

The statement said the United States has advised the other treaty nations that it would welcome an inspection of U.S. bases.

The United States has informed the 11 other powers which signed the 1959 antarctica treaty of its intention to carry out on-site inspections.

U.S. officials refused to say whether there had been any formal objections raised, but indicated that there were. However, the objections apparently are not serious enough to prevent the operation from going forward.

Officials here emphasized that the United States has no reason to believe there have been any violations of treaty provisions limiting the use of bases to peaceful purposes but is exercising its right to make such a determination through inspection.

There are 36 principal stations maintained in the antarctica by treaty agreement.

Frost, Snow Hit In Areas Over Nation

By United Press International

Freezing temperatures and frost nipped the northern Midwest Friday and light snow fell near Limestone, Maine.

The Mercury dipped to 23 above at Ironwood, Mich., and 25 at Ashland, Wis.

Frost blanketed sections of Minnesota, Wisconsin and Michigan, and the 33-degree reading at Madison, in southern Wisconsin, was the lowest ever recorded there on Sept. 13.

GUSTY WINDS

Gusty winds up to 42 miles an hour and chilling rains accompanied the cold front as the nation's mid-section got its first sampling of autumn weather.

Fog and intermittent rain impeded rescue efforts after a Navy launch capsized in wind - swept Long Island sound. Twenty sailors plunged into the cold water were rescued or reached safety. A search was continued for one missing man.

The weatherman waxed poetic as the cold front speared across the midwest and northeast.

Weathermen said that a warming trend was moving slowly eastward from the northern Plains to the upper Great Lakes. Showers and thundershowers broke out from the north Atlantic Coast southwestward to the southern Plains and Gulf Coast.

Rains up to 5 inches washed sections of Texas.

Low temperatures in the Midwest included 28 at Rhinelander, Wis., and Traverse City, Mich.; 29 at Park Falls, Wis., and 30 at Eau Claire, Wis., and Duluth, Minn. It was a freezing 32 at Stevens Point, Wis., and Houghton, Mich.

Area To Enjoy Mild Weather

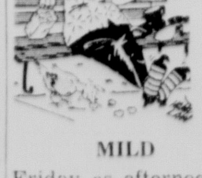
As the weatherman gets into the habit of forecasting cooler weather, the mercury is scheduled to rise only into the low 80s today. Clouds will once more dot the skies in the Monroe area but no rain was forecast. Tonight's low will be in the 60-65 range for the fifth time this month.



MILD

Friday's rain in the Twin Cities totaled only .87 inches but helped keep the mid-morning heat to a minimum. The Winnfield area received 1.34 inches of rain Friday as afternoon temperatures dipped to 75. This was the most rain reported for Friday in Northeast Louisiana.

Winds today will blow from the northeast at about 5 to 15 m.p.h. Sunday will continue partly cloudy but a bit warmer.

IN BIRMINGHAM

U.S. Threatens 'Prosecution'

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Persistant angry protests against school integration in Birmingham brought a warning Friday of possible federal prosecution.

White students continued to boycott newly desegregated schools here and at Tuskegee, although attendance was higher than Thursday.

Teen-age demonstrators, shouting rebel yells and waving anti-Negro placards and Confederate flags, tried again to get students in still-segregated school to join in a sympathy walkout. The effort fell flat for the most part.

NO INCIDENT

In Huntsville and Mobile, where racial barriers also fell recently under federal court orders, Negro and white students went to class together again without incident.

The scene in Mobile was peaceful in contrast to Thursday's demonstration which resulted in arrest of 54 students.

A spokesman for the anti-Negro National States Rights party said he and three of his aides have been subpoenaed by a specially convened U.S. grand jury meeting here next Monday.

Dr. Edward R. Fields, the party's information director and editor of the party's publication, "The Thunderbolt," pledged to continue a campaign "to establish white private schools."

A statement from the office of U.S. attorney Macon L. Weaver said the grand jury was called to determine if anyone has unlawfully tried to obstruct federal court school desegregation orders.

The grand jury also is expected to investigate recent bombings of Negro homes.

Will Russians Abide By Test Ban Treaty?

Will the Russians live up to the test ban treaty if it is approved by the U.S. Senate? This is the question that is puzzling most Americans.

Turn to the editorial page in today's World and read the Allen-Scott report. These two inquiring reporters have learned that the Russians were conducting atmospheric nuclear tests before and during the Moscow talks on the ban. In fact, intelligence data has convinced scientists that the Russians tested a new type of "clean" weapon, probably a warhead for their anti-missile missile — something this nation hasn't accomplished as yet.

OUTSIDE OF BODY

Doctors Keep Brain From Monkey Alive

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — A team of Cleveland doctors reported Friday that after several years of work they have succeeded in keeping a monkey's brain alive for several hours outside the animal's body.

Dr. Robert J. White, chief of neurosurgery at Metropolitan General Hospital, said the monkey's brain, when hooked up by plastic tubes to an oxygenating machine in his experiments, has the appearance of a living, functioning organism.

Brain waves recorded on electronic equipment and measurements of the use of oxygen and sugar by the brain are indications that the organ continues to function, he said.

Working with Dr. White in the experiments were Drs. Javier Verdura and Maurice S. Albin. Their work is being reported in Science, the magazine of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, in a forthcoming issue.

Dr. White said rhesus monkeys were used in initial experiments, and the detached brains were first hooked up by plastic tubes to an artery and vein in the groin of a "donor" monkey. The live donor monkey thus pumped blood to the brain and purified the blood returning from the brain.

Using a donor monkey, "we kept a brain alive for 12 hours," said Dr. White. Using an oxygenator filled with blood the doctors were able to keep a brain alive for four hours, he added. The oxygenator provides the oxygen needed by the brain and removes carbon monoxide. But it does not remove other harmful waste products.

The doctor said the development demonstrated that it might be possible to keep the brain of an injured human alive while surgeons worked on other parts of the body.

GOP Discounts Tax Cut Saving For Workers

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Republicans asserted Friday a tax cut proposed in an administration - backed bill awaiting House action would amount to only "cigarette money" for the average wage earner.

Nine of the 10 GOP members of the Ways and Means Committee charged also in a minority report that an amendment proposed by the Treasury Department would result in a $4.4-billion windfall to big business over the next 10 years.

The 10th Republican, Rep. Howard H. Baker of Tennessee, did not sign the report.

The committee approved the bill early this week after months of hearings. It is scheduled for House debate starting Sept. 24.

The Republicans said they oppose a tax cut at this time and called the measure "an integral part of an over-all fiscal program of planned deficits—a tax cut on borrowed money."

"A tax cut of more than $11 billion with no hope of a balanced budget for the foreseeable future, is both morally and fiscally wrong," they asserted.

The Republicans rejected what they called "President Kennedy's claim that planned deficits will produce economic prosperity."

"Past experience," they added, "shows that deficits produce the opposite result."

Is U. S. District Judge Gordon West of Baton Rouge a law partner or former law partner of U. S. Sen. Russell B. Long?

Judge West and Sen. Long were law partners in Baton Rouge in 1946-47.

What is the population of Louisiana?

Louisiana's population, according to the 1960 census, is 3,257,022. Of this figure, 2,060,606 live in urban areas.

Is there any particular ethnic classification of the child of a Caucasian father and a half-Indian mother?

As far as can be determined, there is no different designation. Since the child would be one-quarter Indian and three-quarters Caucasian, the offspring would be considered Caucasian.

I have a meteor which fell in my field about six years ago. Is it worth anything?

We suggest that you write to: Curator, Louisiana State Museum, Fairgrounds, Shreveport, La. He could give you the information and would be interested.

Following are three questions compiled into one. What are the values of "V" or liberty type, nickels dated 1896, 1898, 1988, 1911 and 1900? An 1873 liberty quarter; arrows are at the date and each letter on the shield is plainly readable? An 1841 half dime? Two Indian head pennies dated 1882, 1904?

Concerning the "V" nickels, the 1896 coin is worth a little bit more than the others and would bring between $3 or $4 if it were in good condition, Marvin L. Phillips, a Monroe coin dealer, said. The other dates, 1898, 1899, 1911 and 1900 are all of a more common variety and would bring around 25 cents in good condition retail, Phillips said.

The 1873 liberty quarter would sell for around $15 retail in good condition. However, if each letter on the shield is plainly readable, this might raise it into the class of fine condition, Phillips said. If so, the coin would be worth around $25 retail.

An 1841 half dime is one of the more plentiful coins of this type with about 1,100,000 being minted. If it were in good condition, the coin would be worth about $4 retail, Phillips said.

Indian head pennies minted in 1882 would be worth about $1 retail in good condition. A 1904 Indian head penny would bring about 25 cents in good condition, Phillips said.

Under laws of the state of Louisiana, does a wife have any property rights? If so, what are they?

According to local legal authorities, a wife does have property rights in Lousiana, but since an explanation of them would entail considerable involvement, we suggest you consult an attorney for a detailed explanation of community property.

I understand by your papers that Midwest Dairy's bid was low on furnishing milk to the Ouachita Parish schools. Why didn't they get the contract? I also understand that had their bid been accepted it would have saved the parish thousands of dollars over the nine-month period. It couldn't have been due to the fact that Midwest is an out of parish concern, as the bread business went to Sunbeam, out of Shreveport.

Parish School Supt. Milton Hall says that acceptance of Midwest's bid of six and one-tenths cent on half pint cartons could not have saved the parish one penny, since it is one-tenth of a cent more than the six cents being paid by the parish for the half-pint bottles being bought. Bids on the cartons, on which Midwest was low (other concerns bid six and one-fourth cents), are taken only because some schools prefer cartons when they cost the same as bottles. The Midwest price on bottles was six cents, identical with every bid received. The reason they were not invited to share in this business, according to Hall, is the fact that their bid contained the stipulation that they desired the business of all parish schools or none. Since the bids were all the same, the business was divided, rather than given to a single firm.

If Lawrence Gibbs is re-elected to the House of Representatives, how much will his yearly pension be if he serves the next four years? If he is now 41 years old, how much will he receive before he is 65 years old?

The answer to both questions is nothing, according to Mr. Beeker who administers legislative retirement. Rep. Gibbs is now in his second term in the State Legislature. If he serves one more term, his total service will be 12 years. Under the recently passed legislative retirement act, a legislator must serve 16 years before he is eligible for pension benefits. Age in this case is not a factor. The question, then, does not apply to Rep. Gibbs.

How did Rep. Lawrence Gibbs and Rep. Mike John Jr. vote on the retirement act in the session of the legislature this year?

Both Ouachita Parish representatives voted "no" on the proposal which later was passed by both houses.

How many states still use the electric chair? Has research work been done on the rehabilitation of people who have been released after they were convicted for the crime of murder? In other words, are they a good risk to reinstate in society?

Twenty-two states still use the electric chair for executions. Twelve use the gas chamber, seven hanging and one shooting. A parole office spokesman said that research for rehabilitation of prisoners is an over-all program and ex-murderers must be considered good risks or they would not be released. A parole office said his own experience has shown that ex-murderers are better risks against repeating crimes than the habitual criminal of larceny and thefts because in many cases the crime of murder resulted from a temporary and isolated conditino. He said he has more cooperation and less trouble with these parolees assigned to him than the person who has committed two or three crimes of robber. The person's prison record plays the big part in his freedom—an indication he is interested in rehabilitation, the parole officer said.

How would a person refinish an antique bed made of cherry wood?

Ellis Doyle Herron, director of the Natural History Museum of Little Rock, gives the following advice: The first step is to apply a paint remover. There are several commercial pastes on the market for this purpose. It may be necessary to make several applications to remove all the old paint or varnish. Hard scraping of the surface would remove the patina (the crust that forms on aged wood). Once this has been done, you are ready for the second step, washing the old paint off. This should be done with wool alcohol, not water or anything containing water, because water opens the pores on wood. Next, rub over the surface lightly with a double-nought steel wool pad. Now you are ready for the refinishing. There are two ways to treat cherry wood. The recommended one is to use a machine oil, such as sewing machine oil, then wax the surface with several applications of a beeswax suspended in turpentine. This type wax can be bought retail. You should rub down the surface after each application. Another way to refinish cherry wood is to take two parts of alcohol and one part of shellac, apply the mixture thinly and let dry thoroughly. There should be three to five applications and a rub down after each application with double - nought steel wool.

Monroe Club Told About Outer Space

An educator who specilizes in the study of space declared here Friday that getting a man on the moon was minor in comparsion with the chanllenge of exploring outer space.

Robert Manning, assistant superintendent of Webster Parish, told the Monroe Optimist Club that the biggest problem with exploring space was the distance of the planets.

"There may be 10 billion planets in outer space that are inhabited," he said. "That is entirely problematical."

But he said that United States should have a man on the moon probably by 1970, since the program is behind schedule. It's costing the American taxpayer $10 million daily, he added.

Because of the finances, Manning said the Russians are slowing up in its race to the moon, adding, "They may not be able to do it economically."

He said getting a man on the moon was a Model T project compared to exploring space.

"Von Braun, the scientist, had the theory 40 years ago, but we didn't get into the race until it became competitive," Manning said.

In his opinion, Manning said the last orbit shot should not have been made, because the capsule that astronaut Scott Cooper manned was not designed to do what it did.

"Remember there was an electrical failure?," he asked. "Only by the grace of God and that man's great ability was he saved."

Manning noted that the Saturn booster to be built at New Orleans was small when compared to the space vehicles that will developed later.

But because of its power, the government is clearing 7,000 acres in Mississippi, because "just the sound from it could flatten towns," he explained.

Negro Children Perish In Fire At Rural Home

STAFFORD, Va. (AP)— Five Negro children in one family died in a fire which destroyed their rural home Friday. A sixth child is missing.

The victims, from 1 to 9 years old, were among the 10 children of Mr. and Mrs. James Baker, who were away from home. Four other children were in school.

Identities of the victims were unavailable immediately.

A helicopter crew from the nearby Quantico Marine Schools spotted the flames coming from the one-story, frame five-room house and relayed the alarm. The area is sparsely settled.

The Bakers has just purchased a new home a mile away and had begun moving some of their possessions.

Negro Retires As Candidate

CROSSETT (Special) — A Negro, Howard Johnson, of Crossett, has withdrawn as a candidate for the Crossett School Board. Johnson had announced his candidacy last month.

Johnson said he was withdrawing from the race because his wife is now employed by the school district as a teacher at the T. W. Daniel school and would have to surrender her job if he were to be elected.

He stated that when he filed for office he had not been aware of the law that prohibits close relatives of school board members working for the school system.

Franklin Bond Election Slated

WINNSBORO (Special) — Franklin Parish School Board voted to call a bond election for $285,000 for District Ward No. 1 at Wisner.

The money will be used to erect and equip a high school and gymnasium at Wisner.

Election date was set for December 3.

In other business, the board at the Friday meeting, awarded the contract for butane service to the schools which used this type of gas to Cordill Butane Co. of Winnsboro for a cost of 9.7 cents per gallon, which was the low bid received.

Baptist Minister Criticizes Board

SHREVEPORT, La. (AP) — A Shreveport Baptist minister criticized the Southern Baptist Sunday School Board today for its refusal to take a stand on segregation.

The Rev. A. C. Lawton said he wrote the board:

"I do not respect your middle of the road policy. It is the position Pilate took at Jesus' trial."

The minister's statement followed a letter from the board advising him that the board "does not take a position either for or against integration."

The exchange started with the minister's criticism of an article in the Baptist Training Union magazine describing a midwestern college student's reaction to desegregation in her church.

Waves Sink Navy Launch; 1 Missing

PORT JEFFERSON, N.Y. (UPI) — Three big waves swamped a Navy liberty launch causing it to capsize before dawn today pitching the 21 sailors aboard into the chilly waters of Long Island Sound. Helicopters and rescue boats picked up 20 men and one was missing and presumed drowned.

The Navy said the missing man was Torpedoman Third Class James Lee Vice, 20, whose father Lorin Carl Vice lives in San Pedro, Calif.

The launch was returning the men to the U.S.S. Hazelwood after a night ashore. It overturned less than 300 yards from the destroyer which was anchored about 1,300 yards off Port Jefferson.

Darkness, fog and intermittent rain hampered the search. Temperatures plunged to 46 degrees, the coldest on record for this date.

Fifteen sailors had to cling to the overturned fiberglass launch for two hours before they drifted close enough to shore to stand on the gently sloping sandy bottom of the sound. Three managed to swim to the ship and two others were picked up by the Hazelwood's other launch.

"Three big waves broke over the bow . . . and it just turned over," said Chief Machinists Mate Ralph L. Nelson, a veteran of 24 years in the Navy.

Coxswain John Getshell of Portland, Ore., the pilot of the launch, swam to the Hazelwood for help.

"He had a lot of guts, especially for a guy who just got married," said Roy Witz, 22, Richfield, Minn., one of the men who stayed with the boat.

The 26-foot launch, which pulled away from a Port Jefferson pier at 2:20 a.m. EDT, was equipped with "flotation chambers" to prevent it from sinking even if it filled with water or overturned.

"We stayed in the water about two hours, drifting to shore," Nelson said. "Most of the men held out pretty good. There was absolutely no panic. I was washed off once, but got back to the boat."

Gradually, the 18 to 20 mile per hour wind tossing up the waves pushed the launch toward shore. As soon as the men could stand on the bottom, they waded ashore and covered themselves with a piece of canvas from the launch.

About 30 minutes later, a Coast Guard helicopter from Floyd Bennett Field in Brooklyn piloted by Lt. John Wypick showed up.

Garment Firm In Area Sparks Survey Of Labor

BASTROP (Special) — A labor survey is being conducted to determine the available work force for a garment factory interested in locating here.

The survey is being made by the Bastrop Chamber of Commerce and Industry and the Louisiana Division of Employment Security of the area within a 35-mile radius of Bastrop.

Women between the ages of 17-45 who are interested in this line of work may apply at the employment office here or the Chamber of Commerce, located at 204 Franklin.

No details were given on the firm involved, but plans were that a possible 500 persons may be employed if the factory is opened.

Police Search For 2 'Polite' Bank Robbers

COUNCE, Tenn. (AP) —Police pressed a hunt for two "very polite" bandits who held up the Citizens branch bank of Counce Friday and fled with about $5,000.

Mrs. Jane Sharp, teller and the only one on duty in the bank at the time, said that while one of the men attempted to cash a check, the other pushed his way into her cage.

"He stuck a gun at her and demanded that she give him all the money in the bank," Sheriff Con D. Seaton said. She put the cash in a paper sack handed her by the gunman.

Mrs. Sharp said the men were trying to tape her wrists after taking the money when a car drove up and they fled.

"They told me to keep quiet and I wouldn't get hurt," she said. "I kept real, real quiet."

Mrs. Sharp said the men treated her gentle and were "very polite."

Police said it was believed the holdup men headed for Mississippi after the robbery.

B. W. WATSON

Watson To Seek Ward 5 Police Jury Position

B. W. (Bill) Watson, a farmer-businessman, has announced his candidacy for the Ouachita Parish Police Jury from Ward 5 in the first Democratic primary December 7th.

Ward 5 will elect four jurors.

Watson is a lifelong resident of Ouachita Parish.

He issued the following statement:

"I've been a resident of Ward 5 for the past 25 years, and am deeply interested in the continued growth and prosperity of Ouachita Parish and Ward 5.

"I am a firm believer in and definitely recognize that strong local self-government is the keystone for progress in Ouachita Parish.

"If elected, I pledge to citizens of Ward 5 to represent them in a dignified and business-like manner, recognizing that economy in all levels of government must be practiced to achieve financial stability."

Freshmen Co-Ed Activities Are Being Planned

RUSTON (Special) — Members of the Associated Women Students at Louisiana Tech, assuming the early bird role, already are on the campus in the midst of a nine-day workshop designed to plan activities for freshman girls who will enter the fall semester here next week.

Among events on the AWS calendar are a program for freshman coed advisers, the annual student life convocation, the traditional capping ceremony and visits to freshman girls in order to orient them to dormitory life.

For the approximately 500 beginning girls expected to enroll at Tech, the AWS board has assigned more than 140 advisers. Chosen to guide the newcomers are upperclassmen who will conduct them through registration and Freshman Week and serve as advisers in times of need throughout their college years.

At the advisers' training session, slated to begin with a convocation at 11 a.m. Saturday, the coeds will be coached by AWS board members on the best ways to help the freshman girls. Advisers will be divided into groups, with AWS board members as leaders. Discussions concerning problems of freshman girls and the introduction of college rules are scheduled.

To provide advisers with answers to questions commonly asked by new students, speakers will talk on regulations, ways of financing a college education and scholarships in two afternoon meetings Saturday.

Freshmen will begin arriving at Tech Sunday afternoon.

Two AWS sponsored events planned for Tuesday are the Student life assembly at 9 a.m. in Howard Auditorium and the capping ceremony at 7:30 p.m.

The student life convocation will feature speakers whose topics will cover a variety of aspects of Tech campus life, including both the serious and the lighter sides. The capping rites, in which the new Tech girls will obtain their green caps, is scheduled for Dudley Circle.

Visits by AWS board members to freshman dormitories will conclude the AWS activities.

$2 PICTURES

DETROIT (AP) — It wasn't a love of art that prompted two armed men to steal 33 pictures of Thomas Jefferson from Andrew Skibowski's home in surburban Avon township.

The pictures were all alike. They were on $2 bills Skibowski had been saving for 15 years in his wallet.

SEN. HENRY JACKSON

Ban Treaty Gets Hesitant Backer

WASHINGTON (AP — The limited nuclear test-ban treaty gained an influential backer Friday when Sen. Henry M. Jackson announced he will vote for it. The Washington Democrat is considered one of the Senate's top military experts.

Jackson said "my heart is not leaping up" over the pact but with the safeguards assured to protect the nation's security "I believe that the Senate may prudently give its advice and consent to ratification."

But Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., chairman of the Senate Preparedness subcommitte, firmly maintained his opposition. He told the Senate the pact would permit the Siviet Union to "leap-frog further ahead of us" in nuclear weaponry in one, two or three years.

Sen. Milward L. Simpson, R-Wyo., announced he will vote against the treaty unless it is altered by reservations to "better respect the vital interests of the United States." He urged the Senate not to give carte blanche endorsement to what he called the pact's ambiguous language and false assurances.

Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., supporting ratification told the Senate: "It is my suggestion that we ratify this treaty, that we accept this limited hope, that we husband this single candle of reason."

After Jackson delivered his speech, Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., one of the treaty's staunchest backers, said he feels the speech would have great influence on senators who might still be undecided.

Jackson, who is a member of Stennis' Armed Services subcommittee, is chairman of the Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee's Weapons subcommittee. He had been very critical of the pact to ban all nuclear tests except underground and treaty backers had been concerned that he might oppose it.

It was Jackson who spearheaded the Senate Armed Services Committee's stand for ironclad safeguards Asked by the Joint Chiefs of Staff in backing the treaty. President Kennedy spelled out this guarantee in a letter to the Senate earlier this week.

Jackson's speech stressed the risks involved, saying there are "serious—perhaps even formidable — military and technical disadvantages."

"We must understand," he said, "what is required to protect and maintain the free world's ability to deter or survive a nuclear attack and to respond effectively againt any aggressor. We must be ready to pursue the necessary policies without reservations of mind and heart."

One of the senators still undecided, Sen. Paul H. Douglas, D-Ill., praised Jackson's speech and asked him about the effect of the treaty on the development of an antimissile missile.

Jackson replied that he is convinced that the needed U.S. development work can go ahead through underground tests, but said it is going to be more costly and difficult.

Stennis told the Senate he was very much concerned that the full impact of the Soviet test series of 1961-62 has not yet been felt. In a year or two or three, he said, the Russians may get the full benefit of the test data and "develop and produce even superior weapons."

Stennis suggested that the real reason the Russians want the treaty is to use it as a cover "to prepare again for atmospheric testing in secrecy, abrogate the treaty at their own convenience and leap-frog further ahead of us."

Simpson specifically endorsed the reservation proposed by Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., "to make the treaty contingent on Soviet troop withdrawal from Cuba." He said he might offer other reservations of his own.

Hart told the Senate that those who contend the fallout problem is not serious "seek to persuade us that genetic damage from nuclear tests thus far conducted are what they call 'statistically insignificant.'"

"Concience, after all, leads most of us to reject the thought that a single child blinded by a deadly man-made mist is very 'insignificant,'" Hart said.

Mr. Editor...
U.S. MAIL
Tell Me, Please

If you have a question you want answered, write or call "Mr. Editor, Tell Me, Please" at the Morning World and News-Star. We'll be glad to get the information and pass it on to you each Saturday in this column.

Is U. S. District Judge Gordon West of Baton Rouge a law partner or former law partner of U. S. Sen. Russell B. Long?

Judge West and Sen. Long were law partners in Baton Rouge in 1946-47.

What is the population of Louisiana?

Louisiana's population, according to the 1960 census, is 3,257,022. Of this figure, 2,060,606 live in urban areas.

Is there any particular ethnic classification of the child of a Caucasian father and a half-Indian mother?

As far as can be determined, there is no different designation. Since the child would be one-quarter Indian and three-quarters Caucasian, the offspring would be considered Caucasian.

I have a meteor which fell in my field about six years ago. Is it worth anything?

We suggest that you write to: Curator, Louisiana State Museum, Fairgrounds, Shreveport, La. He could give you the information and would be interested.

Following are three questions compiled into one. What are the values of "V" or liberty type, nickels dated 1896, 1898, 1988, 1911 and 1900? An 1873 liberty quarter; arrows are at the date and each letter on the shield is plainly readable? An 1841 half dime? Two Indian head pennies dated 1882, 1904?

Concerning the "V" nickels, the 1896 coin is worth a little bit more than the others and would bring between $3 or $4 if it were in good condition, Marvin L. Phillips, a Monroe coin dealer, said. The other dates, 1898, 1899, 1911 and 1900 are all of a more common variety and would bring around 25 cents in good condition retail, Phillips said.

The 1873 liberty quarter would sell for around $15 retail in good condition. However, if each letter on the shield is plainly readable, this might raise it into the class of fine condition, Phillips said. If so, the coin would be worth around $25 retail.

An 1841 half dime is one of the more plentiful coins of this type with about 1,100,000 being minted. If it were in good condition, the coin would be worth about $4 retail, Phillips said.

Indian head pennies minted in 1882 would be worth about $1 retail in good condition. A 1904 Indian head penny would bring about 25 cents in good condition, Phillips said.

Under laws of the state of Louisiana, does a wife have any property rights? If so, what are they?

According to local legal authorities, a wife does have property rights in Louisiana, but since an explanation of them would entail considerable involvement, we suggest you consult an attorney for a detailed explanation of community property.

I understand by your papers that Midwest Dairy's bid was low on furnishing milk to the Ouachita Parish schools. Why didn't they get the contract? I also understand that had their bid been accepted it would have saved the parish thousands of dollars over the nine-month period. It couldn't have been due to the fact that Midwest is an out of parish concern, as the bread business went to Sunbeam, out of Shreveport.

Parish School Supt. Milton Hall says that acceptance of Midwest's bid of six and one-tenths cent on half pint cartons could not have saved the parish one penny, since it is one-tenth of a cent more than the six cents being paid by the parish for the half-pint bottles being bought. Bids on the cartons, on which Midwest was low (other concerns bid six and one-fourth cents), are taken only because some schools prefer cartons when they cost the same as bottles. The Midwest price on bottles was six cents, identical with every bid received. The reason they were not invited to share in this business, according to Hall, is the fact that their bid contained the stipulation that they desired the business of all parish schools or none. Since the bids were all the same, the business was divided, rather than given to a single firm.

If Lawrence Gibbs is reelected to the House of Representatives, how much will his yearly pension be if he serves the next four years? If he is now 41 years old, how much will he receive before he is 65 years old?

The answer to both questions is nothing, according to Mr. Beeker who administers legislative retirement. Rep. Gibbs is now in his second term in the State Legislature. If he serves one more term, his total service will be 12 years. Under the recently passed legislative retirement act, a legislator must serve 16 years before he is eligible for pension benefits. Age in this case is not a factor. The question, then, does not apply to Rep. Gibbs.

How did Rep. Lawrence Gibbs and Rep. Mike John Jr. vote on the retirement act in the session of the legislature this year?

Both Ouachita Parish representatives voted "no" on the proposal which later was passed by both houses.

How many states still use the electric chair? Has research work been done on the rehabilitation of people who have been released after they were convicted for the crime of murder? In other words, are they a good risk to reinstate in society?

Twenty-two states still use the electric chair for executions. Twelve use the gas chamber, seven hanging and one shooting. A parole office spokesman said that research for rehabilitation of prisoners is an over-all program and ex-murderers must be considered good risks or they would not be released. A parole office said his own experience has shown that ex-murderers are better risks against repeating crimes than the habitual criminal of larceny and thefts because in many cases the crime of murder resulted from a temporary and isolated conditino. He said he has more cooperation and less trouble with these parolees assigned to him than the person who has committed two or three crimes of robber. The person's prison record plays the big part in his freedom—an indication he is interested in rehabilitation, the parole officer said.

How would a person refinish an antique bed made of cherry wood?

Ellis Doyle Herron, director of the Natural History Museum of Little Rock, gives the following advice: The first step is to apply a paint remover. There are several commercial pastes on the market for this purpose. It may be necessary to make several applications to remove all the old paint or varnish. Hard scraping of the surface would remove the patina (the crust that forms on aged wood). Once this has been done, you are ready for the second step, washing the old paint off. This should be done with wool alcohol, not water or anything containing water, because water opens the pores on wood. Next, rub over the surface lightly with a double-nought steel wool pad. Now you are ready for the refinishing. There are two ways to treat cherry wood. The recommended one is to use a machine oil, such as sewing machine oil, then wax the surface with several applications of a beeswax suspended in turpentine. This type wax can be bought retail. You should rub down the surface after each application. Another way to refinish cherry wood is to take two parts of alcohol and one part of shellac, apply the mixture thinly and let dry thoroughly. There should be three to five applications and a rub down after each application with double - nought steel wool.

Is it true that a portion of the Lida Benton elementary school has been condemned?

Supt. of Monroe schools Van Odom said that the school has not been condemned. Odom did say, however, that a wall section in the auditorium is being repaired at present but that school is proceeding as normal.

Monroe Club Told About Outer Space

An educator who specilizes in the study of space declared here Friday that getting a man on the moon was minor in comparsion with the chanllenge of exploring outer space.

Robert Manning, assistant superintendent of Webster Parish, told the Monroe Optimist Club that the biggest problem with exploring space was the distance of the planets.

"There may be 10 billion planets in outer space that are inhabited," he said. "That is entirely problematical."

But he said that United States should have a man on the moon probably by 1970, since the program is behind schedule. It's costing the American taxpayer $10 million daily, he added.

Because of the finances, Manning said the Russians are slowing up in its race to the moon, adding, "They may not be able to do it economically."

He said getting a man on the moon was a Model T project compared to exploring space.

"Von Braun, the scientist, had the theory 40 years ago, but we didn't get into the race until it became competitive," Manning said.

In his opinion, Manning said the last orbit shot should not have been made, because the capsule that astronaut Scott Cooper manned was not designed to do what it did.

"Remember there was an electrical failure?," he asked. "Only by the grace of God and that man's great ability was he saved."

Manning noted that the Saturn booster to be built at New Orleans was small when compared to the space vehicles that will developed later.

But because of its power, the government is clearing 7,000 acres in Mississippi, because "just the sound from it could flatten towns," he explained.

E. L. Ritter Sr., 59-year-old Monroe businessman, has announced his candidacy in Ward 10 for the Ouachita Parish Police Jury in the first Democratic primary December 7th.

He pledged to "properly manage the affairs of the parish and to do so as efficiently as possible."

Ritter said, "I shall endeavor to the best of my ability to represent the Tenth Ward and the people of Ouachita Parish in a manner in keeping with the responsibilities of the office.

"Your vote and support will be greatly appreciated."

Negro Children Perish In Fire At Rural Home

STAFFORD, Va. (AP)— Five Negro children in one family died in a fire which destroyed their rural home Friday. A sixth child is missing.

The victims, from 1 to 9 years old, were among the 10 children of Mr. and Mrs. James Baker, who were away from home. Four other children were in school.

Identities of the victims were unavailable immediately.

A helicopter crew from the nearby Quantico Marine Schools spotted the flames coming from the one-story, frame five-room house and relayed the alarm. The area is sparsely settled.

The Bakers has just purchased a new home a mile away and had begun moving some of their possessions.

Negro Retires As Candidate

CROSSETT (Special) — A Negro, Howard Johnson, of Crossett, has withdrawn as a candidate for the Crossett School Board. Johnson had announced his candidacy last month.

Johnson said he was withdrawing from the race because his wife is now employed by the school district as a teacher at the T. W. Daniel school and would have to surrender her job if he were to be elected.

He stated that when he filed for office he had not been aware of the law that prohibits close relatives of school board members working for the school system.

Franklin Bond Election Slated

WINNSBORO (Special) — Franklin Parish School Board voted to call a bond election for $285,000 for District Ward No. 1 at Wisner.

The money will be used to erect and equip a high school and gymnasium at Wisner.

Election date was set for December 3.

In other business, the board at the Friday meeting, awarded the contract for butane service to the schools which used this type of gas to Cordill Butane Co. of Winnsboro for a cost of 9.7 cents per gallon, which was the low bid received.

Baptist Minister Criticizes Board

SHREVEPORT, La. (AP) — A Shreveport Baptist minister criticized the Southern Baptist Sunday School Board today for its refusal to take a stand on segregation.

The Rev. A. C. Lawton said he wrote the board:

"I do not respect your middle of the road policy. It is the position Pilate took at Jesus' trial."

The minister's statement followed a letter from the board advising him that the board "does not take a position either for or against integration."

The exchange started with the minister's criticism of an article in the Baptist Training Union magazine describing a midwestern college student's reaction to desegregation in her church.

Waves Sink Navy Launch; 1 Missing

PORT JEFFERSON, N.Y. (UPI) — Three big waves swamped a Navy liberty launch causing it to capsize before dawn today pitching the 21 sailors aboard into the chilly waters of Long Island Sound. Helicopters and rescue boats picked up 20 men and one was missing and presumed drowned.

The Navy said the missing man was Torpedoman Third Class James Lee Vice, 20, whose father Lorin Carl Vice lives in San Pedro, Calif.

The launch was returning the men to the U.S.S. Hazelwood after a night ashore. It overturned less than 300 yards from the destroyer which was anchored about 1,300 yards off Port Jefferson.

Darkness, fog and intermittent rain hampered the search. Temperatures plunged to 46 degrees, the coldest on record for this date.

Fifteen sailors had to cling to the overturned fiberglass launch for two hours before they drifted close enough to shore to stand on the gently sloping sandy bottom of the sound. Three managed to swim to the ship and two others were picked up by the Hazelwood's other launch.

"Three big waves broke over the bow . . . and it just turned over," said Chief Machinists Mate Ralph L. Nelson, a veteran of 24 years in the Navy.

Coxswain John Getshell of Portland, Ore., the pilot of the launch, swam to the Hazelwood for help.

"He had a lot of guts, especially for a guy who just got married," said Roy Witz, 22, Richfield, Minn., one of the men who stayed with the boat.

The 26-foot launch, which pulled away from a Port Jefferson pier at 2:20 a.m. EDT, was equipped with "flotation chambers" to prevent it from sinking even if it filled with water or overturned.

"We stayed in the water about two hours, drifting to shore," Nelson said. "Most of the men held out pretty good. There was absolutely no panic. I was washed off once, but got back to the boat."

Gradually, the 18 to 20 mile per hour wind tossing up the waves pushed the launch toward shore. As soon as the men could stand on the bottom, they waded ashore and covered themselves with a piece of canvas from the launch.

About 30 minutes later, a Coast Guard helicopter from Floyd Bennett Field in Brooklyn piloted by Lt. John Wypick showed up.

Garment Firm In Area Sparks Survey Of Labor

BASTROP (Special) — A labor survey is being conducted to determine the available work force for a garment factory interested in locating here.

The survey is being made by the Bastrop Chamber of Commerce and Industry and the Louisiana Division of Employment Security of the area within a 35-mile radius of Bastrop.

Women between the ages of 17-45 who are interested in this line of work may apply at the employment office here or the Chamber of Commerce, located at 204 Franklin.

No details were given on the firm involved, but plans were that a possible 500 persons may be employed if the factory is opened.

Police Search For 2 'Polite' Bank Robbers

COUNCE, Tenn. (AP) —Police pressed a hunt for two "very polite" bandits who held up the Citizens branch bank of Counce Friday and fled with about $5,000.

Mrs. Jane Sharp, teller and the only one on duty in the bank at the time, said that while one of the men attempted to cash a check, the other pushed his way into her cage.

"He stuck a gun at her and demanded that she give him all the money in the bank," Sheriff Con D. Seaton said. She put the cash in a paper sack handed her by the gunman.

Mrs. Sharp said the men were trying to tape her wrists after taking the money when a car drove up and they fled.

"They told me to keep quiet and I wouldn't get hurt," she said. "I kept real, real quiet."

Mrs. Sharp said the men treated her gentle and were "very polite."

Police said it was believed the holdup men headed for Mississippi after the robbery.

Freshmen Co-Ed Activities Are Being Planned

RUSTON (Special) — Members of the Associated Women Students at Louisiana Tech, assuming the early bird role, already are on the campus in the midst of a nine-day workshop designed to plan activities for freshman girls who will enter the fall semester here next week.

Among events on the AWS calendar are a program for freshman coed advisers, the annual student life convocation, the traditional capping ceremony and visits to freshman girls in order to orient them to dormitory life.

For the approximately 500 beginning girls expected to enroll at Tech, the AWS board has assigned more than 140 advisers. Chosen to guide the newcomers are upperclassmen who will conduct them through registration and Freshman Week and serve as advisers in times of need throughout their college years.

At the advisers' training session, slated to begin with a convocation at 11 a.m. Saturday, the coeds will be coached by AWS board members on the best ways to help the freshman girls. Advisers will be divided into groups, with AWS board members as leaders. Discussions concerning problems of freshman girls and the introduction of college rules are scheduled.

To provide advisers with answers to questions commonly asked by new students, speakers will talk on regulations, ways of financing a college education and scholarships in two afternoon meetings Saturday.

Freshmen will begin arriving at Tech Sunday afternoon.

Two AWS sponsored events planned for Tuesday are the Student life assembly at 9 a.m. in Howard Auditorium and the capping ceremony at 7:30 p.m.

The student life convocation will feature speakers whose topics will cover a variety of aspects of Tech campus life, including both the serious and the lighter sides. The capping rites, in which the new Tech girls will obtain their green caps, is scheduled for Dudley Circle.

Visits by AWS board members to freshman dormitories will conclude the AWS activities.

$2 PICTURES

DETROIT (AP) — It wasn't a love of art that prompted two armed men to steal 33 pictures of Thomas Jefferson from Andrew Skibowski's home in surburban Avon township.

The pictures were all alike. They were on $2 bills Skibowski had been saving for 15 years in his wallet.

SEN. HENRY JACKSON

Ban Treaty Gets Hesitant Backer

WASHINGTON (AP — The limited nuclear test-ban treaty gained an influential backer Friday when Sen. Henry M. Jackson announced he will vote for it. The Washington Democrat is considered one of the Senate's top military experts.

Jackson said "my heart is not leaping up" over the pact but with the safeguards assured to protect the nation's security "I believe that the Senate may prudently give its advice and consent to ratification."

But Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., chairman of the Senate Preparedness subcommitte, firmly maintained his opposition. He told the Senate the pact would permit the Siviet Union to "leap-frog further ahead of us" in nuclear weaponry in one, two or three years.

Sen. Milward L. Simpson, R-Wyo., announced he will vote against the treaty unless it is altered by reservations to "better respect the vital interests of the United States." He urged the Senate not to give carte blanche endorsement to what he called the pact's ambiguous language and false assurances.

Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., supporting ratification told the Senate: "It is my suggestion that we ratify this treaty, that we accept this limited hope, that we husband this single candle of reason."

After Jackson delivered his speech, Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., one of the treaty's staunchest backers, said he feels the speech would have great influence on senators who might still be undecided.

Jackson, who is a member of Stennis' Armed Services subcommittee, is chairman of the Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee's Weapons subcommittee. He had been very critical of the pact to ban all nuclear tests except underground and treaty backers had been concerned that he might oppose it.

It was Jackson who spearheaded the Senate Armed Services Committee's stand for ironclad safeguards Asked by the Joint Chiefs of Staff in backing the treaty. President Kennedy spelled out this guarantee in a letter to the Senate earlier this week.

Jackson's speech stressed the risks involved, saying there are "serious—perhaps even formidable — military and technical disadvantages."

"We must understand," he said, "what is required to protect and maintain the free world's ability to deter or survive a nuclear attack and to respond effectively againt any aggressor. We must be ready to pursue the necessary policies without reservations of mind and heart."

One of the senators still undecided, Sen. Paul H. Douglas, D-Ill., praised Jackson's speech and asked him about the effect of the treaty on the development of an antimissile missile.

Jackson replied that he is convinced that the needed U.S. development work can go ahead through underground tests, but said it is going to be more costly and difficult.

Stennis told the Senate he was very much concerned that the full impact of the Soviet test series of 1961-62 has not yet been felt. In a year or two or three, he said, the Russians may get the full benefit of the test data and "develop and produce even superior weapons."

Stennis suggested that the real reason the Russians want the treaty is to use it as a cover "to prepare again for atmospheric testing in secrecy, abrogate the treaty at their own convenience and leap-frog further ahead of us."

Simpson specifically endorsed the reservation proposed by Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., "to make the treaty contingent on Soviet troop withdrawal from Cuba." He said he might offer other reservations of his own.

Hart told the Senate that those who contend the fallout problem is not serious "seek to persuade us that genetic damage from nuclear tests thus far conducted are what they call 'statistically insignificant.'"

"Concience, after all, leads most of us to reject the thought that a single child blinded by a deadly man-made mist is very 'insignificant,'" Hart said.

Filings By Local Candidates Mount

With a weekend break ahead, the Ouachita Parish Democratic Executive Committee breathed a sign of relief late Friday as the field of local candidates continued to swell.

A total of 47 candidates, including 15 from Ward 5, had filed for seats on the 19-man Ouachita Parish Police Jury alone. The number of candidates for the House of Representatives climbed to nine.

Meantime, chairman John A. Salisbury of the Ouachita Parish Republican Executive Committee said he expected several Republicas to file for office.

The Republican committee, after a meeting Thursday, announced its filing deadline for 5 p.m. September 19th. Republicans can seek the same posts as Democrats.

While the Democratic and Republican committees were waiting out their deadlines, the 30th Senatorial Democratic Executive Committee moved a day closer to completing its job.

Deadline for filing in the Senate race in Ouachita and Jackson is 5 p.m. today with two candidates in the race so far — Sen. Jamar W. Adcock and Howard E. Griffith of West Monroe.

Test Ban Opposition

The Mississippi senatorial delegation, both Senators John C. Stennis and James O. Eastland, decided to vote against the nuclear test ban treaty.

Senator Russell Long of Louisiana voted against the test ban in the Senate Foreign Relations Committee and hinted strongly he would do the same on the Senate floor. Senator Richard B. Russell of Georgia will also oppose the test ban.

These senators are all democrats. But opposition is non - partisan. Washington observers say at least 10 or 11 Southern Democrats will vote against the treaty on the Senate floor. And these will be joined by Senator John Tower of Texas, a Republican, and Senator Barry Goldwater of Arizona, now a GOP front runner for the presidential nomiantion next year.

Although the treaty has been given a green light by Republican Senator Everett Dirksen, this does not mean that it will have smooth sailing in picking up the 67 out of 100 votes necessary for ratification.

Unquestionably, this bloc of some 15 senators is sincere in its conviction that the test ban would not only be of no value to the United States, but that it would actually be harmful. Like the previous agreements made with Russia at Yalta and Pottsdam, the nuclear test ban treaty places the United States in a position as co-signer to a bad check or a contract drawn up in bad faith.

In addition to this, the southern opposition to the measure shows the South's general dissatisfaction with the Kennedy administration. Party loyalty — because of such matters as this particular treaty as well as the civil rights outbreaks — is increasingly hard to find among Democrats.

For this reason, there is still room for optimism among those who oppose signing a written agreement with a nation that lied flatly about the presence of large, offensive missiles in Cuba less than a year ago.

The Senate may yet awaken and reject the nuclear test ban treaty.

Urban Destruction

While the federalization of Alabama's national guard is perhaps the most talked about showing of the federal government's heavy hand in the South, an example from Cleveland, Ohio, shows that same hand pulling down whole buildings.

The buildings were structurally sound — one was only three years old. But the federal bureaucrats of the Urban Renewal Administration saw fit to condemn them anyway.

Federal officials who masterminded the Cleveland Erieview project said it is an example of their best work. But the General Accounting Office, an arm of Congress, took a look behind the artists' sketches of the $131 million federal redevelopment project.

The investigators of the GAO went to Cleveland and issued a critical report which struck at the heart of federal urban renewal legislation. Here's what they found:

A structurally sound building appraised at $660,000 was declared "sub-standard" and ordered razed because of rubbish in the basement, burned out lights at some exits, and several other minor violations of local codes.

A structurally sound building appraised at $840,000 was called "sub-standard" and ordered razed because it lacked self - closing devices on some doors and other improvements which could have been installed with a minimum of expense.

A structurally sound building appraised at $900,000 was called "sub-standard" and also ordered razed because of chipped plaster, poor ventilation in the basement and other minor defects.

Several buildings which met legal building codes in every respect were ordered razed because their architecture was considered "incompatible" with the "master plan" for redevelopment.

Perhaps the prime example of such false logic and planning was the decision that the $1.5 million Addressograph - Multigraph building constructed only three years ago must make way for what officials termed "more compatible" use of the land.

It was discovered that officials of the Housing and Home Finance Agency, whose responsibility it was to review the findings of local city officials in preparation for federal approval of the project, did nothing more than drive through the project area. The HHFA did nothing by way of inspecting any of the buildings which were declared "substandard" in order to act as a double check.

When the General Accounting Office officials went to Cleveland, their inspectors reviewed findings and came up with some striking differences of opinion. Of the 84 buildings which had been called "substandard," the GAO inspectors found only 24 which really fit that category.

Of 105 buildings earmarked for demolition, the GAO inspectors found there were 81 which were structurally sound and could be used through enforcement of local codes.

How does the Urban Renewal Administration declare a building unfit to remain in a project area? The criteria are vague. Housing and Home Finance Administration head Robert Weaver says the structural condition of a building is not the only factor considered. He points to a "blighting influence," or the "wrong use" of certain buildings. This points to a high degree of personal judgement and taste on the part of federal planners.

One congressman remarked all the inspectors had to do to condemn a building was to say it was facing the wrong way. Another member of Congress saw Urban Renewal waste as something that could develop into a "teapot dome" scandal of the 1960's.

If Cleveland's Erieview project is something for Urban Renewal to boast about, many congressmen are wondering what the General Accounting Office will find if it sends its investigators out to check on such projects in other cities.

Double Or Nothing

Occasionally, white collar workers are given cause to worry for fear their ranks will be thinned by automatic machinery. But at least one bureau in the federal government has discovered that duplication of effort can keep pace with duplication of paperwork by machines.

From the Justice Department, the Wall Street Journal received the account that an office memorandum was sent to key personnel calling for a drastic curtailment of travel to meetings and conferences. In addition, Salvador A. Andretta, administrative assistant to the attorney general, said:

"The department is being drowned in paper. The introduction of copying machines was intended to save time and money, but the growth in the use and number of copies is fantastic.

"Apparently everything is being copied by machine and the good old carbon copies are a thing of the past."

Apparently, if we think the new copy machines which produce copy after copy of original documents have displaced typists or stenographers by the dozens, then we have another think coming. For Andretta noted:

"The use of machines has yet to result in any reduction in manpower and requests for additional personnel continue."

Single Remaining Argument For Treaty Not Convincing

For the first time since President Kennedy sprang the test ban treaty on the American people, there are doubts that it can win Senate ratification. This does not mean that the President's risky venture into an accommodation with the Soviet Union can be counted out — far from it. But the events of the past days have suddenly disclosed a growing sentiment against the treaty. If the hidden opposition, too timid before, manifests itself, Mr. Kennedy may be facing one of the greatest setbacks in his career.

One by one, the arguments presented in favor of ratification have been withdrawn or demolished. It will be recalled that, originally, those who favored the treaty held that it was "militarily advantageous" to the United States and bad news for the Communists. This has now been quietly withdrawn for this formulation: "The political advantages of the treaty outweigh its military disadvantages."

THIS ARGUMENT has given many senators considerable pause and was one of the factors that turned Senator Richard Russell against the treaty. Mr. Russell is, on military matters, one of the most influential men on Capitol Hill. He is also highly trusted by military men, who speak to him with a frankness they are not permitted in their conversations with Secretary of Defense McNamara. Certainly, he will not divulge, directly or with attribution, how the military really feels about the treaty. But there was a shocking giveaway in the statement of General Curtis LeMay, Air Force Chief of Staff, that had he been consulted before the treaty was negotiated, he would have opposed it.

Senator Russell's defection from the ranks of treaty supporters was a bold blow to the President. Whether or not other senators go along with him, his refusal to vote ratification casts a grey cloud on the treaty.

THE REPORT of the Senate Preparedness Investigating Subcommittee was an even greater blow. Carefully and soberly worded, it made it abundantly clear that ratification would tie one hand behind America's back and gravely weaken our defense posture. These are conclusions that no American can ignore — and it was touch and go as to whether or not the Administration would be able to suppress the report. Senator Russell's decision, however, prevented any Administration end-run.

At present, the single remaining argument in favor of the treaty is, to my mind, a chilling one. It is being said repeatedly in the Senate cloakrooms that the treaty must be ratified "because to do anything else would embarrass the President." This may be persuasive to those whose major interests are tied to Mr. Kennedy's political future. But it is hardly convincing to those thinking of the American future.

THE TREATY is good for this country or it is bad—with gradations, of course. If it is bad—if it cannot be conclusively proved that it is good — then the benefit of the doubt should go to those who oppose ratification. The conclusions of the Senate Preparedness Subcommittee cannot be ignored:

"From the evidence we are compelled to conclude that serious—perhaps even formidable — military and technical disadvantages will flow from the ratification of the treaty. . . .It is vital to our very survival that no step be taken which in any manner would degrade the ability of our military forces to protect our security, if we should be challenged militarily by a hostile nuclear power."

The subcommittee made it abundantly clear that the test ban treaty would, in fact, degrade that ability. It has already been compromised by American innocence in previously accepting the moratorium on testing which the Soviet Union unilaterally abrogated.

CAN THE test ban treaty be stopped? Thirty-four votes would do it. The Administration, until this week, was abundantly sure it could muster the necessary two-thirds demanded by the Constitution. It is not so sure today. The measure of opposition against ratification will be in the courage of individual senators.

DR. STEINCROHN

For Those Who Need To Gain

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: Please give us thin people some advice on how to gain weight. To us, our problem is as awful and stubborn as for people who are too heavy and want to lose.

I am 5 feet 4, and am medium-boned. I weigh 117 pounds. I feel better at 125 pounds but cannot hold that weight for very long.— Mrs. S.

Comment: Only eight pounds more? That should be easy. The problem is really great in those people who are 20 to 30 pounds underweight; and in those, practically starving themselves, who are down to skin and bone.

In your case, all that is usually necessary is to fill up on those things we tell overweight people not to eat: fats, fried foods, ice cream, cookies, cakes, malted milks, bread and butter, potatoes, etc.

HOWEVER, there is potential danger in this regiment. I have known many people like yourself who had given up in despair; they were sure they would never be able to gain. Months or years later they would return for a reducing diet.

Therefore, be careful when you go on this eating binge. You will have to develop good brakes when the time comes to slow down.

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: One evening, after weeks of overwork and tension, working round the clock, I sat down to dinner in a restaurant. I could not swallow my food. Couldn't imagine what was wrong and became panic-stricken.

I had all the examinations last month and they found nothing organically wrong. I still experience the same choking sensation quite often. In business I often have to have lunches with customers, and I have to keep making excuses for not being able to have lunch. What is this affliction? What is it called? — Mrs. E.

Comment: If all the tests are negative, chances are that the swallowing difficulty is what we call Globus Hystericus. It is part and parcel of what is likely chronic anxiety.

It should improve as your nervous condition improves. That will come only with sympathetic handling by your physician plus the use of rest, relaxation and any tranquilizers that are necessary.

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: Please tell me if there are any harmful effects in using hormone cold creams? — Mrs. B.

Comment: No harm that I know of. But the thing to ask your doctor is this: are they any good? Any better than other creams?

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: I have had a chronic acne condition for years. I have heard of the operation called Dermabrasion to remove these scars. Where shall I go to have it done? — Mrs. N.

SEE REPUTABLE SKIN SPECIALIST

Comment: The other night a colleague told me of a young plastic surgeon who is quite put out with me because (in answer to a similar question) I suggested that the patient see a dermatologist for advice.

Whoever does the job doesn't concern me as long as it is a creditable performance with good results. So I repeat: better see a skin specialist first for advice, instead of going directly to a plastic surgeon. In that way, if a plastic surgeon is the one to do the job, you will at least know you have been referred to one who has a good reputation in the medical community.

Dr. Steincrohn's leaflet, "Practical Information for Shingles Patients," will be mailed to you on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope and 10 cents in coin for handling. Address your request to Dr. Steincrohn, in care of this newspaper.

Disunity Rages On Farm Front

They say that a house divided cannot stand, and this year the once - mighty farm bloc appears to be out to prove it.

Seldom in recent history has such a powerful alliance of Senators and Representatives fallen into so paralyzed a condition through internal bickering, aimless political maneuvering and the general lack of any idea of what to do next.

The farm bloc's current handling of a dairy bill demonstrates its feebleness. The bill, sponsored by Senator William Proxmire, D-Wis., would impose some slight voluntary restraints on surplus milk output. Nobody expects any major results, but a number of lawmakers from rural areas are determined to put it through just so they can have something to tell their farmer constituents about when they get back home.

MEANWHILE, cotton legislation has bogged down in nearly hopeless tangle of parliamentary deals. Wheat programs are given no chance of passage and little progress is being made toward a solution of the feed grains problem.

None of these crops would be in any legislative trouble if the farm bloc had half the strength it possessed just a few years ago. This is the group whose combined action at one time resulted in a two-year supply of wheat piling up in Government bins, with nearly as staggering surpluses of other major crops.

It's not that anyone in the farm bloc — roughly comprised of legislators from the L-shaped region comprising the Plains and the South — deliberately set out to create surpluses. But the Congressional logic that required something good for each crop in every major farm bill often encouraged overproduction.

Wheat has been the outstanding example. For years since World War II the wheat state Senators beat off any attempt to cut either production or Government-supported price levels.

THEN LAST May, the high-production, high - price farm programs suffered a blow from which they may never recover. The nation's wheat farmers thoroughly rejected a tightly - controlled production program in favor of one that allows expanded planting with much lower support rates.

COTTON presents an even more dismal picture. While there is no substitute for wheat, the chemical factories are busy making cotton substitutes from crankcase oil and soft coal.

Through the workings of the price support system, cotton is priced at about 34 cents a pound at the farm level. Rayon and other synthetics are only slightly more expensive and are taking an ever - larger share of the market.

Moreover, foreign cotton is about eight cents cheaper. The U. S. Government subsidizes cotton exports to make the American fiber competitive, but the system still gives foreign producers an advantage.

To say there is no agreement on the way out this dilemma is a violent understatement. The Western cotton growers want more acreage allotments and lower prices. The less efficient Southeastern producers cling to high support rates. One segment of the Southeast group wants lower market prices with Government checks paid directly to farmers to prop up their income. Another group wants the checks paid to brokers who deal in the cotton. The brokers would rather have the cotton millers get the payments, but the millers don't want the public to think they are geting rich at the taxpayers' expense.

CHAIRMAN Harold D. Cooley D-N. C., of the House Agriculture Committee has come up with a bill authorizing payments to the brokers (who would then, under the peculiar methods of farm systems, buy cotton at high prices from farmers and sell it cheaper to the mills.)

Cooley's bill managed, through parliamentary skullduggery, to get entangled with a bill extending the Area Redevelopment Administration's lending activities. A number of Southern representatives are being asked to vote for the ARA, which they dislike, if they want a cotton bill. The net effect is an utter deadlock.

Meanwhile, back in the Senate, Ellender has no use for the Cooley bill or anything like it. He wants a simple bill lowering the support rate and slightly enlarging the acreage allotment.

TO MAKE matters worse, cotton state Senators are fearful they may have to turn to the wheat state Senators for support — as they have done so often in the past. In return, however, they might have to accept a wheat program as an amendment to their cotton bill. From all appearances, the combination of two unpopular programs will be enough to scuttle both of them.

Reds Tested While Ban Was Initialed

WASHINGTON — U. S. nuclear scientists have confirmed that three explosions detected in the Soviet Union in June and July are definitely nuclear tests in the atmosphere.

Their analysis of radioactive debris recovered from the blasts supports earlier acoustic, or sound, signals from the explosions that resembled those from other nuclear shots.

U. S. air patrol, watching closely for radioactive clouds, collected the tell-tale debris but in amounts considerably smaller than those recovered from previous Soviet tests.

THIS NEW finding, along with other intelligence data, has convinced these scientists that the Russians tested a new type of "clean" weapon, probably a warhead for their anti-missile missile, in these unannounced experiments.

The size and exact location for the explosions have been calculated but this sensitive information can not be published, since the details would give the Russians information on our detection methods.

THE FIRST public disclosure that the U. S. had detected an explosion in the Soviet Union that looked suspiciously like a nuclear test was published by the Washington Star on June 30.

Two of the three explosions recorded by U. S. detection instruments occurred on June 12, just two days after President Kennedy gave his American University speech stating that the U. S. would not test again in the atmosphere so long as Russia did not do so.

THE THIRD Soviet nuclear test occurred in July while Under Secretary of State Averell Harriman was in Moscow negotiating the partial test ban accord now before the Senate. All three explosions were in the kiloton range. A kiloton is the explosive equivalent of 1,000 tons of TNT.

THE DEBATE over the nuclear test ban treaty isn't helping to improve the strained relations that now exist between some members of the Senate.

Senator Russell Long, D-La., on the outs with leaders of his party in the Senate, took advantage of the debate to needle Senate Democratic Whip Hubert Humphrey, Minn., about his recent trip to Russia.

Constantly interrupting Senator Humphrey during his speech in support of the treaty, Senator Long startled the Minnesota Democrat by inquiring:

"I should like to ask the senator a question about his trip to Gorky Park and his discussion of the treaty with the Russiasn. Was that female blonde interpreter a Russian or an American?"

"She is the wife of an American political officer at the U. S. Embassy in Moscow," replied Senator Humphrey.

"I AM HAPPY to hear that," said Senator Long. "My general impression is that the senator with her help obtained more publicity out of his connection with Mr. Khrushchev than anyone else in the American government. Can my friend name anyone in American history who has ever had more publicity . . . from his connection with the Russians, and Mr. Khrushchev in particular, than the senator from Minnesota?"

"I have never tried to keep an accurate record of press clippings," Senator Humphrey retorted. "But I have one unique distinction. The Premier of the Soviet Union at one of the Communist party conclaves took time out to denounce me as a vicious anti-Communist. I feel that my trip was worthwhile."

"I say to the senator, the Russians like you and they don't like me," needled Long. "A man from the Russian embassy came to see me last week. What he had to say was parallel to what the senator has been saying in his speech. Those fellows have given the senator from Minnesota a billion dollars' worth of publicity. They have given the senator more than anybody else on earth has received."

AT THIS point Senator John Sparkman, D-Ala., a friend of both senators, interrupted the exchange, when he noticed that Senator Humphrey's face was becoming red with anger. Another Democratic senator took Senator Long by the arm and led him from the floor.

Test Ban Opposition

The Mississippi senatorial delegation, both Senators John C. Stennis and James O. Eastland, decided to vote against the nuclear test ban treaty.

Senator Russell Long of Louisiana voted against the test ban in the Senate Foreign Relations Committee and hinted strongly he would do the same on the Senate floor. Senator Richard B. Russell of Georgia will also oppose the test ban.

These senators are all democrats. But opposition is non - partisan. Washington observers say at least 10 or 11 Southern Democrats will vote against the treaty on the Senate floor. And these will be joined by Senator John Tower of Texas, a Republican, and Senator Barry Goldwater of Arizona, now a GOP front runner for the presidential nomiantion next year.

Although the treaty has been given a green light by Republican Senator Everett Dirksen, this does not mean that it will have smooth sailing in picking up the 67 out of 100 votes necessary for ratification.

Unquestionably, this bloc of some 15 senators is sincere in its conviction that the test ban would not only be of no value to the United States, but that it would actually be harmful. Like the previous agreements made with Russia at Yalta and Pottsdam, the nuclear test ban treaty places the United States in a position as co-signer to a bad check or a contract drawn up in bad faith.

In addition to this, the southern opposition to the measure shows the South's general dissatisfaction with the Kennedy administration. Party loyalty — because of such matters as this particular treaty as well as the civil rights outbreaks — is increasingly hard to find among Democrats.

For this reason, there is still room for optimism among those who oppose signing a written agreement with a nation that lied flatly about the presence of large, offensive missiles in Cuba less than a year ago.

The Senate may yet awaken and reject the nuclear test ban treaty.

Urban Destruction

While the federalization of Alabama's national guard is perhaps the most talked about showing of the federal government's heavy hand in the South, an example from Cleveland, Ohio, shows that same hand pulling down whole buildings.

The buildings were structurally sound — one was only three years old. But the federal bureaucrats of the Urban Renewal Administration saw fit to condemn them anyway.

Federal officials who masterminded the Cleveland Erieview project said it is an example of their best work. But the General Accounting Office, an arm of Congress, took a look behind the artists' sketches of the $131 million federal redevelopment project.

The investigators of the GAO went to Cleveland and issued a critical report which struck at the heart of federal urban renewal legislation. Here's what they found:

A structurally sound building appraised at $660,000 was declared "sub-standard" and ordered razed because of rubbish in the basement, burned out lights at some exits, and several other minor violations of local codes.

A structurally sound building appraised at $840,000 was called "sub-standard" and ordered razed because it lacked self - closing devices on some doors and other improvements which could have been installed with a minimum of expense.

A structurally sound building appraised at $900,000 was called "sub-standard" and also ordered razed because of chipped plaster, poor ventilation in the basement and other minor defects.

Several buildings which met legal building codes in every respect were ordered razed because their architecture was considered "incompatible" with the "master plan" for redevelopment.

Perhaps the prime example of such false logic and planning was the decision that the $1.5 million Addressograph - Multigraph building constructed only three years ago must make way for what officials termed "more compatible" use of the land.

It was discovered that officials of the Housing and Home Finance Agency, whose responsibility it was to review the findings of local city officials in preparation for federal approval of the project, did nothing more than drive through the project area. The HHFA did nothing by way of inspecting any of the buildings which were declared "substandard" in order to act as a double check.

When the General Accounting Office officials went to Cleveland, their inspectors reviewed findings and came up with some striking differences of opinion. Of the 84 buildings which had been called "substandard," the GAO inspectors found only 24 which really fit that category.

Of 105 buildings earmarked for demolition, the GAO inspectors found there were 81 which were structurally sound and could be used through enforcement of local codes.

How does the Urban Renewal Administration declare a building unfit to remain in a project area? The criteria are vague. Housing and Home Finance Administration head Robert Weaver says the structural condition of a building is not the only factor considered. He points to a "blighting influence," or the "wrong use" of certain buildings. This points to a high degree of personal judgement and taste on the part of federal planners.

One congressman remarked all the inspectors had to do to condemn a building was to say it was facing the wrong way. Another member of Congress saw Urban Renewal waste as something that could develop into a "teapot dome" scandal of the 1960's.

If Cleveland's Erieview project is something for Urban Renewal to boast about, many congressmen are wondering what the General Accounting Office will find if it sends its investigators out to check on such projects in other cities.

Double Or Nothing

Occasionally, white collar workers are given cause to worry for fear their ranks will be thinned by automatic machinery. But at least one bureau in the federal government has discoved that duplication of effort can keep pace with duplication of paperwork by machines.

From the Justice Department, the Wall Street Journal received the account that an office memorandum was sent to key personnel calling for a drastic curtailment of travel to meetings and conferences. In addition, Salvador A. Andretta, administrative assistant to the attorney general, said:

"The department is being drowned in paper. The introduction of copying machines was intended to save time and money, but the growth in the use and number of copies is fantastic.

"Apparently everything is being copied by machine and the good old carbon copies are a thing of the past."

Apparently, if we think the new copy machines which produce copy after copy of original documents have displaced typists or stenographers by the dozens, then we have another think coming. For Andretta noted:

"The use of machines has yet to result in any reduction in manpower and requests for additional personnel continue."

Single Remaining Argument For Treaty Not Convincing

For the first time since President Kennedy sprang the test ban treaty on the American people, there are doubts that it can win Senate ratification. This does not mean that the President's risky venture into an accommodation with the Soviet Union can be counted out — far from it. But the events of the past days have suddenly disclosed a growing sentiment against the treaty. If the hidden opposition, too timid before, manifests itself, Mr. Kennedy may be facing one of the greatest setbacks in his career.

One by one, the arguments presented in favor of ratification have been withdrawn or demolished. It will be recalled that, originally, those who favored the treaty held that it was "militarily advantageous" to the United States and bad news for the Communists. This has now been quietly withdrawn for this formulation: "The political advantages of the treaty outweigh its military disadvantages."

THIS ARGUMENT has given many senators considerable pause and was one of the factors that turned Senator Richard Russell against the treaty. Mr. Russell is, on military matters, one of the most influential men on Capitol Hill. He is also highly trusted by military men, who speak to him with a frankness they are not permitted in their conversations with Secretary of Defense McNamara. Certainly, he will not divulge, directly or with attribution, how the military really feels about the treaty. But there was a shocking giveaway in the statement of General Curtis LeMay, Air Force Chief of Staff, that had he been consulted before the treaty was negotiated, he would have opposed it.

Senator Russell's defection from the ranks of treaty supporters was a bold blow to the President. Whether or not other senators go along with him, his refusal to vote ratification casts a grey cloud on the treaty.

THE REPORT of the Senate Preparedness Investigating Subcommittee was an even greater blow. Carefully and soberly worded, it made it abundantly clear that ratification would tie one hand behind America's back and gravely weaken our defense posture. These are conclusions that no American can ignore — and it was touch and go as to whether or not the Administration would be able to suppress the report. Senator Russell's decision, however, prevented any Administration end-run.

At present, the single remaining argument in favor of the treaty is, to my mind, a chilling one. It is being said repeatedly in the Senate cloakrooms that the treaty must be ratified "because to do anything else would embarrass the President." This may be persuasive to those whose major interests are tied to Mr. Kennedy's political future. But it is hardly convincing to those thinking of the American future.

THE TREATY is good for this country or it is bad—with gradations, of course. If it is bad—if it cannot be conclusively proved that it is good — then the benefit of the doubt should go to those who oppose ratification. The conclusions of the Senate Preparedness Subcommittee cannot be ignored:

"From the evidence we are compelled to conclude that serious—perhaps even formidable — military and technical disadvantages will flow from the ratification of the treaty. . . .It is vital to our very survival that no step be taken which in any manner would degrade the ability of our military forces to protect our security, if we should be challenged militarily by a hostile nuclear power."

The subcommittee made it abundantly clear that the test ban treaty would, in fact, degrade that ability. It has already been compromised by American innocence in previously accepting the moratorium on testing which the Soviet Union unilaterally abrogated.

CAN THE test ban treaty be stopped? Thirty-four votes would do it. The Administration, until this week, was abundantly sure it could muster the necessary two-thirds demanded by the Constitution. It is not so sure today. The measure of opposition against ratification will be in the courage of individual senators.

For Those Who Need To Gain

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: Please give us thin people some advice on how to gain weight. To us, our problem is as awful and stubborn as for people who are too heavy and want to lose.

I am 5 feet 4, and am medium-boned. I weigh 117 pounds. I feel better at 125 pounds but cannot hold that weight for very long.— Mrs. S.

Comment: Only eight pounds more? That should be easy. The problem is really great in those people who are 20 to 30 pounds underweight; and in those, practically starving themselves, who are down to skin and bone.

In your case, all that is usually necessary is to fill up on those things we tell overweight people not to eat: fats, fried foods, ice cream, cookies, cakes, malted milks, bread and butter, potatoes, etc.

HOWEVER, there is potential danger in this regiment. I have known many people like yourself who had given up in despair; they were sure they would never be able to gain. Months or years later they would return for a reducing diet.

Therefore, be careful when you go on this eating binge. You will have to develop good brakes when the time comes to slow down.

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: One evening, after weeks of overwork and tension, working round the clock, I sat down to dinner in a restaurant. I could not swallow my food. Couldn't imagine what was wrong and became panic-stricken.

I had all the examinations last month and they found nothing organically wrong. I still experience the same choking sensation quite often. In business I often have to have lunches with customers, and I have to keep making excuses for not being able to have lunch. What is this affliction? What is it called? — Mrs. E.

Comment: If all the tests are negative, chances are that the swallowing difficulty is what we call Globus Hystericus. It is part and parcel of what is likely chronic anxiety.

It should improve as your nervous condition improves. That will come only with sympathetic handling by your physician plus the use of rest, relaxation and any tranquilizers that are necessary.

---

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: Please tell me if there are any harmful effects in using hormone cold creams? — Mrs. B.

Comment: No harm that I know of. But the thing to ask your doctor is this: are they any good? Any better than other creams?

---

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: I have had a chronic acne condition for years. I have heard of the operation called Dermabrasion to remove these scars. Where shall I go to have it done? — Mrs. N.

SEE REPUTABLE SKIN SPECIALIST

Comment: The other night a colleague told me of a young plastic surgeon who is quite put out with me because (in answer to a similar question) I suggested that the patient see a dermatologist for advice.

Whoever does the job doesn't concern me as long as it is a creditable performance with good results. So I repeat: better see a skin specialist first for advice, instead of going directly to a plastic surgeon. In that way, if a plastic surgeon is the one to do the job, you will at least know you have been referred to one who has a good reputation in the medical community.

Dr. Steincrohn's leaflet, "Practical Information for Shingles Patients," will be mailed to you on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope and 10 cents in coin for handling. Address your request to Dr. Steincrohn, in care of this newspaper.

Disunity Rages On Farm Front

They say that a house divided cannot stand, and this year the once - mighty farm bloc appears to be out to prove it.

Seldom in recent history has such a powerful alliance of Senators and Representatives fallen into so paralyzed a condition through internal bickering, aimless political maneuvering and the general lack of any idea of what to do next.

The farm bloc's current handling of a dairy bill demonstrates its feebleness. The bill, sponsored by Senator William Proxmire, D-Wis., would impose some slight voluntary restraints on surplus milk output. Nobody expects any major results, but a number of lawmakers from rural areas are determined to put it through just so they can have something to tell their farmer constituents about when they get back home.

MEANWHILE, cotton legislation has bogged down in nearly hopeless tangle of parliamentary deals. Wheat programs are given no chance of passage and little progress is being made toward a solution of the feed grains problem.

None of these crops would be in any legislative trouble if the farm bloc had half the strength it possessed just a few years ago. This is the group whose combined action at one time resulted in a two-year supply of wheat piling up in Government bins, with nearly as staggering surpluses of other major crops.

It's not that anyone in the farm bloc — roughly comprised of legislators from the L-shaped region comprising the Plains and the South — deliberately set out to create surpluses. But the Congressional logic that required something good for each crop in every major farm bill often encouraged overproduction.

Wheat has been the outstanding example. For years since World War II the wheat state Senators beat off any attempt to cut either production or Government-supported price levels.

THEN LAST May, the high-production, high - price farm programs suffered a blow from which they may never recover. The nation's wheat farmers thoroughly rejected a tightly - controlled production program in favor of one that allows expanded planting with much lower support rates.

COTTON presents an even more dismal picture. While there is no substitute for wheat, the chemical factories are busy making cotton substitutes from crankcase oil and soft coal.

Through the workings of the price support system, cotton is priced at about 34 cents a pound at the farm level. Rayon and other synthetics are only slightly more expensive and are taking an ever - larger share of the market.

Moreover, foreign cotton is about eight cents cheaper. The U. S. Government subsidizes cotton exports to make the American fiber competitive, but the system still gives foreign producers an advantage.

To say there is no agreement on the way out this dilemma is a violent understatement. The Western cotton growers want more acreage allotments and lower prices. The less efficient Southeastern producers cling to high support rates. One segment of the Southeast group wants lower market prices with Government checks paid directly to farmers to prop up their income. Another group wants the checks paid to brokers who deal in the cotton. The brokers would rather have the cotton millers get the payments, but the millers don't want the public to think they are geting rich at the taxpayers' expense.

CHAIRMAN Harold D. Cooley D-N. C., of the House Agriculture Committee has come up with a bill authorizing payments to the brokers (who would then, under the peculiar methods of farm systems, buy cotton at high prices from farmers and sell it cheaper to the mills.)

Cooley's bill managed, through parliamentary skullduggery, to get entangled with a bill extending the Area Redevelopment Administration's lending activities. A number of Southern representatives are being asked to vote for the ARA, which they dislike, if they want a cotton bill. The net effect is an utter deadlock.

Meanwhile, back in the Senate, Ellender has no use for the Cooley bill or anything like it. He wants a simple bill lowering the support rate and slightly enlarging the acreage allotment.

TO MAKE matters worse, cotton state Senators are fearful they may have to turn to the wheat state Senators for support — as they have done so often in the past. In return, however, they might have to accept a wheat program as an amendment to their cotton bill. From all appearances, the combination of two unpopular programs will be enough to scuttle both of them.

Washington Wig Boom Hits Snag

BBB, you had to sign a contract to pay $21 down and have your wig set 48 times at $7 a setting.

A second federal agency, the Food and Drug Administration, reported that it has done some probing and is now thinking of investigating more deeply.

Officials have heard that yak hair is showing up in some wigs, with possible injurious effect to women who are allergic to animal fur. An FDA official said chemicals used in wigs might cause a rash in some cases.

Although fine hand-made wigs sell justifiably for large sums, officials say, few first-time wgi-buyers are able to distinguish them from mass-produced machine-made wigs.

A favored sales gimmick here is the "wig party." Stylish Georgetown matrons and suburban young-married invite friends in to hear a salesman make his pitch and sign up contracts. The party-giver is given to believe that she'll get a free wig.

A young government clerk who said she paid more than $700 for two wigs. After she signed up, she said, she saw two wigs exactly like them sold for $169 each at a wig party in her own home. She refused to pay, but a finance company attached her savings account and seized it all—$643.

Some other complaints from wig-buyers recited by the Star included:

A woman bought a wig at a party, cost $217.50. When she went to pick up the wig, she objected that it was a different color. Persuaded to take it anyway, she found it didn't fit. But the finance company sued and a court ordered her to pay.

Some women said they thought they were signing credit application forms; they turned out to be sales contracts.

Others complained that when they brought wigs in to be set and refurbished, the wigs they got back were not the ones they brought in.

Negro Is Shot In Altercation; Man Is Booked

A Monroe businessman was booked for aggravated battery by Monroe police Friday following an incident in which a Negro was seriously shot.

Frank Scalia, 1729 Adams St., was booked on the charge and released under bond. Negro George Smith, 205 N. 18th St., was hospitalized at St. Francis with a gunshot wound of the stomach Friday morning following an argument with Scalia, owner and operator of a combination bar and grocery store on Adams Street. The incident is still under investigation by Monroe police.

Chief James C. Kelly said the shooting occurred around 9 a.m. near Scalia's Grocery Store, at 1729 Adams St. He told police that he and Smith had argued concerning the manner in which he put the Negro man's children out of the bar area of the establishment.

The Negro man allegedly picked up a stick during the disagreement and Scalia went inside to get a .38-caliber pistol. At this point, Smith reportedly ran to his house nearby and got a double-barrel shot-gun. According to reports, he returned to his kitchen door with the shotgun and Scalia fired a warning shot into the ground. Smith allegedly raised the shotgun to his shoulder, pointing it towards Scalia who then fired at Smith, wounding him in the stomach.

Police said they were still questioning witnesses concerning the incident late Friday and that their investigation is not complete yet.

Monroe police were probing the burglary of a Negro high school gymnasium Friday, while West Monroe police reported a $100 theft cleared.

Asst. Police Chief Ralph Graves said Monroe officers were checking the burglary at the Carroll High gymnasium, 1317 Breard St., that occurred sometime Thursday night. Around $3.40 was taken from vending machines and jukeboxes at the building after entrance was gained by picking the lock on a door.

The Monroe department were also investigating a pilfering incident which occurred at a vacant home owned by Mike Luffey, at 200 Pargoud Ave. Luffey told police no one had lived in the house for around six months, but furniture was stored there. Police believe the pilfering of the residence is the work of juveniles, since nothing was taken.

Meanwhile, West Monroe officers said that a theft involving $100 in cash in a wallet Thursday night has been closed out. Mrs. C. J. Ford said her wallet was taken from Cookie's Cafe, 1507 Cypress St., Thursday night. However, she later notified police she had found the wallet which had simply been misplaced.

Lynn, 20, of Bastrop, was apprehended in Lake Village, Ark. Friday in a 1959-model Ford convertible which was stolen from the auto dealers here abou tSept. 10. He is being held in Hamburg, Ark., under a $1.500 bond for sheriff's deputies who have placed a detainer on him with the Hamburg sheriff's office.

Two Texas youths were returned from Center, Tex., by sheriff department officers and a Monroe policeman late Friday on counts of auto theft. The men, Charles Otis Conway, 17, and Eunice S. McGee, 18, both of Houston, were wanted by Monroe police for the theft of a 1960-molel car belonging to Mrs. Janey B. Smith, of 205 Belmont Circle, Monroe. The car was recovered in Bossier City. Both of the youths were being held in the parish jail under bonds of $2,000 each.

Monroe police also booked a 23-year-old West Monroe man, Donald S. Potier, 103 Reagan St., for speeding, driving while under the influence of intoxicating beverages and running a red light. Potier was arrested at 10 p.m. at the intersection of Lee and Hampton Streets and held under bonds totaling $500.

Local law agencies had also been alerted to be on the lookout for two unidentified white men early Friday who were reported involved in an armed robbery in Bossier City. They were reportedly driving a stolen, white 1962 Chevrolet and were believed to be armed and dangerous. # Washington Wig Boom Hits Snag

BBB, you had to sign a contract to pay $21 down and have your wig set 48 times at $7 a setting.

A second federal agency, the Food and Drug Administration, reported that it has done some probing and is now thinking of investigating more deeply.

Officials have heard that yak hair is showing up in some wigs, with possible injurious effect to women who are allergic to animal fur. An FDA official said chemicals used in wigs might cause a rash in some cases.

Although fine hand-made wigs sell justifiably for large sums, officials say, few first-time wgi-buyers are able to distinguish them from mass-produced machine-made wigs.

A favored sales gimmick here is the "wig party." Stylish Georgetown matrons and suburban young-married invite friends in to hear a salesman make his pitch and sign up contracts. The party-giver is given to believe that she'll get a free wig.

A young government clerk who said she paid more than $700 for two wigs. After she signed up, she said, she saw two wigs exactly like them sold for $169 each at a wig party in her own home. She refused to pay, but a finance company attached her savings account and seized it all—$643.

Some other complaints from wig-buyers recited by the Star included:

A woman bought a wig at a party, cost $217.50. When she went to pick up the wig, she objected that it was a different color. Persuaded to take it anyway, she found it didn't fit. But the finance company sued and a court ordered her to pay.

Some women said they thought they were signing credit application forms; they turned out to be sales contracts.

Others complained that when they brought wigs in to be set and refurbished, the wigs they got back were not the ones they brought in.

Negro Is Shot In Altercation; Man Is Booked

A Monroe businessman was booked for aggravated battery by Monroe police Friday following an incident in which a Negro was seriously shot.

Frank Scalia, 1729 Adams St., was booked on the charge and released under bond. Negro George Smith, 205 N. 18th St., was hospitalized at St. Francis with a gunshot wound of the stomach Friday morning following an argument with Scalia, owner and operator of a combination bar and grocery store on Adams Street. The incident is still under investigation by Monroe police.

Chief James C. Kelly said the shooting occurred around 9 a.m. near Scalia's Grocery Store, at 1729 Adams St. He told police that he and Smith had argued concerning the manner in which he put the Negro man's children out of the bar area of the establishment.

The Negro man allegedly picked up a stick during the disagreement and Scalia went inside to get a .38-caliber pistol. At this point, Smith reportedly ran to his house nearby and got a double-barrel shot-gun. According to reports, he returned to his kitchen door with the shotgun and Scalia fired a warning shot into the ground. Smith allegedly raised the shotgun to his shoulder, pointing it towards Scalia who then fired at Smith, wounding him in the stomach.

Police said they were still questioning witnesses concerning the incident late Friday and that their investigation is not complete yet.

Monroe police were probing the burglary of a Negro high school gymnasium Friday, while West Monroe police reported a $100 theft cleared.

Asst. Police Chief Ralph Graves said Monroe officers were checking the burglary at the Carroll High gymnasium, 1317 Breard St., that occurred sometime Thursday night. Around $3.40 was taken from vending machines and jukeboxes at the building after entrance was gained by picking the lock on a door.

The Monroe department were also investigating a pilfering incident which occurred at a vacant home owned by Mike Luffey, at 200 Pargoud Ave. Luffey told police no one had lived in the house for around six months, but furniture was stored there. Police believe the pilfering of the residence is the work of juveniles, since nothing was taken.

Meanwhile, West Monroe officers said that a theft involving $100 in cash in a wallet Thursday night has been closed out. Mrs. C. J. Ford said her wallet was taken from Cookie's Cafe, 1507 Cypress St., Thursday night. However, she later notified police she had found the wallet which had simply been misplaced.

The Ouachita Parish sheriff's department released a West Monroe man, Clem Frank Woitena, 404 Park Ave., to Shreveport police Friday after arresting him for them. Shreveport police wanted him arrested on a count of theft by check. The sheriff's department also reported the theft of a car from Riley Buick Company on Louisville Avenue has been cleared with the arrest of a Bastrop man by Arkansas authorities. Tommy E. Lynn, 20, of Bastrop, was apprehended in Lake Village, Ark. Friday in a 1959-model Ford convertible which was stolen from the auto dealers here abou tSept. 10. He is being held in Hamburg, Ark., under a $1,500 bond for sheriff's deputies who have placed a detainer on him with the Hamburg sheriff's office.

Two Texas youths were returned from Center, Tex., by sheriff department officers and a Monroe policeman late Friday on counts of auto theft. The men, Charles Otis Conway, 17, and Eunice S. McGee, 18, both of Houston, were wanted by Monroe police for the theft of a 1960-molel car belonging to Mrs. Janey B. Smith, of 205 Belmont Circle, Monroe. The car was recovered in Bossier City. Both of the youths were being held in the parish jail under bonds of $2,000 each.

Monroe police also booked a 23-year-old West Monroe man, Donald S. Potier, 103 Reagan St., for speeding, driving while under the influence of intoxicating beverages and running a red light. Potier was arrested at 10 p.m. at the intersection of Lee and Hampton Streets and held under bonds totaling $500.

Local law agencies had also been alerted to be on the lookout for two unidentified white men early Friday who were reported involved in an armed robbery in Bossier City. They were reportedly driving a stolen, white 1962 Chevrolet and were believed to be armed and dangerous. Authrities were told that if the vehicle were found abandoned any where, it should not be touched until law agencies were able to check the car.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Voice Of Broadway

By DOROTHY KILGALLEN

MISS MIDNIGHT'S NOTEBOOK: Montgomery Clift's next scheduled movie, "The Heart Is a Lonely Hunter," won't go before the cameras as planned. The film, based on Carson McCuller's novel, has been beset by problems from the start — one of them being the high cost of getting the customary insurance for the star, in view of Mr. Clift's problems with the producers of "Freud." The picture was to have been directed by Sidney Lumet, and Marty Allen (of the Allen and Rossi comedy team) had just been signed to play a deaf mute in it. . . Great news for the chic aficionados of Bobby Short. He'll have his own room in the Sheraton East come Fall (October probably) making that hotel one of the key entertainment places in town. Wherever Bobby takes his piano and his amazing repertoire of songs, he attracts the most loyal and elegant following this side of Leonard Bernstein.

Friends returning from Europe report that William Holden has lost so much weight "he looks like a lean, professional tennis player — and years younger." They think going on the wagon did it . . . . Gerry Mulligan disbanded his big aggregation — again — last week. The problem is always the same: the large bands are so expensive it's almost impossible to show a profit unless you have hit records going, like Woody Herman . . . Marlon Brando must be planning to spend more time than usual in New York. Some of his pals are looking for a deluxe mid-Manhattan penthouse to sublet for him.

Shylock rates in New York are going up within the next week or so. The moneylenders claim the risk is getting higher these days because it has become more expensive to hire sluggers to collect from clients who skip a series of payments. Rates for that sort of thing zoomed sharply after the trigger-happy Falco and Tarantino brought police heat on the collectors by killing that New York Times pressman . . . One of the few Broadway musicals enjoying happy advance talk o nthe show biz grapevine is David Merrick's "110 in the Shade." All those who've heard the score say it's one of the loveliest in several seasons . . . Joe De Maggio is due in New York from San Francisco for the World Series.

The young daughter of an executive at one of the talent agencies is perfectly frank about her illegitimate baby. She tells friends that its father is one of daddy's clients — a singing star — and that he contributes to the child's support . . . The Treniers (the famous family group of jazz vocalists and instrumentalists) lost almost all their musical instruments, porfessional equipment and wardrobe in a fire that destroyed the truck transporting their gear from New York to Hollywood. It happened on the Pennsylvania Turnpike.

Billy Eckstine has been plagued by a siege of throat trouble, serious enough to cause postponement of a recent recording session. . . .Stanley Baker and his wife will be house guests at Sybil Burton's West Side digs when they arrive from London later this month.

(Baker is one of Richard Burton's best friends) But Sybil had better be prepared for such excess baggage as two dozen authentic native spears, shields and ostrich-plumed headdresses from Africa. They were all props from Stanley's "Zulu" movie, and he can't seem to part with them.

Mary Martin's friends are worried that she's losing too much weight working so hard on her strenuous part in "Jennie," her Broadway-bound musical which has had so many problems and so many changes. She's never been anything but ideally slim, so she can't afford to shed many pounds . . . . . . .Harry Belafonte smashed another record by taking in $106,000 in his performance at the Greek Theatre in Los Angeles.

Why Grow Old

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

A little more than a year ago Dr. Seymore H. Rinzler reported on the results of the first four years of the Anti-Coronary Club at the annual meeting of The Medical Society of the State of New York.

The Anti-Coronary Club is a research project of the New York City Department of Health. The object of the study is to find out if lowering blood cholesterol by diet will make heart attacks less likely.

The participants in this study all volunteered. They received physical examinations and diet instructions. The diet they used is called the prudent diet. Generally speaking, it eliminates or reduces the amount of butter, whole milk, whole milk cheese, ordinary hydrogenated margarines and hydrogenated shortenings—and also such as beef, pork, lamb and eggs. These were replaced with foods which provide unsaturated fatty acids such as corn oil, fish, grains, poultry and leaner meats such as veal.

The low number of heart attacks among the middle-aged men following this diet was dramatic. Instead of 23 coronaries which had been predicted there were only five. The calculation of the number of heart attacks to be expected in a group of about 500 men was based on a study made by the National Heart Institute.

The directors of this research predicted around 14 coronaries among the men who had only one rish factor. There were only three. Three of the main risk factors are high blood pressure, high blood cholesterol level and overweight. Among those who had several coronary strikes against them, about 16 heart attacks had been expected but only one occurred.

Cautiously, Dr. Rinzler said, "There does seem to be reasonable grounds to entertain the hypothesis that the prudent diet may represent a feasible approach to the solution of the public heatlh problem posed by coronary heart disease."

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Voice Of Broadway

By DOROTHY KILGALLEN

MISS MIDNIGHT'S NOTEBOOK: Montgomery Clift's next scheduled movie, "The Heart Is a Lonely Hunter," won't go before the cameras as planned. The film, based on Carson McCuller's novel, has been beset by problems from the start — one of them being the high cost of getting the customary insurance for the star, in view of Mr. Clift's problems with the producers of "Freud." The picture was to have been directed by Sidney Lumet, and Marty Allen (of the Allen and Rossi comedy team) had just been signed to play a deaf mute in it. . . Great news for the chic aficionados of Bobby Short. He'll have his own room in the Sheraton East come Fall (October probably) making that hotel one of the key entertainment places in town. Wherever Bobby takes his piano and his amazing repertoire of songs, he attracts the most loyal and elegant following this side of Leonard Bernstein.

Friends returning from Europe report that William Holden has lost so much weight "he looks like a lean, professional tennis player — and years younger." They think going on the wagon did it . . . . Gerry Mulligan disbanded his big aggregation — again — last week. The problem is always the same: the large bands are so expensive it's almost impossible to show a profit unless you have hit records going, like Woody Herman . . . Marlon Brando must be planning to spend more time than usual in New York. Some of his pals are looking for a deluxe mid-Manhattan penthouse to sublet for him.

Shylock rates in New York are going up within the next week or so. The moneylenders claim the risk is getting higher these days because it has become more expensive to hire sluggers to collect from clients who skip a series of payments. Rates for that sort of thing zoomed sharply after the trigger-happy Falco and Tarantino bruoght police heat on the collectors by killing that New York Times pressman . . . One of the few Broadway musicals enjoying happy advance talk o nthe show biz grapevine is David Merrick's "110 in the Shade." All those who've heard the score say it's one of the loveliest in several seasons . . . Joe De Maggio is due in New York from San Francisco for the World Series.

The young daughter of an executive at one of the talent agencies is perfectly frank about her illegitimate baby. She tells friends that its father is one of daddy's clients — a singing star — and that he contributes to the child's support . . . The Treniers (the famous family group of jazz vocalists and instrumentalists) lost almost all their musical instruments, porfessional equipment and wardrobe in a fire that destroyed the truck transporting their gear from New York to Hollywood. It happened on the Pennsylvania Turnpike.

Billy Eckstine has been plagued by a siege of throat trouble, serious enough to cause postponement of a recent recording session. . . Stanley Baker and his wife will be house guests at Sybil Burton's West Side digs when they arrive from London later this month.

(Baker is one of Richard Burton's best friends) But Sybil had better be prepared for such excess baggage as two dozen authentic native spears, shields and ostrich-plumed headdresses from Africa. They were all props from Stanley's "Zulu" movie, and he can't seem to part with them.

Mary Martin's friends are worried that she's losing too much weight working so hard on her strenuous part in "Jennie," her Broadway-bound musical which has had so many problems and so many changes. She's never been anything but ideally slim, so she can't afford to shed many pounds . . . . . . Harry Belafonte smashed another record by taking in $106,000 in his performance at the Greek Theatre in Los Angeles.

Why Grow Old

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

A little more than a year ago Dr. Seymore H. Rinzler reported on the results of the first four years of the Anti-Coronary Club at the annual meeting of The Medical Society of the State of New York.

The Anti-Coronary Club is a research project of the New York City Department of Health. The object of the study is to find out if lowering blood cholesterol by diet will make heart attacks less likely.

The participants in this study all volunteered. They received physical examinations and diet instructions. The diet they used is called the prudent diet. Generally speaking, it eliminates or reduces the amount of butter, whole milk, whole milk cheese, ordinary hydrogenated margarines and hydrogenated shortenings—and also such as beef, pork, lamb and eggs. These were replaced with foods which provide unsaturated fatty acids such as corn oil, fish, grains, poultry and leaner meats such as veal.

The low number of heart attacks among the middle-aged men following this diet was dramatic. Instead of 23 coronaries which had been predicted there were only five. The calculation of the number of heart attacks to be expected in a group of about 500 men was based on a study made by the National Heart Institute.

The directors of this research predicted around 14 coronaries among the men who had only one rish factor. There were only three. Three of the main risk factors are high blood pressure, high blood cholesterol level and overweight. Among those who had several coronary strikes against them, about 16 heart attacks had been expected but only one occurred.

Cautiously, Dr. Rinzler said, "There does seem to be reasonable grounds to entertain the hypothesis that the prudent diet may represent a feasible approach to the solution of the public heatlh problem posed by coronary heart disease."

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

REPLACING LOST IRON

Minerals are just as important as vitamins in the diet. Iron as an essential part of the hemoglobin molecule found in red blood cells. If there is not enough iron in the diet for the person's needs, or it is not being absorbed properly, the hemoglobin content goes down and anemia ensues.

The manifestations of iron deficiency anemia include fatigue and skin pallor. A borderline anemia seldom leads to symptoms as the iron content must go down considerably before the individual feels listless. A little extra iron in these instances does wonders in a short time. With this background on the condition, I wonder what you think about the following letter:

"I have been taking iron tablets for 15 years. Have any recent studies been made to determine the effects of taking this mineral for a prolonged period?"

We could tell our champion iron user apparently no harm has been done because signs of poisoning would have appeared by now. But somewhere along the line she has missed the boat. Most of us get all the iron we need in food; supplements rarely are needed unless anemia develops for other reasons.

Blood loss thru an accident or a ruptured blood vessel will lower the red cell count, and a transfusion will replace the loss. Some develop anemia because the hydrochloric acid in the stomach is deficient. This is easily corrected by taking the acid with meals. Others fail to absorb iron because of a digestive disorder.

The most frequent cause of a persistent iron deficiency anemia is minor bleeding, such as from hemorroids or the urinary tract. Oozing may be so slight it is not noticeable and can be detected only by chemical tests. With this type of blood loss, the situation is like trying to fill a bucket that has a hole in the bottom. The leakage is just enough to produce anemia and, unless bleeding is stopped, blood loss continues.

Our correspondent should consider these possibilities. Anemia must be regarded as a symptom and the cause ought to be found and eliminated.

NO QUARANTINE

G. J. writes: How much isolation is needed in mononucleosis? Our young son is down with it and has to stay in bed a long time. This will be tedious for him unless members of the family can visit him in his room.

REPLY

Use sensible precautions because mononucleosis is not as contagious as measles, mumps, and other infectious diseases.

CHAFED TISSUES

Mrs. R. writes: What causes chafing? I am not overweight but suffer from this condition every summer.

REPLY

Friction, lack of exposure to the tir, and overactivity of the sweat glands are the usual origins. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on chafing.

MARKED INFANT

Mrs. Q. writes: Our baby has dark red hand marks on her cheek. Do these marks go away?

REPLY

Yes, if they are stork marks, but no, if they are birthmarks. Bring this matter to the attention of your physician.

FROZEN ULCER

L. C. writes: My husband is thinking of having his ulcer frozen. Do you think it is safe?

REPLY

Possibly, but we don't know as yet what might happen to the lining of the stomach or duodenum after being frozen.

General Walker Will Speak At Neville Tonight

Gen. Edwin A. Walker will speak here tonight in Neville High School Auditorium at 7:30 p.m., sponsored by the Ouachita Parish Citizens Council.

No admission will be charged, according to Max Binford, Council president.

Walker, who was charged by the federal government with inciting a riot when Ole Miss was integrated, has been traveling all over the country on speaking engagements.

He has a two-fold purpose in appearing here, said Binford — to "awaken the people of a socialist take — over of the federal government" and to mobilize and reorganize the Ouachita Parish Citizens Council.

Gen. Walker quit the army after he was in command of troops sent to assure integration at Little Rock. He was arrested when he appeared on Ole Miss campus at Oxford, Miss., when President Kennedy sent troops to intergrate there.

Currently residing in Dallas, Tex., Walker has spoken recently to crowds in Baton Rouge and Shreveport.

THIS WAS THE CIVIL WAR

By MERTON T. AKERS
United Press International

Two tough western armies fought one of the bloodiest battles of the Civil War on Sept. 19-20, 1863, along Chickamauga Creek, which the Cherokee Indians called "The River of Death."

It was a confused and bitter fight, this battle of Chickamauga, fought south of Chattanooga, Tenn., in the northern Georgia hills on wooded land broken here and there by farm clearings. The fighting was fierce, casualties heavy. There was gallantry enough for all.

Often it has been called "the soldiers' battle" because it was fought piecemeal in the woods where frequently captains and lieutenants were giving the orders and commanders more often than not were unaware of the position of their own or the enemy's units.

After two days of fighting Chickamauga Creek was indeed "The River of Death."

The battle had its paradox, too.

The Union hero was a Virginian in blue, Maj. Gen. George H. Thomas who had cast his lot with the North at the war's start. The Confederate hero was an Ohioan in gray, Brig. Gen. Bushrod R. Johnson, who had chosen the South.

The battle had been brewing for weeks.

Maj. Gen. William S. Rosecrans' Federal Army of the Cumberland had maneuvered Gen. Braxton Bragg's Army of Tennessee out of Chattanooga.

Rosecrans nearly had ended up disastrously before Chickamauga by dispersing his force and pursuing a "retreating" Confederate army that wasn't retreating.

On Sept. 18 the armies were poised for battle, the Federals on the west side of Chickamauga Creek, the Confederates on the east.

Figures differ but Bragg outnumbered Rosecrans, one of the few times in the war when the South went into battle with superior numbers. The most authoritative counts give Rosecrans 58,222 effective troops and Bragg 66,326. Part of Bragg's troops came from the Army of Northern Virginia and was commanded by Lt. Gen. James Longstreet, senior corps commander of Gen. Robert E. Lee. Bragg's margin of victory was Longstreet and his troops although only about 5,000 had arrived in time for the battle.

Preliminary fighting began on Sept. 18 when Bragg started pushing his army across the bridges of Chicamauga Creek which was too deep to ford in most places. Federal cavalry opposed the crossings. It was late in the afternoon when the Confederates finally forced Reed's Bridge. Bluecoated cavalrymen repulsed the Confederates at Alexander's Bridge and dismantled it, forcing Bragg's men to use a ford.

The fighting on the 18th was brisk but merely a curtain raiser for the bloody two days to come.

Both sides spent the night of Sept. 18-19 shifting troops. Rosecrans extended his line to the left until it overlapped the Confederate right but neither commander knew the exact positions of the other's troops. The battle lines were about six miles long.

Bragg's plan was to strike the Federal left wing, roll it back on the center and right, thereby driving the Union army into McLemore's Cove, a valley between Missionary Ridge and Pigeon Mountain. There was no escape from McLemore's Cove. If penned there Rosecrans' army would have to surrender or die.

But on the 19th the Federals attacked first. Thomas, commanding the Union left, early in the morning sent a division to reconnoiter toward Chicamauga Creek where a Confederate brigade was reported to be isolated. First they encountered Gray cavalry fighting dismounted, then infantry.

Instead of a brigade that was supposed to be isolated it turned out to be a division. The Federals hit it on the flank and broke it. The Confederates brought up more men and flanked and broke the Federals in turn.

Rosecrans committed more divisions from the center and right as the pressure increased and the fighting spread along the lines.

By dark every division of the three-corps Federal army had been in the fight. Only two Confederate divisions were not engaged. Two-thirds of Rosecrans' army now had come under the command of Thomas.

The Confederates made some gains that day but took a mauling.

Night came on — an eerie night from eyewitness accounts, with squads tramping in the woods looking for water or wounded comrades. Only starlight came through the holes in the battle smoke and the occasional flash of a gun lighted a clearing fleetingly.

Tomorrow would tell the tale, soldiers told one another as they bedded down, Thomas with an oak tree root for a pillow.

About midnight Longstreet arrived and woke up Bragg. They laid plans for the next day's fight. Longstreet would command the left, Lt. Gen. Leonidas Polk, an Episcopal bishop, the right.

The dawn was foggy, some of it battle smoke, some morning mist.

Bragg attacked from his right to left starting about 9 a.m. that Sunday morning.

The first assault hit Thomas. His troops stood and fought but were pressed. He called for more men. Rosecrans ordered up reinforcements.

Here "Old Rosy" made a mistake that was to be fatal.

Mistakenly, he ordered a brigade commanded by Brig. Gen. T. J. Wood to support another on the left.

He misnamed the brigade to be supported. Wood, taking the order at face value, pulled his brigade out of the line and moved toward the position indicated.

That left a hole in the line.

Purely by chance Longstreet chose that moment to attack and at exactly the point vacated by Wood.

Bushrod Johnson led Longstreet's troops in the attack. He found no opposition and broke through. The drive cut the Army of the Cumberland in two, the right from the left flank.

The Federal right broke and streamed back, the panic snowballing. The Confederates poured in more troops and the Federals on that flank headed back for Chattanooga. That left Thomas isolated on the left and fighting for his life. The break-through occurred about noon.

Maj. Gen. Gordon Granger, commanding a small Federal corps held in reserve, heard the firing and concluded Thomas needed help. He marched to the sound of the guns without specific orders and reached the embattled Thomas in the nick of time.

All afternoon Thomas fought off attack after attack — upwards of 25 first and last — with his own troops, Ganger's and as many fugitives as he could corral.

As the sun was setting he began an orderly retreat back through and rode back to Chattanooga with the fugitives, dazed and defeated, an act that had much to do with his eventually being relieved.

His chief of staff, Maj. Gen. James A. Garfield, a future President, rode back to Thomas after the disaster with Rosecrans' order to withdraw.

Garfield messaged back to Rosecrans.

"Thomas standing like a rock."

Thereafter "Old Pap" Thomas was the "Rock of Chicamauga."

Now that Rosecrans' army was defeated but saved from complete rout by Thomas, Bragg wasted the next day getting reports and salvaging war material.

That delay enabled the Federals to pull into Chattanooga and to strengthen its defenses.

The price of Bragg's victory and Rosecrans' defeat was high.

Union casualties were: Killed, 1,657; wounded, 9,756; missing, 4,757; total 16,170. Confederate: Killed, 2,312; wounded, 14,674; missing, 1,468; total, 18,454.

REPLACING LOST IRON

Minerals are just as important as vitamins in the diet. Iron as an essential part of the hemoglobin molecule found in red blood cells. If there is not enough iron in the diet for the person's needs, or it is not being absorbed properly, the hemoglobin content goes down and anemia ensues.

The manifestations of iron deficiency anemia include fatigue and skin pallor. A borderline anemia seldom leads to symptoms as the iron content must go down considerably before the individual feels listless. A little extra iron in these instances does wonders in a short time. With this background on the condition, I wonder what you think about the following letter:

"I have been taking iron tablets for 15 years. Have any recent studies been made to determine the effects of taking this mineral for a prolonged period?"

We could tell our champion iron user apparently no harm has been done because signs of poisoning would have appeared by now. But somewhere along the line she has missed the boat. Most of us get all the iron we need in food; supplements rarely are needed unless anemia develops for other reasons.

Blood loss thru an accident or a ruptured blood vessel will lower the red cell count, and a transfusion will replace the loss. Some develop anemia because the hydrochloric acid in the stomach is deficient. This is easily corrected by taking the acid with meals. Others fail to absorb iron because of a digestive disorder.

---

The most frequent cause of a persistent iron deficiency anemia is minor bleeding, such as from hemorroids or the urinary tract. Oozing may be so slight it is not noticeable and can be detected only by chemical tests. With this type of blood loss, the situation is like trying to fill a bucket that has a hole in the bottom. The leakage is just enough to produce anemia and, unless bleeding is stopped, blood loss continues.

Our correspondent should consider these possibilities. Anemia must be regarded as a symptom and the cause ought to be found and eliminated.

NO QUARANTINE

G. J. writes: How much isolation is needed in mononucleosis? Our young son is down with it and has to stay in bed a long time. This will be tedious for him unless members of the family can visit him in his room.

REPLY

Use sensible precautions because mononucleosis is not as contagious as measles, mumps, and other infectious diseases.

CHAFED TISSUES

Mrs. R. writes: What causes chafing? I am not overweight but suffer from this condition every summer.

REPLY

Friction, lack of exposure to the tir, and overactivity of the sweat glands are the usual origins. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on chafing.

MARKED INFANT

Mrs. Q. writes: Our baby has dark red hand marks on her cheek. Do these marks go away?

REPLY

Yes, if they are stork marks, but no, if they are birthmarks. Bring this matter to the attention of your physician.

FROZEN ULCER

L. C. writes: My husband is thinking of having his ulcer frozen. Do you think it is safe?

REPLY

Possibly, but we don't know as yet what might happen to the lining of the stomach or duodenum after being frozen.

General Walker Will Speak At Neville Tonight

Gen. Edwin A. Walker will speak here tonight in Neville High School Auditorium at 7:30 p.m., sponsored by the Ouachita Parish Citizens Council.

No admission will be charged, according to Max Binford, Council president.

Walker, who was charged by the federal government with inciting a riot when Ole Miss was integrated, has been traveling all over the country on speaking engagements.

He has a two-fold purpose in appearing here, said Binford — to "awaken the people of a socialist take — over of the federal government" and to mobilize and reorganize the Ouachita Parish Citizens Council.

Gen. Walker quit the army after he was in command of troops sent to assure integration at Little Rock. He was arrested when he appeared on Ole Miss campus at Oxford, Miss., when President Kennedy sent troops to intergrate there.

Currently residing in Dallas, Tex., Walker has spoken recently to crowds in Baton Rouge and Shreveport.

THIS WAS THE CIVIL WAR

By MERTON T. AKERS
United Press International

Two tough western armies fought one of the bloodiest battles of the Civil War on Sept. 19-20, 1863, along Chickamauga Creek, which the Cherokee Indians called "The River of Death."

It was a confused and bitter fight, this battle of Chickamauga, fought south of Chattanooga, Tenn., in the northern Georgia hills on wooded land broken here and there by farm clearings. The fighting was fierce, casualties heavy. There was gallantry enough for all.

Often it has been called "the soldiers' battle" because it was fought piecemeal in the woods where frequently captains and lieutenants were giving the orders and commanders more often than not were unaware of the position of their own or the enemy's units.

After two days of fighting Chickamauga Creek was indeed "The River of Death."

The battle had its paradox, too.

The Union hero was a Virginian in blue, Maj. Gen. George H. Thomas who had cast his lot with the North at the war's start. The Confederate hero was an Ohioan in gray, Brig. Gen. Bushrod R. Johnson, who had chosen the South.

The battle had been brewing for weeks.

Maj. Gen. William S. Rosecrans' Federal Army of the Cumberland had maneuvered Gen. Braxton Bragg's Army of Tennessee out of Chattanooga.

Rosecrans nearly had ended up disastrously before Chickamauga by dispersing his force and pursuing a "retreating" Confederate army that wasn't retreating.

On Sept. 18 the armies were poised for battle, the Federals on the west side of Chickamauga Creek, the Confederates on the east.

Figures differ but Bragg outnumbered Rosecrans, one of the few times in the war when the South went into battle with superior numbers. The most authoritative counts give Rosecrans 58,222 effective troops and Bragg 66,326. Part of Bragg's troops came from the Army of Northern Virginia and was commanded by Lt. Gen. James Longstreet, senior corps commander of Gen. Robert E. Lee. Bragg's margin of victory was Longstreet and his troops although only about 5,000 had arrived in time for the battle.

Preliminary fighting began on Sept. 18 when Bragg started pushing his army across the bridges of Chicamauga Creek which was too deep to ford in most places. Federal cavalry opposed the crossings. It was late in the afternoon when the Confederates finally forced Reed's Bridge. Bluecoated cavalrymen repulsed the Confederates at Alexander's Bridge and dismantled it, forcing Bragg's men to use a ford.

The fighting on the 18th was brisk but merely a curtain raiser for the bloody two days to come.

Both sides spent the night of Sept. 18-19 shifting troops. Rosecrans extended his line to the left until it overlapped the Confederate right but neither commander knew the exact positions of the other's troops. The battle lines were about six miles long.

Bragg's plan was to strike the Federal left wing, roll it back on the center and right, thereby driving the Union army into McLemore's Cove, a valley between Missionary Ridge and Pigeon Mountain. There was no escape from McLemore's Cove. If penned there Rosecrans' army would have to surrender or die.

But on the 19th the Federals attacked first. Thomas, commanding the Union left, early in the morning sent a division to reconnoiter toward Chicamauga Creek where a Confederate brigade was reported to be isolated. First they encountered Gray cavalry fighting dismounted, then infantry.

Instead of a brigade that was supposed to be isolated it turned out to be a division. The Federals hit it on the flank and broke it. The Confederates brought up more men and flanked and broke the Federals in turn.

Rosecrans committed more divisions from the center and right as the pressure increased and the fighting spread along the lines.

By dark every division of the three-corps Federal army had been in the fight. Only two Confederate divisions were not engaged. Two-thirds of Rosecrans' army now had come under the command of Thomas.

The Confederates made some gains that day but took a mauling.

Night came on — an eerie night from eyewitness accounts, with squads tramping in the woods looking for water or wounded comrades. Only starlight came through the holes in the battle smoke and the occasional flash of a gun lighted a clearing fleetingly.

Tomorrow would tell the tale, soldiers told one another as they bedded down, Thomas with an oak tree root for a pillow.

About midnight Longstreet arrived and woke up Bragg. They laid plans for the next day's fight. Longstreet would command the left, Lt. Gen. Leonidas Polk, an Episcopal bishop, the right.

The dawn was foggy, some of it battle smoke, some morning mist.

Bragg attacked from his right to left starting about 9 a.m. that Sunday morning.

The first assault hit Thomas. His troops stood and fought but were pressed. He called for more men. Rosecrans ordered up reinforcements.

Here "Old Rosy" made a mistake that was to be fatal.

Mistakenly, he ordered a brigade commanded by Brig. Gen. T. J. Wood to support another on the left.

He misnamed the brigade to be supported. Wood, taking the order at face value, pulled his brigade out of the line and moved toward the position indicated.

That left a hole in the line.

Purely by chance Longstreet chose that moment to attack and at exactly the point vacated by Wood.

Bushrod Johnson led Longstreet's troops in the attack. He found no opposition and broke through. The drive cut the Army of the Cumberland in two, the right from the left flank.

The Federal right broke and streamed back, the panic snowballing. The Confederates poured in more troops and the Federals on that flank headed back for Chattanooga. That left Thomas isolated on the left and fighting for his life. The break-through occurred about noon.

Maj. Gen. Gordon Granger, commanding a small Federal corps held in reserve, heard the firing and concluded Thomas needed help. He marched to the sound of the guns without specific orders and reached the embattled Thomas in the nick of time.

All afternoon Thomas fought off attack after attack — upwards of 25 first and last — with his own troops, Ganger's and as many fugitives as he could corral.

As the sun was setting he began an orderly retreat back through and rode back to Chattanooga with the fugitives, dazed and defeated, an act that had much to do with his eventually being relieved.

His chief of staff, Maj. Gen. James A. Garfield, a future President, rode back to Thomas after the disaster with Rosecrans' order to withdraw.

Garfield messaged back to Rosecrans.

"Thomas standing like a rock."

Thereafter "Old Pap" Thomas was the "Rock of Chicamauga."

Now that Rosecrans' army was defeated but saved from complete rout by Thomas, Bragg wasted the next day getting reports and salvaging war material.

That delay enabled the Federals to pull into Chattanooga and to strengthen its defenses.

The price of Bragg's victory and Rosecrans' defeat was high.

Yanks Clinch Pennant; Cardinals Catching Up

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Veteran left-hander Curt Simmons and Stan (The Grandpa) Musial again produced a major share of the heroics as the surging St. Louis Cardinals trimmed another one-half game from Los Angeles' National League lead and moved to within 2½ games of the Dodgers Friday night.

Meanwhile, the New York Yankees became the American League entry in the World Series, clinching their fourth straight pennant and 28th over-all with a 2-0 decision at Minnesota. Jim Bouton pitched the pennant-clincher and became a 20-game winner with a six-hitter.

Simmons took care of the pitching with his third straight shutout, checking Milwaukee on five hits in a 7-0 victory while Musial went 2-for-3 as the Cardinals rolled to their seventh consecutive triumph and the 16th in 17 games.

The Dodgers, who led the Cardinals by seven games two weeks ago, lost another half-length of their once-commanding lead when they split a twi-night doubleheader at Philadelphia, losing the opener 3-2 before salvaging the nightcap 2-1.

Simmons, posting the Cardinals' fourth shutout in the last five games, brought his record to 15-7 with his fourth straight victory. And for the 10th time in the last 14 games, the Cardinals scored in the first inning.

Musial, who has hit at a .571 clip with 8-for-14 in a six-game hitting streak, got the Cardinals started against 20-game winner Warren Spahn with a double — and immediately scored on Ken Boyer's homer. That was more than enough for Simmons.

The Dodgers pulled ahead in the opener on Frank Howard's two-run ninth inning homer—only the fourth hit off Chris Short. But a throwing error by Maury Wills on a double play attempt in the last of the ninth enabled the Phillies to score the tying and winning runs.

The Dodgers got the winning run across in the eighth inning of the nightcap on a single by Tommy Davis, a double by Howard and a slow roller by Ken McMullen. Ron Perranoski protected the lead, bringing his record to 15-3.

In other NL games, Willie Stargell figured in all the scoring as Pittsburgh edged San Francisco 5-4 in 13 innings, the Chicago Cubs edged Cincinnati 3-2 and Houston's Don Nottebart shut out the New York Mets on two hits.

In other AL action, Boston belted Kansas City 7-3, Detroit edged Baltimore 3-2 and the Chicago White Sox downed Washington 5-2.

The Los Angeles Angels led Cleveland 4-2 after six innings.

MINNEAPOLIS-ST. PAUL (AP) The New York Yankees celebrated their 28th pennant with the traditional champagne popping Friday night, but it was mostly a show for the youngsters on the team.

Such old pros at this pennant-winning thing as Whitey Ford, Yogi Berra and Mickey Mantle sat back and watched the kids have fun.

"It's for everybody," Ford said as he stood in a corner watching the bubbly stuff poured over the head of Manager Ralph Houk, Joe Pepitone and Elston Howard. "We get a kick out of it, but it's more fun for them."

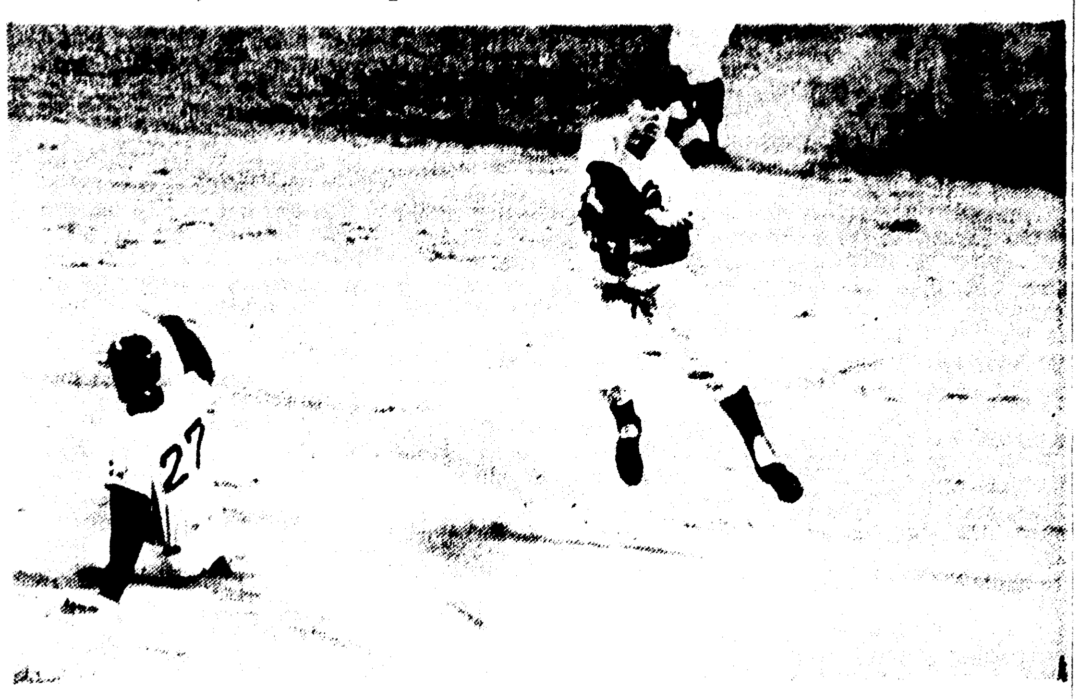
Several players retreated to the relative safety of the Yankee training room off the main dressing room below Metropolitan Stadium so they could eat food laid out on a long table.

Among them was Mantle, who was his usual dour self in spite of the celebration around him.

Asked if it was still a thrill to clinch a pennant, Mantle replied mockingly "yeah, it's lovely."

Mantle informed three writers who tried to talk to him that they were supposed to remain outside the training room. One asked him if he would be ready to play Saturday, however, and he answered, "Sure, but it doesn't matter much tomorrow."

Pitcher Ralph Terry sounded an optimistic note when he said, "we're going t ohave a few more of these parties, I think with these young guys around."



HOWIE GOSS, Houston Colts centerfielder, slides in vain, victim of a forceout at second base as the initial out in twin killings by the New York Mets in game at Polo Grounds in New York City Friday. ## SECOND STRAIGHT

Bastrop Rams Blank Neville Tigers 13-0

BASTROP (Special) — Bastrop's Rams played tough defensive football and made use of the opportunities they got to grind out a 13-0 victory over Neville's Class AA defending state champions here Friday night.

After a scoreless first quarter, Bastrop came up with a fumble on the Tiger 40-yard line and drove from there for the first touchdown.

Quarterback Rickey Head scored the touchdown from four yards out, going around left end and Tom Holmer kicked the extra point.

Key play in the eight-play drive was a 24-yard pass from Head to end Morris Funderburg.

Bastrop scored its second touchdown in the third quarter, going 50-yards in five plays. Four plays got down to the 15 where halfback Rickey Reynolds skirted right end for the score. The point after attempt failed.

| | Neville | Bastrop |
|---|---|---|
| Yards Rushing | 64 | 135 |
| Yards Passing | 9 | 49 |
| Passes (A&C) | 4-2 | 6-3 |
| Int. By | 0 | 1 |
| Penalty | 3-31 | 4-50 |
| Fumbles Lost | 2 | 0 |

So decisive was the Rams' defensive play that Neville gained only 64-yards and made only three first downs in the game.

In the second period, Neville punched down to the Bastrop 30 where the Rams held on downs. This was as far as the Tigers could penetrate.

New Bastrop Coach Joe Murray who celebrated his second straight victory as a head coach praised his team's defensive effort after the game. He said if he had to single out one player it would be center and linebacker Mickey Michaud. "He's our team leader and led the team in tackles," Murray explained.

"Neville competed well and played good, clean football," he said. "They took the loss like true champions and we were happy to play them."

Other standouts for Bastrop included Head and Reynolds, fullback John Bailey and end Milton Dowdy.

Turning in good performances for the Tigers were Gary Pappas, Bobby Robinson, and Walter Causey.

Bastrop, which has not been scored on this year, blanked Jonesboro 12-0 last week, while West Monroe was topping Neville 14-12.

Annual Madness

Alas, that time is here when the green of the turf, the thud of cleat and pigskin exerts its mystical power on the sportswriter and lures him Lemming-fashion to a self-imposed doom — predicting football winners.

An introductory season at this autumnal madness last year was no help for this writer. Escaping with a .747 average served only to whet the appetite.

And since picking close to three out of four was apparently based on (1) sticking to conservative selecting and (2) covering a wide enough field to make up for a variety of foolish mistakes, something different is in order.

To make the "game" a little more interesting we are going to limit the selection field to the Southeastern Conference, the Gulf States Conference (only area where this writer is competent enough to stick out the old neck) and a few other key games.

This, of course, will greatly increase the weight of any wrong picks and the make upset predicting the only possible way to equal last years' mark.

The thrill, they say, is in the chase.

And the folly of making the game more interesting is apparent. Last year we started out with nine breathers opening week and had nine correct selections to fatten the average. This year the season starts with three selections and the odds on being wrong in all three are wonderful.

But, such is this brand of Russian roulette.

Without further ado here are the selections.

Northwestern 21, Stephen F. Austin 7

The Demons have the manpower to win by this much. But they probably won't, Clayton's crew being the slow starters they often are. Still, it's hard not to go with the defending GSC champs, keeping your fingers crossed until they achieve their annual jelling which usually comes the third week in October.

Georgia Tech 7, Florida 6

What a wonderful way for the football season to start. Whatever happened to the traditional season opening breather? Pick the Jackets in this one by virtue by playing in friendly Grant field.

Memphis State 14, Southern Mississippi 7

An annual blood-letting by a pair of major college powers. Both teams are said loaded this fall and the Tigers might be looking ahead to that date with Ole Miss the next week. Yet . . .

College Baseball?

While the sports world as a whole eagerly awaits the full fledged arrival of football, a pair of Gulf States Conference schools hope to get a jump on spring baseball.

Ted Chapman, baseball coach at McNeese state, put on his thinking cap and came up with a switch on college football. If football coaches have spring practice, Chapman figured, why can't baseball coaches have fall practice?

Chapman, in his second year as Cowboy baseball coach is going to gather his charges together Sept. 16 and workout for about three weeks.

At the same time, Dickie Crowe, who assisted with Northeast State baseball last spring, announced his intentions to drill the Indians this fall. Crowe, already being recognized by the other league coaches for his tutoring ability, is a former Indian star and spent a number of years in professional baseball.

Fantastic Race

And, all the while, one of the most fantastic major league pennant races ever goes on and on. As of Thursday night, the St. Louis Cardinals had won 15 of their last 16 games and the league - leading Los Angeles Dodgers 11 of their last 15.

How long it can continue, no one knows. It seems impossible that two teams can keep on playing this kind of ball, and you can't help but wonder when the strings are going to snap.

Keeping Promises

Talking about baseball, the state's legion baseball teams are probably hoping the James Contractors from Ruston either fold up or quit making promises to themselves.

Last year, the Contractors vowed they'd defeat Monroe's powerful Legion team and win the Fifth District pennant. A lot of people laughed at this, but the Contractors kept their promise.

This year they decided, they'd not only win the district again but they would take the North Louisiana playoff as well.

And this is exactly what they did, despite losing an opening day game in the double elimination playoff.

Coach Charles McClendon alternated the units in the goal line offensive attack with the Go team most succesful in crossing the striper.

Fullback Don Schwab of Thibodaux and Danny LeBlanc of Lake Charles sparked the Go team running attack.

Cannon May Not Start For Houston

HOUSTON (AP) —The Houston Oilers and the Denver Broncos, a pair of American League Football teams smarting from embarrassing opening losses, meet tonight.

Both teams have speedster halfbacks who are doubtful participants.

Billy Cannon, the former Louisiana State All-America, sprained an ankled as the Oilers were upset last week by Oakland, 24-13.

Denver's Tommy Janik, a rookie defensive specialist from Texas A&I, also had an ankle injured as the Kansas City Chiefs shocked the Broncos in record fashion, 59-7.

Dave Smith is scheduled to start in Cannon's spot. Frank (Pop) Ivy the Oiler coach, has made no other changes in his line-ups and says he will stick with George Blanda despite a disappointing performance by the veteran quarterbackagainst Oakland.

The Denver quarterback starter will be Mickey Slaughter, the Louisiana Tech rookie, who threw two touchdown passes against the Oilers as the Broncos took a 27-10 pre-season exhibition game Against Kansas City, Slaughter completed 14 passes in 31 attempts for 135 yards and one touchdown.

Houston holds a 5-1 edge over Denver in three years of league play.

McKinley Rallies To Beat Richey

FORT WORTH (AP) — Teenaged Cliff Richey moved to the threshold of a stunning upset Friday before bowing to top-seeded Chuck McKinley in quarter-finals of the Colonel National Invitation tennis tournament.

McKinley, the Wimbledon champion, finally battled to a tense 4-6, 8-6, 10-8 victory over the stocky, 16-year-old Dallas High School student.

WEST MONROE WINS AGAIN

Bolton Defeated 12-0 By Flashy Rebels

ALEXANDRIA (Special) — West Monroe's hgih - riding Rebels pulled off their second big upset of the young grid season Friday night with a stunning and beautifully - executed 12-0 victory over third ranked Bolton of Alexandria.

Once again Coach Cecil Pirkey's club, which is now 2-0, used a rugged defensive effort and clutch offensive plays to rack up the victory.

Both of the Rebs' tallie came on big fourth down play.

Midway in the first period West Monroe took over on its own 20 and started a long drive which resulted in the first score.

Little halfback Raymond Frazier came up with the biggest play of the drive when he broke loose and picked his way for 68 yards carrying the ball to the Bolton 2.

A few plays later halfback Danny Perkins bulled over from the three on fourth down. The try for the extra point failed and with 2:06 left in the initial quarter West Monroe had a 6-0 lead.

After stopping Bolton on the ensuing kickoff the Rebs got possession on the 25 and again hooked up for a scoring drive.

After picking up one first down and with the ball resting on the West Monroe 44, Jamie Barrett found running room and scooted 25 yards to the Bolton 31.

After an incompleted pass on first down, quarterback Jim Colvin dropped back again on second down and found big end David Jones, the Rebels' sure - fire candidate for post season honors, and hit him on a 21 yard pass and run play which carried to the Bolton 10.

Three plays netted five yards against the Bears, who seemed to be getting both mad and embarrassed. Then Colvin, West Monroe's "Mr. Cool," rolled out to the right on fourth down and hit Jones with a five - yard toss in the end zone and the Rebels had their 12 points. Ray Alexander kicked the point after but West Monroe was off sides and on the second attempt it failed.

In the second half, West Monroe failed to score although driving deep into Bear territory on several occasions while also kept up its tremendous defensive effort to half the hometown crew.

Bolton's closest penetration went to the 14 before Curtis Beavers and Company put down the uprising.

After charging to the West Monroe 19, the Bears set up operation first and 10. On the first down from here the Rebs were offsides, giving Bolton a first and five on the 14. But Beavers came through to nail Bolton's Richard Golmon, the Bears leading ball carrier, for an eight yard loss. By the time West Monroe got possession it had knocked Bolton back to the 26 and also knocked just about all scoring hopes from the Bears' minds. Outstanding also on defense for the Rebs was Roger Bell.

Frazier, on the strength of his 68 yard run, was West Monroe's leading ball carrier with 76 yards on just three tries. Perkins picked up 38 yards on 12 carries, Barrett had 25 and Alexander wheeled for 19.

Golmon had 50 yards, fullback Glenn D'Amico ran for 27 and Billy Petty had 23 to pace Bolton runners.

West Monroe finished with 175 yards rushing to 147 for Bolton.

Yanks Clinch Pennant; Cardinals Catching Up

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Veteran left-hander Curt Simmons and Stan (The Grandpa) Musial again produced a major share of the heroics as the surging St. Louis Cardinals trimmed another one-half game from Los Angeles' National League lead and moved to within 2½ games of the Dodgers Friday night.

Meanwhile, the New York Yankees became the American League entry in the World Series, clinching their fourth straight pennant and 28th over-all with a 2-0 decision at Minnesota. Jim Bouton pitched the pennant-clincher and became a 20-game winner with a six-hitter.

Simmons took care of the pitching with his third straight shutout, checking Milwaukee on five hits in a 7-0 victory while Musial went 2-for-3 as the Cardinals rolled to their seventh consecutive triumph and the 16th in 17 games.

The Dodgers, who led the Cardinals by seven games two weeks ago, lost another half-length of their once-commanding lead when they split a twi-night doubleheader at Philadelphia, losing the opener 3-2 before salvaging the nightcap 2-1.

Simmons, posting the Cardinals' fourth shutout in the last five games, brought his record to 15-7 with his fourth straight victory. And for the 10th time in the last 14 games, the Cardinals scored in the first inning.

Musial, who has hit at a .571 clip with 8-for-14 in a six-game hitting streak, got the Cardinals started against 20-game winner Warren Spahn with a double — and immediately scored on Ken Boyer's homer. That was more than enough for Simmons.

The Dodgers pulled ahead in the opener on Frank Howard's two-run ninth inning homer—only the fourth hit off Chris Short. But a throwing error by Maury Wills on a double play attempt in the last of the ninth enabled the Phillies to score the tying and winning runs.

The Dodgers got the winning run across in the eighth inning of the nightcap on a single by Tommy Davis, a double by Howard and a slow roller by Ken McMullen. Ron Perranoski protected the lead, bringing his record to 15-3.

In other NL games, Willie Stargell figured in all the scoring as Pittsburgh edged San Francisco 5-4 in 13 innings, the Chicago Cubs edged Cincinnati 3-2 and Houston's Don Nottebart shut out the New York Mets on two hits.

In other AL action, Boston belted Kansas City 7-3, Detroit edged Baltimore 3-2 and the Chicago White Sox downed Washington 5-2.

The Los Angeles Angels led Cleveland 4-2 after six innings.

MINNEAPOLIS-ST. PAUL (AP) The New York Yankees celebrated their 28th pennant with the traditional champagne popping Friday night, but it was mostly a show for the youngsters on the team.

Such old pros at this pennant-winning thing as Whitey Ford, Yogi Berra and Mickey Mantle sat back and watched the kids have fun.

"It's for everybody," Ford said as he stood in a corner watching the bubbly stuff poured over the head of Manager Ralph Houk, Joe Pepitone and Elston Howard. "We get a kick out of it, but it's more fun for them."

Several players retreated to the relative safety of the Yankee training room off the main dressing room below Metropolitan Stadium so they could eat food laid out on a long table.

Among them was Mantle, who was his usual dour self in spite of the celebration around him.

Asked if it was still a thrill to clinch a pennant, Mantle replied mockingly "yeah, it's lovely."

Mantle informed three writers who tried to talk to him that they were supposed to remain outside the training room. One asked him if he would be ready to play Saturday, however, and he answered, "Sure, but it doesn't matter much tomorrow."

Pitcher Ralph Terry sounded an optimistic note when he said, "we're going t ohave a few more of these parties. I think with these young guys around."

Bastrop Rams Blank Neville Tigers 13-0

BASTROP (Special) — Bastrop's Rams played tough defensive football and made use of the opportunities they got to grind out a 13-0 victory over Neville's Class AA defending state champions here Friday night.

After a scoreless first quarter, Bastrop came up with a fumble on the Tiger 40-yard line and drove from there for the first touchdown.

Quarterback Rickey Head scored the touchdown from four yards out, going around left end and Tom Holmer kicked the extra point.

Key play in the eight-play drive was a 24-yard pass from Head to end Morris Funderburg.

Bastrop scored its second touchdown in the third quarter, going 50-yards in five plays. Four plays got down to the 15 where halfback Rickey Reynolds skirted right end for the score. The point after attempt failed.

So decisive was the Rams' defensive play that Neville gained only 64-yards and made only three first downs in the game.

In the second period, Neville punched down to the Bastrop 30 where the Rams held on downs. This was as far as the Tigers could penetrate.

New Bastrop Coach Joe Murray who celebrated his second straight victory as a head coach praised his team's defensive effort after the game. He said if he had to single out one player it would be center and linebacker Mickey Michaud. "He's our team leader and led the team in tackles," Murray explained.

"Neville competed well and played good, clean football," he said. "They took the loss like true champions and we were happy to play them."

Other standouts for Bastrop included Head and Reynolds, fullback John Bailey and end Milton Dowdy.

Turning in good performances for the Tigers were Gary Pappas, Bobby Robinson, and Walter Causey.

Bastrop, which has not been scored on this year, blanked Jonesboro 12-0 last week, while West Monroe was topping Neville 14-12.

Rick Bryan
Annual Madness

Alas, that time is here when the green of the turf, the thud of cleat and pigskin exerts its mystical power on the sportswriter and lures him Lemming-fashion to a self-imposed doom — predicting football winners.

An introductory season at this autumnal madness last year was no help for this writer. Escaping with a .747 average served only to whet the appetite.

And since picking close to three out of four was apparently based on (1) sticking to conservative selecting and (2) covering a wide enough field to make up for a variety of foolish mistakes, something different is in order.

To make the "game" a little more interesting we are going to limit the selection field to the Southeastern Conference, the Gulf States Conference (only area where this writer is competent enough to stick out the old neck) and a few other key games.

This, of course, will greatly increase the weight of any wrong picks and the make upset predicting the only possible way to equal last years' mark.

The thrill, they say, is in the chase.

And the folly of making the game more interesting is apparent. Last year we started out with nine breathers opening week and had nine correct selections to fatten the average. This year the season starts with three selections and the odds on being wrong in all three are wonderful.

But, such is this brand of Russian roulette.

Without further ado here are the selections.

Northwestern 21, Stephen F. Austin 7

The Demons have the manpower to win by this much. But they probably won't, Clayton's crew being the slow starters they often are. Still, it's hard not to go with the defending GSC champs, keeping your fingers crossed until they achieve their annual jelling which usually comes the third week in October.

Georgia Tech 7, Florida 6

What a wonderful way for the football season to start. Whatever happened to the traditional season opening breather? Pick the Jackets in this one by virtue by playing in friendly Grant field.

Memphis State 14, Southern Mississippi 7

An annual blood-letting by a pair of major college powers. Both teams are said loaded this fall and the Tigers might be looking ahead to that date with Ole Miss the next week. Yet . . .

College Baseball?

While the sports world as a whole eagerly awaits the full fledged arrival of football, a pair of Gulf States Conference schools hope to get a jump on spring baseball.

Ted Chapman, baseball coach at McNeese state, put on his thinking cap and came up with a switch on college football. If football coaches have spring practice, Chapman figured, why can't baseball coaches have fall practice?

Chapman, in his second year as Cowboy baseball coach is going to gather his charges together Sept. 16 and workout for about three weeks.

At the same time, Dickie Crowe, who assisted with Northeast State baseball last spring, announced his intentions to drill the Indians this fall. Crowe, already being recognized by the other league coaches for his tutoring ability, is a former Indian star and spent a number of years in professional baseball.

Fantastic Race

And, all the while, one of the most fantastic major league pennant races ever goes on and on. As of Thursday night, the St. Louis Cardinals had won 15 of their last 16 games and the league - leading Los Angeles Dodgers 11 of their last 15.

How long it can continue, no one knows. It seems impossible that two teams can keep on playing this kind of ball, and you can't help but wonder when the strings are going to snap.

Keeping Promises

Talking about baseball, the state's legion baseball teams are probably hoping the James Contractors from Ruston either fold up or quit making promises to themselves.

Last year, the Contractors vowed they'd defeat Monroe's powerful Legion team and win the Fifth District pennant. A lot of people laughed at this, but the Contractors kept their promise.

This year they decided, they'd not only win the district again but they would take the North Louisiana playoff as well.

And this is exactly what they did, despite losing an opening day game in the double elimination playoff.

Cannon May Not Start For Houston

HOUSTON (AP) —The Houston Oilers and the Denver Broncos, a pair of American League Football teams smarting from embarrassing opening losses, meet tonight.

Both teams have speedster halfbacks who are doubtful participants.

Billy Cannon, the former Louisiana State All-America, sprained an ankled as the Oilers were upset last week by Oakland, 24-13.

Denver's Tommy Janik, a rookie defensive specialist from Texas A&I, also had an ankle injured as the Kansas City Chiefs shocked the Broncos in record fashion, 59-7.

Dave Smith is scheduled to start in Cannon's spot. Frank (Pop) Ivy the Oiler coach, has made no other changes in his line-ups and says he will stick with George Blanda despite a disappointing performance by the veteran quarterbackagainst Oakland.

The Denver quarterback starter will be Mickey Slaughter, the Louisiana Tech rookie, who threw two touchdown passes against the Oilers as the Broncos took a 27-10 pre-season exhibition g am e Against Kansas City, Slaughter completed 14 passes in 31 attempts for 135 yards and one touchdown.

Houston holds a 5-1 edge over Denver in three years of league play.

WEST MONROE WINS AGAIN

Bolton Defeated 12-0 By Flashy Rebels

ALEXANDRIA (Special) — West Monroe's hgih - riding Rebels pulled off their second big upset of the young grid season Friday night with a stunning and beautifully - executed 12-0 victory over third ranked Bolton of Alexandria.

Once again Coach Cecil Pirkey's club, which is now 2-0, used a rugged defensive effort and clutch offensive plays to rack up the victory.

Both of the Rebs' tallie came on big fourth down play.

Midway in the first period West Monroe took over on its own 20 and started a long drive which resulted in the first score.

Little halfback Raymond Frazier came up with the biggest play of the drive when he broke loose and picked his way for 68 yards carrying the ball to the Bolton 2.

A few plays later halfback Danny Perkins bulled over from the three on fourth down. The try for the extra point failed and with 2:06 left in the initial quarter West Monroe had a 6-0 lead.

After stopping Bolton on the ensuing kickoff the Rebs got possession on the 25 and again hooked up for a scoring drive.

After picking up one first down and with the ball resting on the West Monroe 44, Jamie Barrett found running room and scooted 25 yards to the Bolton 31.

After an incompleted pass on first down, quarterback Jim Colvin dropped back again on second down and found big end David Jones, the Rebels' sure - fire candidate for post season honors, and hit him on a 21 yard pass and run play which carried to the Bolton 10.

Three plays netted five yards against the Bears, who seemed to be getting both mad and embarrassed. Then Colvin, West Monroe's "Mr. Cool," rolled out to the right on fourth down and hit Jones with a five - yard toss in the end zone and the Rebels had their 12 points. Ray Alexander kicked the point after but West Monroe was off sides and on the second attempt it failed.

In the second half, West Monroe failed to score although driving deep into Bear territory on several occasions while also kept up its tremendous defensive effort to half the hometown crew.

Bolton's closest penetration went to the 14 before Curtis Beavers and Company put down the uprising.

After charging to the West Monroe 19, the Bears set up operation first and 10. On the first down from here the Rebs were offsides, giving Bolton a first and five on the 14. But Beavers came through to nail Bolton's Richard Golmon, the Bears leading ball carrier, for an eight yard loss. By the time West Monroe got possession it had knocked Bolton back to the 26 and also knocked just about all scoring hopes from the Bears' minds. Outstanding also on defense for the Rebs was Roger Bell.

Frazier, on the strength of his 68 yard run, was West Monroe's leading ball carrier with 76 yards on just three tries. Perkins picked up 38 yards on 12 carries, Barrett had 25 and Alexander wheeled for 19.

Golmon had 50 yards, fullback Glenn D'Amico ran for 27 and Billy Petty had 23 to pace Bolton runners.

West Monroe finished with 175 yards rushing to 147 for Bolton.

Crossett On Top

MONTICELLO, Ark. (Special) -- Tommy Smith scored from three yards out to break a 12-12 deadlock in the last quarter Friday night and give the Crossett Eagles an 18-12 victory over Monticello.

Smith's game-winning plunge climaxed an 86-yard Eagel drive that went off in 11 plays.

Monticello scored the game's first touchdown when Glenn Deck[illegible]an went over from the one after the Hill Billies covered an [illegible]gle fumble on Crossett's 16.

Crossett tied the score when Floyd Alexander took a 23-yard touchdown pass from David Young in the second quarter, but Monticello pounced upon another Crossett fumble in the third quarter, getting the ball on the Eagle 41, and going ahead again on a pass, Dick Dunn to Harry Crossett.

The Eagles took to the air minutes later, a Young to Bill Meadows pass covering 37 yards to the three, and another Young-to-Meadows aerial scoring the TD. Then came Smith's game winning tally in the final period.

Crossett led in first downs, 16-6. The Eagles rushed for 162 yards and completed six of seven passes for 125 yards. Monticello rushed for 82 and completed five of 15 passes for 69 yards.

Ruston Stuns

RUSTON (Special) — Ruston High's Bearcats held powerful Bossier City within their three-yard line three times to pull of one of their finest upsets of all time, a 6-0 victory over the AAA Bearkats.

Bossier, favored in this year's 1-AAA race, rambled for eight first downs and 188 yards, but couldn't budge the stubborn Ruston team when the chips were down.

Ruston quarterback Melvin Shows fired a 20-yard pass to halfback Wayne Parkman for the only score of the game after Ruston recovered a fumble on the Bossier 25. Ironically it was the only pass Ruston completed in the game. The locals were held to 77-yard total offense and four first downs.

In probably the best play of the night, Bossier's Mike Smith got loose on an 84-yard romp down to the Ruston 11. But the Ruston rose up again and repelled the attempt.

Lewis Love, Steve Ledford, Dusty Taylor and Everett Cathey stoodout in an inspired Ruston forward wall.

Ruston lost its opening game to Minden last week, 25-7.

Redemptorist Explodes

BATON ROUGE (AP)—Redemptorist of Baton Rouge stopped four McComb scoring threats and exploded in the second half for a 17-0 victory Friday night.

TIGERS BOUNCE BACK

Jonesboro 11 Hands Ouachita 18-7 Defeat

JONESBORO (Special) — The Jonesboro-Hodge Tigers rode the swift feet of fullback Lowell Mize to an 18-7 victory over the Ouachita Lions here Friday, to bounce back from a 12-0 setback at the hands of Bastrop in their 1963 football debut last week.

Jonesboro went right to work in the first quarter, rolling 52 yards on the handiwork of Mize as he capped the drive with a 37 yard burst for the tally. Bill Marrus, the Tiger quarterback, missed in the extra point attempt.

The Lions looked as if they might tie the score later in the period but ran out of gas on the Tiger six-yard line. Jonesboro flashed right back to drive to the Lion 10 late in the quarter, but a strong Ouachita defense rose to the occasion and halted the threat as the half ended.

The Lions made the most of a good break at the beginning of the second half, recovering a Tiger fumble on the opening kick-off and marching 22 yards for their only score of the evening.

Wayne Jensen took the ball over from the three yard-line to cap the eight play, 22-yard scramble. Kenneth Slusher made the point after good with a perfect kick and the Lions took a slim one point lead that lasted until the final period.

The Tigers tallied two touchdowns in the final period to win going away, with the Lions never threatening seriously afterwards.

Quarterback Marrus, who missed all three conversion attempts of the night, found another way to score, galloping 23 yards for the final Tiger TD later in the final period after Bill DeCou returned one of Slusher's booming punts to the Ouachita 36.

With their offense still suppletering the Lions ha dto rely on some fine defensive play to keep within range throughout the game. Guard George Bryant and Wayne Stover, at end, played outstanding games on defensive for the Red and White, coming up with key stops when the Tigers came within scoring range.

Terry Terrill and Mize were outstanding for the Tigers when Ouachita was threatening on the six yard line, and continued to play fine ball throughout the contest.

7:30 THIS MORNING

Tribe Sets Early Grid Scrimmage

Before the sun is very high in the sky Saturday morning, Northeast State Coach Jack Rowan hopes to have a pretty good idea of the 11 players who'll play in next week's opening game against Chattanooga.

Rowan will send his charges through their second full - scale scrimmage of the fall, an "early bird" session that will get started at 7:30 a.m. It will probably be the last sustained contact work for the Indians before the opener against Chattanooga the night of September 21 in Chattanooga.

After the first scrimmage of the fall last Saturday, Rowan and aides Jim Coats, Bob DeMoss, George Luffey and Leon Manley made a number of changes in their first team. The coaches' observations of this week's scrimmage, plus a look at film to be taken of the game may prompt more changes.

Saturday's session will pit the top two Indian units against the third and fourth teams. Rowan plans to make the workout as near the real thing as possible with the new substitution rule to be strictly observed.

Rowan, who dislikes using the terms "first team" or "second team," favoring "alternate units," will use his top two clubs on both offense and defense in the scrimmage and plans to use one about as much as the other during the season. The only players who will not see defensive duty in the scrimmage or the season are the top two quarterbacks, Mike Cooper and Bookie Shillcutt.

Performing on the White team in Saturdays scrimmage will be ends Jimmy Love and Sherrel Smith, tackles Alden Fontenot and Wayne Clement, guards James Kirkendall and Don King, center Tommy Beaube, quarterback Shillcutt, halfbacks Alton Thomas and Morris Douglas and fullback Willie Ragan.

Crossett On Top

MONTICELLO, Ark. (Special) — Tommy Smith scored from three yards out to break a 12-12 deadlock in the last quarter Friday night and give the Crossett Eagles an 18-12 victory over Monticello.

Smith's game-winning plunge climaxed an 86-yard Eagel drive that went off in 11 plays.

Monticello scored the game's first touchdown when Glenn Deckleman went over from the one after the Hill Billies covered an Eagle fumble on Crossett's 16.

Crossett tied the score when Floyd Alexander took a 23-yard touchdown pass from David Young in the second quarter, but Monticello pounced upon another Crossett fumble in the third quarter, getting the ball on the Eagle 41, and going ahead again on a pass, Dick Dunn to Harry Crossett.

The Eagles took to the air minutes later, a Young to Bill Meadows pass covering 37 yards to the three, and another Young-to-Meadows aerial scoring the TD. Then came Smith's game winning tally in the final period.

Crossett led in first downs, 16-6. The Eagles rushed for 162 yards and completed six of seven passes for 125 yards. Monticello rushed for 82 and completed five of 15 passes for 69 yards.

Ruston Stuns

RUSTON (Special) — Ruston High's Bearcats held powerful Bossier City within their three-yard line three times to pull of one of their finest upsets of all time, a 6-0 victory over the AAA Bearkats.

Bossier, favored in this year's 1-AAA race, rambled for eight first downs and 188 yards, but couldn't budge the stubborn Ruston team when the chips were down.

Ruston quarterback Melvin Shows fired a 20-yard pass to halfback Wayne Parkman for the only score of the game after Ruston recovered a fumble on the Bossier 25. Ironically it was the only pass Ruston completed in the game. The locals were held to 77-yard total offense and four first downs.

In probably the best play of the night, Bossier's Mike Smith got loose on an 84-yard romp down to the Ruston 11. But the Ruston rose up again and repelled the attempt.

Lewis Love, Steve Ledford, Dusty Taylor and Everett Cathey stoodout in an inspired Ruston forward wall.

Ruston lost its opening game to Minden last week, 25-7.

Redemptorist Explodes

BATON ROUGE (AP)—Redemptorist of Baton Rouge stopped four McComb scoring threats and exploded in the second half for a 17-0 victory Friday night.

McComb marched to the Redemptorist one-yard line, the 16 and twice to the 13 in the first half only to be sopped each time.

Redemptorist scored all its points in the second half. A 12-yard field goal by end Johnny Domingue in the third quarter drew first blood.

Midway in the fourth, quarterback Harold Lambert scored from the three.

Redemptorist tallied its final marker with seven seconds left in the game after recovering a McComb fumble on the 16. Lambert passed to end Johnny Prejean alone in the end zone.

Tallulah could never get a threatening offense started.

Sulphur Wins

PINEVILLE, La. (AP) — A 39-yard touchdown run with a fumble by defensive halfback Darrell Ardoin gave a sputtering Sulphur team the lift it needed to beat underdog Pineville 12-6 Friday night.

Ardoin made the TD run just one play after Pineville had halted Sulphur's first scoring threat by intercepting a Frank Blake pass at the Rebel two-yard stripe late in the fourth quarter.

Sulphur scored an insurance touchdown late in the game with Blake sneaking over from the one.

Then the Tor defense relaxed and Pineville scored with 64 seconds left. Quarterback Orville Wilson plunged over from the one.

ST. FRANCISVILLE (Special) — The Vidalia Vikings rolled to a 26-7 victory over the St. Francisville Saints Friday, racking up single tallies in each of the four quarters.

The District 3-B champs came back in the third stanza to rack up six more, as another Saint fumble went astray, on the 21, and Butch Toteet plunged the final three yards on the fifth play of the series.

Vidalia picked up the final seven points in the last quarter as halfback Henry Holloway scored on a seven-yard end run. Wiggins coverted the point after.

It was no contest for the Vikings as they held the Saints to a minus 11 yards rushing and a 36 yard net. The outstanding man on the Viking defensive unit was young Alvin Frazer, 180 pound freshman tackle. Frazer set a individual tackling record with 13 last week and racked up 9 more Friday.

OAK GROVE (Special) — It might not be Christmas but Oak Grove football fans got their best gift in over 15 years Friday night when their Tigers presented them with a 20-0 victory over district 2A-foe Delhi.

Oak Grove used a superlative defensive effort to stop the thrusts of some of north Louisiana's fastest school-boy backs and also got a sparkling offensive performance from quarterback Ji mBoyles and halfback Mickey Broadway.

In the second quarter, when Oak Grove broke loose for all 20 of its points, Broadway got things started with a tally from six yards out. David Kennedy added the point after.

The first TD was set up on a fine 44 yard pass and run play from Boyles to end Mickey Turner.

Boyles was still in form seconds later when he connected with halfback Mike Gammill for 16 yards and another TD. The Tigers had taken over on the Delhi 20 after a bad snap ruined the Bears' chances of getting off a fourth down punt.

TIGERS BOUNCE BACK

Jonesboro 11 Hands Ouachita 18-7 Defeat

JONESBORO (Special) — The Jonesboro-Hodge Tigers rode the swift feet of fullback Lowell Mize to an 18-7 victory over the Ouachita Lions here Friday, to bounce back from a 12-0 setback at the hands of Bastrop in their 1963 football debut last week.

Jonesboro went right to work in the first quarter, rolling 52 yards on the handiwork of Mize as he capped the drive with a 37 yard burst for the tally. Bill Marrus, the Tiger quarterback, missed in the extra point attempt.

The Lions looked as if they might tie the score later in the period but ran out of gas on the Tiger six-yard line. Jonesboro flashed right back to drive to the Lion 10 late in the quarter, but a strong Ouachita defense rose to the occasion and halted the threat as the half ended.

The Lions made the most of a good break at the beginning of the second half, recovering a Tiger fumble on the opening kick-off and marching 22 yards for their only score of the evening.

Wayne Jensen took the ball over from the three yard-line to cap the eight play, 22 - yard scramble. Kenneth Slusher made the point after good with a perfect kick and the Lions took a slim one point lead that lasted until the final period.

The Tigers tallied two touchdowns in the final period to win going away, with the Lions never threatening seriously afterwards.

Jonesboro-Hodge took over and began a 39-yard march which Mize again topped off with his second scoring run of the night, a three yard jaunt. Marrus missed again on the extra-point attempt, but the Tigers had a five-point lead that was to be all they would need.

Quarterback Marrus, who missed all three conversion attempts of the night, found another way to score, galloping 23 yards for the final Tiger TD later in the final period after Bill DeCou returned one of Slusher's booming punts to the Ouachita 36.

With their offense still supptering the Lions ha dto rely on some fine defensive play to keep within range throughout the game. Guard George Bryant and Wayne Stover, at end, played outstanding games on defensive for the Red and White, coming up with key stops when the Tigers came within scoring range.

Terry Terrill and Mize were outstanding for the Tigers when Ouachita was threatening on the six yard line, and continued to play fine ball throughout the contest.

Tribe Sets Early Grid Scrimmage

Before the sun is very high in the sky Saturday morning, Northeast State Coach Jack Rowan hopes to have a pretty good idea of the 11 players who'll play in next week's opening game against Chattanooga.

Rowan will send his charges through their second full - scale scrimmage of the fall, an "early bird" session that will get started at 7:30 a.m. It will probably be the last sustained contact work for the Indians before the opener against Chattanooga the night of September 21 in Chattanooga.

After the first scrimmage of the fall last Saturday, Rowan and aides Jim Coats, Bob DeMoss, George Luffey and Leon Manley made a number of changes in their first team. The coaches' observations of this week's scrimmage, plus a look at film to be taken of the game may prompt more changes.

Saturday's session will pit the top two Indian units against the third and fourth teams. Rowan plans to make the workout as near the real thing as possible with the new substitution rule to be strictly observed.

Rowan, who dislikes using the terms "first team" or "second team," favoring "alternate units," will use his top two clubs on both offense and defense in the scrimmage and plans to use one about as much as the other during the season. The only players who will not see defensive duty in the scrimmage or the season are the top two quarterbacks, Mike Cooper and Bookie Shillcutt.

Performing on the White team in Saturdays scrimmage will be ends Jimmy Love and Sherrel Smith, tackles Alden Fontenot and Wayne Clement, guards James Kirkendall and Don King, center Tommy Beaube, quarterback Shillcutt, halfbacks Alton Thomas and Morris Douglas and fullback Willie Ragan.

Two members of the White team are currently sidelined by injuries. They are guard Joe McClain (bruised knee) and halfback Ken Newton (sprained ankle). Both are expected to be ready for the Chattanooga contest.

Wendell Drost and Carlyle Williams will be at end on the Maroon team, Preston Hollier and Ronnie Sumpter at tackle, Billy Ross Graves and Jewel McBroom at guard, Stanley Starr at center, Cooper at quarter, Ronnie Myrick and Ray Pommier at halfback and Ronnie Graham at full.

Tackle Joe Alewine, usually a member of this unit, is ailing with an injured back.

Among the more recent casualties was freshman tackle John Segars, bitten by a spider Thursday night and hospitalized. He is expected to rejoin the team next week.

No more field work is scheduled for the Indians after Saturday's scrimmage until Monday morning when two-a-day workouts resume.

Beman, Sikes Reach Finals In U. S. Amateur Golf Play

By HAROLD CLAASSEN

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — Deane Beman and Dick Sikes, a pair of fantastic putting machines, play today for the United States Amateur Golf Championship.

Sikes, the NCAA champion, had the help of a friendly tree near the 11th green of the afternoon round to help stop a tiring Charlie Coe of Oklahoma City, 2 and 1, in a spectacular 36-hole semifinal over the rugged terrain of the Wakonda Club course.

Beman, who held this title in 1960 after winning the British amateur a year earlier, eliminated George Archer, gangling ranch-hand from Gilroy, Calif., 5 and 4, in their upper bracket duel.

Coe, now 39 and twice a winner of this championship, had cut Sikes' 4-up margin after 21 holes to 2-up by the time they had reached the 28th.

On the 29th Sikes sent his second squarely into the branches of a huge tree near the green and the ball kicked back onto the green. Sikes got down in two for a half. The tree overlooks a deep ravine and Sikes' ball likely would have skidded down the incline and given Coe the hole.

The title round over the 6,896 roller-coaster yards of the 36-36—72 course also will be at 36 holes.

Both Beman and Sikes went to lunch holding identical 2-up leads after their morning round but they gained their edges in different ways.

The Bethesda, Md., insurance-man quickly moved 5-up when Archer, "too cold and too nervous to hit them good," went seven strokes over par on the first seven holes. Beman needed that cushion when the 6-foot-6 Archer, an expectant father, unleashed a string of birdies on the incoming nine. He whipped through the last 11 holes in four under par.

In contrast, the Coe-Sikes morning duel was one of steady, near-par golf highlighted by three consecutive birdies by the University of Arkansas student from No. 14 through No. 16.

Archer played much better golf during the afternoon round but fell back steadily behind the sensational putting of Beman. Beman was 5-up on the drawling Californian by the 24th hole, where Archer's second landed in the water and the former champion drilled home a 17-footer for a par.

In getting to this point, Beman had sunk an 18-footer and one of 27 feet for birdies but had also missed a four-foot tap. For a time it appeared that Archer, who had started his morning comeback on the eighth hole, might repeat in the afternoon.

He took the 26th by curling in a 12-footer but the rally died quickly when he hooked his tee shot on the 185-yard 27th and came out of the rugged fringe poorly.

Beman was one over par for the 32 holes of his victory while Archer, despite his cold start, was six over.

"My putting improved today," said Beman. "Especially those long, approach putts. I left myself a ton of those four and five footers this morning and making those really wears you out."

"I just didn't have it, not on the fairways nor the greens," explained Archer. "You got to be sharp to win here and I wasn't."

Sikes, twice the National Public Links champion although only 23, hiked his advantage to three holes by ramming in a 27-footer on the first hole after lunch.

The NCAA champ, who speeds around the course as though fired from a rocket, boosted his edge to four holes on the 21st when Coe's drive found a depression in the deep rough on the left. He needed three to get on and then three putted for a double bogey.

Sikes had poked home birdie putts of 15, 22 and 44 feet on the morning tour but lost his touch temporarily midway of the afternoon trip. He missed a four-footer for a birdie on the seventh and also a three footer on the ninth.

Although Sikes' play fell off after lunch his No. 7 iron off the seventeenth tee possibly was his best of the day. It stopped only six feet from the pin.

Leonard Grabs Lead At Seattle

SEATTLE (AP)—Leathery Stan Leonard of Canada disregarded a nightmarish four-putt beginning Friday and posted a five-under-par 67 in the second round of the $35,000 Seattle Open Golf tournament for the halfway lead at 133.

Bobby Nichols of Coronoa, Calif., one of three who were tied with Leonard at the day's start, carded a 68 and is one stroke behind. Ray Floyd of Fayetteville, N.C., and Ken Still of Tacoma, Wash., the others in the deadlock, did not fall far behind in a showery day that sent most of the scores soaring. Floyd had a 69, Still a 72.

Jack Nicklaus, defending Seattle Open champion, had a par 72, but failed to survive the cut when the field as pared to the 65 low-scoring professionals and the 10 amateurs who earned starting berths.

Leonard hit the green on the 455-yard, par 5 first hole on his second shot, leaving an 18-foot putt. He was 20 inches short on his first rap with the putter and flubbed the next one three feet past the hole.

"That one looked a mile long," said Leonard, who missed it for his 6.

He got two strokes back with birdies on the next two holes and birdied the seventh, turning the corner two under at 35. Four straight birdies came off the Leonard putter at the start of the second nine and he finished with another for a 32.

Twice Leonard had anxious moments. On the 16th hole his birdie putt hung on the lip of the cup and refused to drop.

Yes, Ma'am.

Wad up a piece of foil. This is the shiny stuff that comes on rolls and we buy at grocery stores. It makes no difference whether it is the heavy or thin type.

After making a ball of this wonderful stuff . . . rub briskly over the rusted spots on your chrome. Get ready to take a deep breath of wonder . . . Just watch that rust disappear!

And did you know that this also on chrome-plated car bumpers? Naturally, it won't remove "pits".

LETTER OF TRUTH

Dear Heloise:

Here's a terrific help for mothers with tiny tots. It has helped me on those trying days when children lock themselves in the bathroom or bedroom.

Whenever my grandchildren come to visit me I place a turkish towel over the top of the doors (bathroom, bedroom, closets, etc.) and then they cannot possibly close it tight enough to get stuck or lock themselves in!

A doctor told me this and you would be surprised how many people never even thought of it.

June Uri

Dear Heloise:

After a shirt is worn out, or has become too small for daily use I cut a large square from the back shirt tail and make handkerchiefs for the children by just hemming the squares on my sewing machine. They are soft and lovely.

Shirt tail squares also make nice every day napkins.

The tops of men's socks are excellent to use for making new "cuffs" to either lengthen or repair jersey-type pajamas at the wrists and ankles.

U.S. GOALS TOPIC

Kennedy To Open U.N. With Speech

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy will deliver this nation's opening speech at the U.N. General Assembly next Friday, his Newport, R.I., weekend headquarters announced.

Harlan Cleveland, assistant secretary of state for international organization affairs, listed for newsmen here Friday these two main U.S. goals for the fall meeting of the General Assembly which gets under way in New York on Tuesday with more than 100 items slated for its agenda:

1. Strengthening of the United Nations.
2. A testing of the Soviet Union on a wide range of issues to see where East-West relations will go from here.

As Cleveland put it: "After the test ban—what?"

Kennedy's appearance at the world forum was timed to follow what the administration hopes will be Senate ratification by a respectable margin of the limited nuclear test-ban treaty. The Senate is expected ot vote about Wednesday or Thursday.

By his personal attenance at the U.N. session, Kennedy hopes to add the weight of presidential prestige to the U.S. position and accentuate America's role as host.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk is slated to go to New York around Sept. 22 for a fortnight of talks with foreign dignitaries attending the session, including Soviet foreign minister Andrei A. Gromyko.

In addition to Kennedy, six chiefs of state, seven heads of government and 59 foreign ministers have indicated they will be on hand.

The President intends to see Gromyko too, but aides said this would be in Washington. Soviet Premier Khrushchev has said he will not attend the U.N. session this year.

Cleveland said the issue of building a stronger United Nations ranges across a wide variety of issues. The Russians, he said, will be tested on how they will follow through on Khrushchev's recent declaration that he "passionately wishes the United Nations to develop an instrument of strengthening peace and organizing cooperation between states."

One hot issue is U.N. finances, which have been dragging bottom because of the refusal of the Communists and a few others to pay their assessed share of U.N. peacekeeping costs in the Congo and Middle East.

The Soviet Union is now behind 63 million in its U.N. dues, and will have to pay up some of this or lose its General Assembly vote under U.N. rules, Cleveland said.

In addition there will be a variety of items from colonialism to cooperation in space in which the Soviet posture could be amenable or as obstructive as before, he said.

The issue of repressive tactics by the U.S.-supported South Vietnamese Diem government against Buddhist opponents is likely to come up with potential embarrassment to the United States.

Record School Budget Okayed

CROSSETT, Ark. (Special) — A record budget of more than $1 million has been approved by the Crossett School Board.

The budget for the next school year calls for expenditures of $1,072,051.52 and receipts of $1,057,078.58. A deficit of $14,972.94 is shown on the budget, but board members said a surplus is on hand in the building fund and that no deficit will be recorded.

The largest item in the budget is under the heading of instruction, and calls for an outlay of $643,750 to be spent on teacher salaries, library and other expenses dealing with actual school instruction.

DROPOUTS MUST DROP

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — The Bourbon County School Board has received a $22,800 federal grant for a program to try to reduce dropouts among county high school students.

The money is for the next year. More is forthcoming in the following two years.

Kentucky, with a dropout rate in high schools of 42.8 per cent, is second in the nation only to Georgia's 43.2 per cent.

U.S. GOALS TOPIC

Kennedy To Open U.N. With Speech

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy will deliver this nation's opening speech at the U.N. General Assembly next Friday, his Newport, R.I., weekend headquarters announced.

Harlan Cleveland, assistant secretary of state for international organization affairs, listed for newsmen here Friday these two main U.S. goals for the fall meeting of the General Assembly which gets under way in New York on Tuesday with more than 100 items slated for its agenda:

1. Strengthening of the United Nations.

2. A testing of the Soviet Union on a wide range of issues to see where East-West relations will go from here.

As Cleveland put it: "After the test ban—what?"

Kennedy's appearance at the world forum was timed to follow what the administration hopes will be Senate ratification by a respectable margin of the limited nuclear test-ban treaty. The Senate is expected ot vote about Wednesday or Thursday.

By his personal attenance at the U.N. session, Kennedy hopes to add the weight of presidential prestige to the U.S. position and accentuate America's role as host.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk is slated to go to New York around Sept. 22 for a fortnight of talks with foreign dignitaries attending the session, including Soviet foreign minister Andrei A. Gromyko.

In addition to Kennedy, six chiefs of state, seven heads of government and 59 foreign ministers have indicated they will be on hand.

The President intends to see Gromyko too, but aides said this would be in Washington. Soviet Premier Khrushchev has said he will not attend the U.N. session this year.

Cleveland said the issue of building a stronger United Nations ranges across a wide variety of issues. The Russians, he said, will be tested on how they will follow through on Khrushchev's recent declaration that he "passionately wishes the United Nations to develop an instrument of strengthening peace and organizing cooperation between states."

One hot issue is U.N. finances, which have been dragging bottom because of the refusal of the Communists and a few others to pay their assessed share of U.N. peacekeeping costs in the Congo and Middle East.

The Soviet Union is now behind 63 million in its U.N. dues, and will have to pay up some of this or lose its General Assembly vote under U.N. rules, Cleveland said.

In addition there will be a variety of items from colonialism to cooperation in space in which the Soviet posture could be amenable or as obstructive as before, he said.

The issue of repressive tactics by the U.S.-supported South Vietnamese Diem government against Buddhist opponents is likely to come up with potential embarrassment to the United States.

Record School Budget Okayed

CROSSETT, Ark. (Special) — A record budget of more than $1 million has been approved by the Crossett School Board.

The budget for the next school year calls for expenditures of $1,072,051.52 and receipts of $1,057,078.58. A deficit of $14,972.94 is shown on the budget, but board members said a surplus is on hand in the building fund and that no deficit will be recorded.

The largest item in the budget is under the heading of instruction, and calls for an outlay of $643,750 to be spent on teacher salaries, library and other expenses dealing with actual school instruction.

DROPOUTS MUST DROP

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — The Bourbon County School Board has received a $22,800 federal grant for a program to try to reduce dropouts among county high school students.

The money is for the next year. More is forthcoming in the following two years.

Kentucky, with a dropout rate in high schools of 42.8 per cent, is second in the nation only to Georgia's 43.2 per cent.

CLINTON DEMONSTRATIONS

Judge Gives Ban To State Court

BATON ROUGE (AP) —U. S. Dist. Judge E. Gordon West tossed back to a state court Friday control over a ban on Negro demonstrations at Clinton, La.

The federal judge filed the ruling at 4 p.m. with the federal court clerk here—just eight hours before his temporary restraining order was scheduled to expire in the rural community north of Baton Rouge.

Judge West ruled that attorneys for the Congress of Racial Equality improperly removed the temporary restraint from state to federal court.

State Dist. Judge John Rarick originally issued the order to bar CORE from activities in Clinton and East Feliciana Parish that might lead to breaches of the peace and violence.

CORE attorneys filed a motion for the federal judge to take jurisdiction and the issue was automatically placed before Judge West two weeks ago.

There have been no demonstrations at Clinton. CORE had been conducting a Negro voter registration drive there. It had involved some rallies.

CORE claimed it could not expect a fair trial in the state court because it had a segregated courtroom and because Judge Rarick at onetime had cleared the courtroom when a Negro woman refused to move from a white section.

Counsel for the town of Clinton and East Feliciana Parish had argued in a memorandum filed with Judge West that a state court could handle the matter adequately.

Judge West reasoned, "the federal constitution, as interpreted by the Supreme Court of the United States, is just as binding on the state judge as it is on the federal judge, and it has been unfair for this court to presume that the judge of the 20th Judicial District Court...of Louisiana would refuse to uphold the law of the land."

JAMES W. JOINER

Joiner To Run For Police Jury Seat In Ward 5

James W. Joiner of Ward 5 has announced his candidacy for the Ouachita Parish Police Jury.

Four jurors will be elected in Ward 5 in the general election. Joiner is a candidate in the first Democratic primary December 7th.

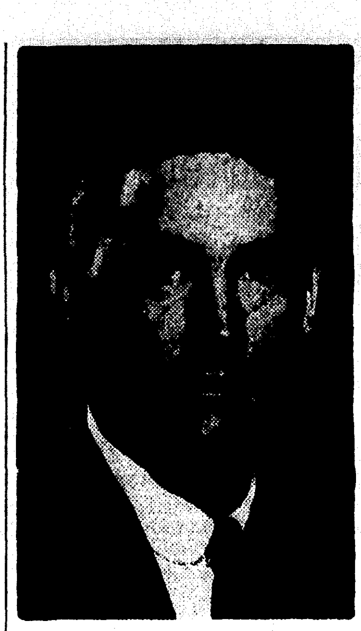
A 42-year-old real estate broker, Joiner is married to the former Audrey Tarver. They have five children.

"I am a veteran of World War II having served in the U. S. Army Air Force. I am a graduate of Ouachita Parish High School, a member of the Baptist Church and Masonic Lodge.

"I earnestly solicit each voter in Ward 5 to support me. I will apply myself whole heartedly to the welfare and interest of Ouachita Parish and its progress.

"I will work diligently to receive the utmost benefits for the parish from the funds made availabl, without bing influenced by individuals or groups on any project.

"I will be sincerely grateful for every vote. Yours is the one that counts. Vote for me."



MARVIN R. RAGLAND

M. R. Ragland Is Candidate For Senate

LAKE PROVIDENCE (Special) — Marvin R. (Bud) Ragland, 31-year-old Lake Providence farmer-businessman, announced Friday that he will be a candidate for the Senate in the 32nd Senatorial District.

A native of East Carroll, Ragland has been active in the Louisiana Farm Bureau Federation, having served on the federation board.

Ragland, who served in the U.S. Army for six years, is a member of the First Methodist Church. He serves on the church board.

Active in farm and agriculture organizations, Ragland is married to the former Margaret Anne Schwartz. They have children.

He is a graduate of Lake Providence High School and attended Tulane Uiversity and LSU. In 1958, he was selected as the outstanding young farmer in East Carroll Parish by the Lake Providence Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Presently, he is a member of the Louisiana Delta Council, East Carroll Cattlemen's Association and the Louisiana Rice Growers Association. He also serves on the East Carroll Democratic Executive Committee.

Here is his announcement:

"I want to first urge all persons who have been but are not now registered and those who have recently become of age but have not registered to immediately qualify yourselves to vote. This plea is urgent since it is your duty as a citizen to assert an active interest in the affairs of your government. You can do this only if you are qualified to cast a ballot. From time to time during this campaign, I will again repeat this appeal for our people to be registered.

"Since this is a democratic primary election and since I am a registered Democrat, I feel I must point out the following to keep good faith with you the democratic voters. I am not a 'Kennedy Democrat'. I am, however, a 'Harry Byrd Democrat'. If my choice was between Kennedy and Goldwater, I would be a 'Goldwater Democrat'. If my choice was between Kennedy and Rockefeller, I would be a 'Free Elector Democrat'.

Over 70 per cent of our State budget is spent on education, highways and welfare. These services are therefore most important to our people and I deem it necessary to make my views in regard to these matters crystal clear at the outset.

"Our educational system generally is in good shape but there are several areas where more emphasis should be placed, namely, in the field of special education for retarded children, special education for exceptional children and special educational programs for those young people who do not choose to continue their training beyond the high school level. Education remains the responsibility of State and local Governments.

"Our highway system is constantly being expanded to meet the growing needs of the travelling public. Too often, during the development of our highway system, we have sacrificed safety for economy's sake. I believe that safety should be placed above economy and I will sponsor and support, as your elected official, a highway program designed to reduce accidents and save lives. We need additional farm to market roads and I will sponsor and support a highway program which will achieve this aim.

"Basically, I support a welfare program. Our old people need help, and many citizens, for some reason or other and through no fault of their own, need rehabilitative assistance. I also support the emergency or disaster program. There are however, portions of our present welfare programs which can and should be immediately improved. All abuses of the program, particularly all benefits obtained through fraud, should be quickly eliminated by a more stringent system of policing. I believe our State should pay for the essential and just requirements of our needy citizens, but we cannot and must not permit the welfare program to be used for the purpose of sponsoring and encouraging 'sin'.

"Our area, being principally agricultural, is in desperate need of large and small industries to balance our economy and provide employment for those whose jobs are being eliminated annually by farm mechanization and by other causes. Our Senatorial District lies adjacent to one of the world's greatest waterways, the Mississippi River. I will sponsor and support a program which will be designed to promote and expand greater use of the Mississippi River, particularly in the field of transportation.

"Tourism in our state is increasing with each year, but we need to promote this business and accelerate its development. I will support sound conservation, wildlife and natural resources programs.

"There are many other problems of concern to our District and I pledge that I will corporate with the local officials of each community, Town and Parish, toward the solution of them.

"Many of these problems can be solved, some only partially solved and I do not profess to have all of the answers. I will work diligently as your Senator.

"My complete platform is forthcoming. Study it closely, find out more about me, and if our principles of government coincide, vote for and support me in this election on December 7, 1963."

Hearing Is Set At Shreveport In Suit By SEC

SHREVEPORT (Special) Judge Ben C. Dawkins has scheduled a hearing for 9 a.m. Thursday here after the Securities and Exchange Commission filed suit in U. S. District Court here Thursday morning against three firms and two individuals involved in the selling of an educational plan.

Presiding will be Judge Richard J. Putnam at the hearing, which will determine whether or not an injunction should be issued to halt the sale of debenture bonds offered in the program, since it is not registered with the SEC.

Named as defendants in the suit were the American Foundation for Advanced Education of Arkansas; its president, Dr. Huie H. Smith, North Little Rock; the Arkansas Enterprises and its president, Robert Shaw, North Little Rock, and Haca Investments of Baton Rouge.

According to SEC, the purpose of the foundation is to "foster and encourage and promote university and college education by selling debenture bonds to members of the foundation."

The injunction was requested by SEC on the ground that the foundation is operating in interstate commerce and therefore it securities should be registered with the federal agency.

The foundation contended that it was exempt because it is not set up to make a profit.

This outline of the foundation's operation was given by SEC:

Members purchase 1,000 bonds, usually for their children. When the child enters college, the foundation pays the school up to $1,500 per year for four years for tuition and other expenses.

If a child does not attend college, the bond owner is refunded his $1,000 investment, but receives no interest.

If the college expenses are less than $1,000 annually, the bond owner gets back the difference between expenses and the bond price with no interest payment.

The foundation said it is able to carry out its program because it is investing the bond money in securities and mortgages and using the yield to meet future committments. Since not all children will attend college, the interest on their bonds will be applied to the accounts of those who will.

Police Arrest Scottish Lass For Stripping

EDINBURG, Scotland (UPI)—Police Friday arrested Anna Kesselaar, a 19-year-old blonde, and charged her with "shameless indecency" for stripping naked before hundreds of delegates to an international conference on "The Theater of the Future."

John Calder, organizer of the drama meeting, was charged with allowing Miss Kesselaar to disrobe and failing to exercise his authority to prevent the incident.

Miss Kesselaar, an artist's model, staged the strip las tSaturday night at the conference's closing session while delegates were involved in a debate she regarded as "boring and dull."

The shapely model walked on to a balcony overlooking the debate platform, took off all her clothes, and then dollied back and forth across the gallery on a television trolley operated by a friend. Another friend played a spotlight on the girl.

Miss Kesselaar, who called the strip "a bit of a giggle to jazz up the conference," told newsmen she was "shocked" when the police called at her apartment and placed her under arrest.

World News In Brief

SOVIETS HIT CHINESE

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet government newspaper Izvestia denounced Communist China anew Friday for seeking to develop its own nuclear weapons.

Izvestia charged Peking policy was an attempt to compete with capitalism through armaments, not peaceful means.

RED CHINA

TOKYO (UPI) — Communist China Friday night accused the Soviet Union of the "savage and crude intimidation" of 92 citizens who were expelled from the Peking-Moscow express train for allegedly carrying anti - Russian propaganda.

Peking, in a radio broadcast heard here, said the Chinese were "manhandled, denied food and water and illegally detained for more than 50 hours."

STEP UP RAIDS

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Gen. Chiang Ching - kuo said Friday Nationalist China plans to step up raids on the Red China mainland to inflict further wounds on the Peking regime—"a tiger dying of slow starvation."

Chiang, head of Nationalist China's security forces and widely viewed as heir apparent to the presidency held by his father Chiang Kai-shek, said raids on the mainland would steadily weaken the Communist rule and bring about its downfall.

Speaking with newsmen following a conference with Secretary of State Dean Rusk, Chiang said he did not discuss with Rusk any "precipitate action" that might be taken to help bring down the Peking regime.

His statement about increased hit-and-run raids on the mainland came in response to a question as to whether this was in the offing. He said, yes, that "it is our intention to step up such operations."

Chiang mentioned only raids, not any all - out invasion. The United States has made it clear repeatedly that it is against an invasion. A treaty with the Formosa government stipulates that no Nationalist Chinese effort of this kind will be carried out before prior consultations with the United States.

Chiang's lengthy talk with Rusk wound up a five - day visit to Washington, during which he also conferred with President Kennedy and other top U.S. officials. He planned to leave Saturday morning for New York, stopping along the way to spend the night at Princeton, N.J. A spokesman said he wanted to drive to New York in order to get a better look at America.

CRASH CAUSE

PERPIGNAN, France (UPI) — Investigators Friday checked on the possibility that a "magnetic" mountain in the Pyrenees affected vital instruments on the Viking airliner which crashed Thursday with the loss of 40 lives.

FRANC CRACKDOWN

PARIS (UPI) — President Charles de Gaulle's government launched its save-the-franc crackdown on soaring prices and wages Friday and reaction ranging from mild skepticism to outright hostility.

Most comment from labor unions and big business was along the lines of "let's wait and see whether it works."

DECISION

GREENVILLE, Miss. (AP) — The Greenville School Board stood pat Friday on its decision to redesignate a white elementary school for use by Negroes next year.

Residents of the northwest Greenville area, where the Trigg elementary school is located, charged the transfer would hurt property value, threaten segregation, and be a breach of trust.

BRAZIL'S FIRE

CURATIBA, Brazil (AP) — The smoldering embers of southern Brazil's most disastrous forest fire spurted into flame again Friday, burning six persons to death.

This raised to 136 the death toll in fires which have devastated hundreds of square miles in Parana, coffee and lumber-growing state.

Authorities estimated the injured to number in the thousands, but could give no accurate count because many are in isolated areas with which communications have been cut. They said at least 140,000 were homeless.

SATELLITES

NUTLEY, N.J. (AP) — Two satellites were used Friday to carry a voice conversation between here, South America and a ship anchored off Lagos, Nigeria.

The operation employed both satellites in the same space communications circuit for the first time ever.

The satellites, Relay I and Syncon, were linked in the demonstration put on by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration. Voice transmissions were bounced in two hops between Rio de Janeiro, New Jersey and the USS Kingsport.

DEFEATED

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — William C. Birthright, 76, head of the 70,000-member International Barbers Union since 1936, was defeated for secretary-treasurer Friday. But his choice for president, Joseph Depaola, of Meriden, Conn., won over a candidate who advocated $3 haircuts.

Birthright has held both offices, but they were split in a referendum two years ago, and Birthright sought the secretary-treasurer's post in a race with E. M. Sanders, Akron, Ohio. Sanders won, 520-383.

ON INDIANS NOW

BISMARCK, N.D. (AP)—Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy described as "tragic irony" Friday the fact that the American Indian "has for so long been denied a full share of freedom."

Kennedy, in remarks before a banquet of the 20th annual convention of the National Congress of American Indians, noted that this country had adopted many of the ways and words of the native Indians.

REJECTS NOTE

LONDON (UPI) — Premier Fidel Castro's government has rejected Britain's demand for the the release of 19 Cuban refugees kidnaped from a British Caribbean island, the Foreign Office said Friday.

The Havanaregime also refused to give guarantees that it will refrain from similar "invasions" of British territorial waters and territory, a spokesman said.

KILLED

JENNINGS, La. (AP)—Adolph Thibodaux, 39-year-old Evangeline mechanic, was killed Friday when his car ran off a road about two miles east of here.

Thibodaux, a native of Iota, is survived by his widow, one son, three daughters and his parents. Funeral services will be held in Evangeline today.

EDITOR VISITS TODAY

Parade Of Homes Gains Recognition

An associate editor for a magazine for builders which has national circulation will be in the Twin Cities today to tour model homes to be featured in the annual Parade of Homes the weekends of Sept. 21-22 and Sept. 28-29.

Ronald Morris, executive officer of the Northeast Louisiana Association of Home Builders, sponsor of the Parade of Homes, said the editor, Robert Hamill of Chicago, is scheduled to arrive by plane at Selman Field at 8:05 a.m. today.

"Some of the builders in this area have attained national recognition, and Hamill is interested in outstanding designing and labor saving techniques, as well as other aspects of the homes constructed for the Parade of Homes," Morris explained.

He added that Hamill plans to tour all of the model homes constructed for this year's Paarde of Homes, and also will be taken on a general tour to see other building developments in the Twin Cities, in general.

Purpose of Hamill's visit is to obtain data for an article in a future issue of the Practical Builder magazine, a trade journal for builders.

He will be guest at a noon luncheon today at the Paragon Club. Those attending will include Wallace R. Reitzell, president of the Northeast Louisiana Association of Home Builders, Lloyd Fox and Jim Bradford, local builders, and Morris.

During the annual Parade of Homes, ten new houses featuring the latest innovations will be open for public inspection the two weekends during the hours of 2 p.m. to 6 p.m.

Free plan books will be available to visitors at the homes, and free prizes will be given. For several years the Parade of Homes has served as a pace-setter in the home building industry.

CLINTON DEMONSTRATIONS

Judge Gives Ban To State Court

BATON ROUGE (AP) —U. S. Dist. Judge E. Gordon West tossed back to a state court Friday control over a ban on Negro demonstrations at Clinton, La.

The federal judge filed the ruling at 4 p.m. with the federal court clerk here—just eight hours before his temporary restraining order was scheduled to expire in the rural community north of Baton Rouge.

Judge West ruled that attorneys for the Congress of Racial Equality improperly removed the temporary restraint from state to federal court.

State Dist. Judge John Rarick originally issued the order to bar CORE from activities in Clinton and East Feliciana Parish that might lead to breaches of the peace and violence.

CORE attorneys filed a motion for the federal judge to take jurisdiction and the issue was automatically placed before Judge West two weeks ago.

There have been no demonstrations at Clinton. CORE had been conducting a Negro voter registration drive there. It had involved some rallies.

CORE claimed it could not expect a fair trial in the state court because it had a segregated courtroom and because Judge Rarick at onetime had cleared the courtroom when a Negro woman refused to move from a white section.

Counsel for the town of Clinton and East Feliciana Parish had argued in a memorandum filed with Judge West that a state court could handle the matter adequately.

Judge West reasoned, "the federal constitution, as interpreted by the Supreme Court of the United States, is just as binding on the state judge as it is on the federal judge, and it has been unfair for this court to presume that the judge of the 20th Judicial District Court...of Louisiana would refuse to uphold the law of the land."

Hearing Is Set At Shreveport In Suit By SEC

SHREVEPORT (Special) Judge Ben C. Dawkins has scheduled a hearing for 9 a.m. Thursday here after the Securities and Exchange Commission filed suit in U. S. District Court here Thursday morning against three firms and two individuals involved in the selling of an educational plan.

Presiding will be Judge Richard J. Putnam at the hearing, which will determine whether or not an injunction should be issued to halt the sale of debenture bonds offered in the program, since it is not registered with the SEC.

Named as defendants in the suit were the American Foundation for Advanced Education of Arkansas; its president, Dr. Huie H. Smith, North Little Rock; the Arkansas Enterprises and its president, Robert Shaw, North Little Rock, and Haca Investments of Baton Rouge.

According to SEC, the purpose of the foundation is to "foster and encourage and promote university and college education by selling debenture bonds to members of the foundation."

The injunction was requested by SEC on the ground that the foundation is operating in interstate commerce and therefore it securities should be registered with the federal agency.

The foundation contended that it was exempt because it is not set up to make a profit.

This outline of the foundation's operation was given by SEC:

Members purchase 1,000 bonds, usually for their children. When the child enters college, the foundation pays the school up to $1,500 per year for four years for tuition and other expenses.

If a child does not attend college, the bond owner is refunded his $1,000 investment, but receives no interest.

If the college expenses are less than $1,000 annually, the bond owner gets back the difference between expenses and the bond price with no interest payment.

The foundation said it is able to carry out its program because it is investing the bond money in securities and mortgages and using the yield to meet future committments. Since not all children will attend college, the interest on their bonds will be applied to the accounts of those who will.

Police Arrest Scottish Lass For Stripping

EDINBURG, Scotland (UPI)—Police Friday arrested Anna Kesselaar, a 19-year-old blonde, and charged her with "shameless indecency" for stripping naked before hundreds of delegates to an international conference on "The Theater of the Future."

John Calder, organizer of the drama meeting, was charged with allowing Miss Kesselaar to disrobe and failing to exercise his authority to prevent the incident.

Miss Kesselaar, an artist's model, staged the strip las tSaturday night at the conference's closing session while delegates were involved in a debate she regarded as "boring and dull."

The shapely model walked on to a balcony overlooking the debate platform, took off all her clothes, and then dollied back and forth across the gallery on a television trolley operated by a friend. Another friend played a spotlight on the girl.

Miss Kesselaar, who called the strip "a bit of a giggle to jazz up the conference," told newsmen she was "shocked" when the police called at her apartment and placed her under arrest.

M. R. Ragland Is Candidate For Senate

LAKE PROVIDENCE (Special) — Marvin R. (Bud) Ragland, 31-year-old Lake Providence farmer-businessman, announced Friday that he will be a candidate for the Senate in the 32nd Senatorial District.

A native of East Carroll, Ragland has been active in the Louisiana Farm Bureau Federation, having served on the federation board.

Ragland, who served in the U.S. Army for six years, is a member of the First Methodist Church. He serves on the church board.

Active in farm and agriculture organizations, Ragland is married to the former Margaret Anne Schwartz. They have children.

He is a graduate of Lake Providence High School and attended Tulane Uiversity and LSU. In 1958, he was selected as the outstanding young farmer in East Carroll Parish by the Lake Providence Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Presently, he is a member of the Louisiana Delta Council, East Carroll Cattlemen's Association and the Louisiana Rice Growers Association. He also serves on the East Carroll Democratic Executive Committee.

Here is his announcement:

"I want to first urge all persons who have been but are not now registered and those who have recently become of age but have not registered to immediately qualify yourselves to vote. This plea is urgent since it is your duty as a citizen to assert an active interest in the affairs of your government. You can do this only if you are qualified to cast a ballot. From time to time during this campaign, I will again repeat this appeal for our people to be registered.

"Since this is a democratic primary election and since I am a registered Democrat, I feel I must point out the following to keep good faith with you the democratic voters. I am not a 'Kennedy Democrat'. I am, however, a 'Harry Byrd Democrat'. If my choice was between Kennedy and Goldwater, I would be a 'Goldwater Democrat'. If my choice was between Kennedy and Rockefeller, I would be a 'Free Elector Democrat'.

Over 70 per cent of our State budget is spent on education, highways and welfare. These services are therefore most important to our people and I deem it necessary to make my views in regard to these matters crystal clear at the outset.

"Our educational system generally is in good shape but there are several areas where more emphasis should be placed, namely, in the field of special education for retarded children, special education for exceptional children and special educational programs for those young people who do not choose to continue their training beyond the high school level. Education remains the responsibility of State and local Governments.

"Our highway system is constantly being expanded to meet the growing needs of the travelling public. Too often, during the development of our highway system, we have sacrificed safety for economy's sake. I believe that safety should be placed above economy and I will sponsor and support, as your elected official, a highway program designed to reduce accidents and save lives. We need additional farm to market roads and I will sponsor and support a highway program which will achieve this aim.

"Basically, I support a welfare program. Our old people need help, and many citizens, for some reason or other and through no fault of their own, need rehabilitative assistance. I also support the emergency or disaster program. There are however, portions of our present welfare programs which can and should be immediately improved. All abuses of the program, particularly all benefits obtained through fraud, should be quickly eliminated by a more stringent system of policing. I believe our State should pay for the essential and just requirements of our needy citizens, but we cannot and must not permit the welfare program to be used for the purpose of sponsoring and encouraging 'sin'.

"Our area, being principally agricultural, is in desperate need of large and small industries to balance our economy and provide employment for those whose jobs are being eliminated annually by farm mechanization and by other causes. Our Senatorial District lies adjacent to one of the world's greatest waterways, the Mississippi River. I will sponsor and support a program which will be designed to promote and expand greater use of the Mississippi River, particularly in the field of transportation.

"Tourism in our state is increasing with each year, but we need to promote this business and accelerate its development. I will support sound conservation, wildlife and natural resources programs.

"There are many other problems of concern to our District and I pledge that I will corporate with the local officials of each community, Town and Parish, toward the solution of them.

"Many of these problems can be solved, some only partially solved and I do not profess to have all of the answers. I will work diligently as your Senator.

"My complete platform is forthcoming. Study it closely, find out more about me, and if our principles of government coincide, vote for and support me in this election on December 7, 1963."

World News In Brief

SOVIETS HIT CHINESE

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet government newspaper Izvestia denounced Communist China anew Friday for seeking to develop its own nuclear weapons.

Izvestia charged Peking policy was an attempt to compete with capitalism through armaments, not peaceful means.

RED CHINA

TOKYO (UPI) — Communist China Friday night accused the Soviet Union of the "savage and crude intimidation" of 92 citizens who were expelled from the Peking-Moscow express train for allegedly carrying anti - Russian propaganda.

Peking, in a radio broadcast heard here, said the Chinese were "manhandled, denied food and water and illegally detained for more than 50 hours."

STEP UP RAIDS

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Gen. Chiang Ching - kuo said Friday Nationalist China plans to step up raids on the Red China mainland to inflict further wounds on the Peking regime—"a tiger dying of slow starvation."

Chiang, head of Nationalist China's security forces and widely viewed as heir apparent to the presidency held by his father Chiang Kai-shek, said raids on the mainland would steadily weaken the Communist rule and bring about its downfall.

Speaking with newsmen following a conference with Secretary of State Dean Rusk, Chiang said he did not discuss with Rusk any "precipitate action" that might be taken to help bring down the Peking regime.

His statement about increased hit-and-run raids on the mainland came in response to a question as to whether this was in the offing. He said, yes, that "it is our intention to step up such operations."

Chiang mentioned only raids, not any all - out invasion. The United States has made it clear repeatedly that it is against an invasion. A treaty with the Formosa government stipulates that no Nationalist Chinese effort of this kind will be carried out before prior consultations with the United States.

Chiang's lengthy talk with Rusk wound up a five - day visit to Washington, during which he also conferred with President Kennedy and other top U.S. officials. He planned to leave Saturday morning for New York, stopping along the way to spend the night at Princeton, N.J. A spokesman said he wanted to drive to New York in order to get a better look at America.

CRASH CAUSE

PERPIGNAN, France (UPI) — Investigators Friday checked on the possibility that a "magnetic" mountain in the Pyrenees affected vital instruments on the Viking airliner which crashed Thursday with the loss of 40 lives.

FRANC CRACKDOWN

PARIS (UPI) — President Charles de Gaulle's government launched its save-the-franc crackdown on soaring prices and wages Friday and reaction ranging from mild skepticism to outright hostility.

Most comment from labor unions and big business was along the lines of "let's wait and see whether it works."

DECISION

GREENVILLE, Miss. (AP) — The Greenville School Board stood pat Friday on its decision to redesignate a white elementary school for use by Negroes next year.

Residents of the northwest Greenville area, where the Trigg elementary school is located, charged the transfer would hurt property value, threaten segregation, and be a breach of trust.

BRAZIL'S FIRE

CURATIBA, Brazil (AP) — The smoldering embers of southern Brazil's most disastrous forest fire spurted into flame again Friday, burning six persons to death.

This raised to 136 the death toll in fires which have devastated hundreds of square miles in Parana, coffee and lumber-growing state.

Authorities estimated the injured to number in the thousands, but could give no accurate count because many are in isolated areas with which communications have been cut. They said at least 140,000 were homeless.

SATELLITES

NUTLEY, N.J. (AP) — Two satellites were used Friday to carry a voice conversation between here, South America and a ship anchored off Lagos, Nigeria.

The operation employed both satellites in the same space communications circuit for the first time ever.

The satellites, Relay I and Syncon, were linked in the demonstration put on by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration. Voice transmissions were bounced in two hops between Rio de Janeiro, New Jersey and the USS Kingsport.

DEFEATED

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — William C. Birthright, 76, head of the 70,000-member International Barbers Union since 1936, was defeated for secretary-treasurer Friday. But his choice for president, Joseph Depaola, of Meriden, Conn., won over a candidate who advocated $3 haircuts.

Birthright has held both offices, but they were split in a referendum two years ago, and Birthright sought the secretary-treasurer's post in a race with E. M. Sanders, Akron, Ohio. Sanders won, 520-383.

ON INDIANS NOW

BISMARCK, N.D. (AP)—Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy described as "tragic irony" Friday the fact that the American Indian "has for so long been denied a full share of freedom."

Kennedy, in remarks before a banquet of the 20th annual convention of the National Congress of American Indians, noted that this country had adopted many of the ways and words of the native Indians.

REJECTS NOTE

LONDON (UPI) — Premier Fidel Castro's government has rejected Britain's demand for the the release of 19 Cuban refugees kidnaped from a British Caribbean island, the Foreign Office said Friday.

The Havanaregime also refused to give guarantees that it will refrain from similar "invasions" of British territorial waters and territory, a spokesman said.

KILLED

JENNINGS, La. (AP)—Adolph Thibodaux, 39-year-old Evangeline mechanic, was killed Friday when his car ran off a road about two miles east of here.

Thibodaux, a native of Iota, is survived by his widow, one son, three daughters and his parents. Funeral services will be held in Evangeline today.

EDITOR VISITS TODAY

Parade Of Homes Gains Recognition

An associate editor for a magazine for builders which has national circulation will be in the Twin Cities today to tour model homes to be featured in the annual Parade of Homes the weekends of Sept. 21-22 and Sept. 28-29.

Ronald Morris, executive officer of the Northeast Louisiana Association of Home Builders, sponsor of the Parade of Homes, said the editor, Robert Hamill of Chicago, is scheduled to arrive by plane at Selman Field at 8:05 a.m. today.

"Some of the builders in this area have attained national recognition, and Hamill is interested in outstanding designing and labor saving techniques, as well as other aspects of the homes constructed for the Parade of Homes," Morris explained.

He added that Hamill plans to tour all of the model homes constructed for this year's Paarde of Homes, and also will be taken on a general tour to see other building developments in the Twin Cities, in general.

Purpose of Hamill's visit is to obtain data for an article in a future issue of the Practical Builder magazine, a trade journal for builders.

He will be guest at a noon luncheon today at the Paragon Club. Those attending will include Wallace R. Reitzell, president of the Northeast Louisiana Association of Home Builders, Lloyd Fox and Jim Bradford, local builders, and Morris.

During the annual Parade of Homes, ten new houses featuring the latest innovations will be open for public inspection the two weekends during the hours of 2 p.m. to 6 p.m.

Free plan books will be available to visitors at the homes, and free prizes will be given. For several years the Parade of Homes has served as a pace-setter in the home building industry.

U. S. ambassador deLesseps Morrison qualified Friday as a Democratic candidate for governor of Louisiana.

He was one of three other candidates for top state offices in the Dec. 7 primary who qualified at Marksville with chairman Charles A. Riddle Jr. of the Democratic State Central Committee.

Raymond LaBorde of Marksville qualified as candidate for state custodian of voting machines on the Morrison ticket.

Morrison, U. S. ambassador to the Organization of American States and former mayor of New Orleans, became the eighth candidate to qualify for governor. He has resigned as ambassador, effective Sunday, to seek the governorship.

He has made two unsuccessful bids for the post. He was defeated in a 1960 Democratic runoff by Gov. Jimmie H. Davis.

Dave Pearce, state commissioner of agriculture, qualified in his campaign for re-election as an independent and John W. Davidson of Alexandria qualified for commissioner of insurance.

Riddle will move to Baton Rouge Saturday and set up shot in the Louisiana House chamber to receive qualification papers and fees.

The final deadline for filing qualifications is 5 p.m.

In Baton Rouge, Claude Kirkpatrick said he would qualify Saturday. Kirkpatrick is state director of public works.

Rep. Gillis W. Long announced in New Orleans his candidate for lieutenant governor is R. O. Rush of Baton Rouge.

Long told a news conference he didn't think he was in first place yet, but was up among the contenders.

Rush, who appeared with Long, is an attorney and insurance man who said he always has been with the Longs in politics. He made an unsuccessful bid for district attorney in East Baton Rouge Parish in 1954.

Claude Duval of Houma, who qualified Thursday, said he is the lieutenant governor candidate on Morrison's ticket. State Rep. Jack Dyer of East Baton Rouge has qualified for state insurance commissioner on the Morrison ticket.

At Glenmora, John J. McKeithen, state public service commissioner, said the state would see deadheads fall from the state payrolls if he is elected governor.

In a swipe at the Davis administration, McKeithen said Louisiana government must be brought out of the shadows where the present administration has it.

The state has enough of smoke-filled rooms, he said, along with almost semi-annual press conferences.

McKeithen will campaign at Dry Creek, Sugartown, Merryville and Singer Saturday.

Kirkpatrick, in a Baton Rouge speech, said, "Businesslike administration is a very important factor in creating confidence of the people in government.

"Contrary to the common belief, all government is not run in a haphazard, inefficient manner.

"I know from first-hand knowledge that the department of public works is staffed and operated by dedicated men and women we have reduced the number of employes in our department to a new low even while expanding services."

Market Comment

It appeared as if the markets attempt to close on the plus side would be successful. However, profit taking in the final minutes caused the Dow Jones Industrial Average to finish off .13 on total volume of 5,230,000 shares. In the auto section attention continued to focus on Studebaker which was actively traded and closed at 8⅞ up ⅛. While General Motors 77¾ fell ⅝ Ford 57 declined ¾ and Chrysler 73⅛ added ¼. Steel shares continued soft after recent strength. Most of the issues declined fractionally with U.S. Steel 55½ off ½ Republic 43¼ off ⅛ Bethlehem 32¾ and Youngstown 119⅞ both off ⅛. Kimberly Clark 70⅜ up 1⅜ St Regis Paper 36 up ⅝ Scott 37½ up ⅛ Rayonier 33¼ up 1 and International Paper unchanged at 35. Selected drug shares were strong paced by Carter which rose 2 and Parke Davis which moved up 1¼ on a late buying spree. Pfizer 54⅝ rose ½ Schering 43¾ gained ⅜ and Merck 102½ climbed ⅜. ### NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK (AP) — Cotton futures closed 5 cents a bale lower to 10 cents higher Friday.

Switching operations from October to December in near months highlighted the limited trading. Some of this business was in anticipation of first notice day for October contracts on Sept. 24. Short covering caused distant December to spurt up about 75 cents a bale as the light demand found offerings scarce. However, at the close the bid in that position was lowered to the previous close.

Stocks Dip Into Red At Last Minute

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stocks dipped into the red in the averages at the last minute Friday after holding a small gain through most of the session.

Brokers had expected Thursday's easier trend, combined with normal pre-weekend profit taking to hold prices own and they were impressed with the list's ability to hold up so well under selling pressure.

Dow-Jones industrial average rose around a point early in the day but gradually slipped back and finished off 0.13 at 740.13. The more superstitious members of the Wall Street community noted the 0.13 drop in the blue chip indicator occurred on Friday the Thirteenth.

Standard & Poor's more inclusive 500 stock index, however, showed a gain of 0.02 at 73.17. Trading lagged at 5,230,000 shares compared with the 5,560,000 shares which changed hands on Thursday.

Of the 1,309 issues traded, 541 advanced, 61 to new 1963 highs and 486 declined, 14 to new lows.

Studebaker topped the market in activity again tacking on ⅛ to another new 1963 high of 8⅞ on a turnover of 313,600 shares.

U.S. Smelting took second place with a loss of 1. The stock swung widely during the day, opening up 4¾ and later dropping as much as 1¾. Brokers said the activity in the issue reflected speculation over rumors the company would merge with Kennecott Copper. The rumors were denied by both companies.

Westinghouse was third most active with a gain of ½. Parke, Davis was fourth with a gain of 1¼. The company is awaiting government approved of its new birth control pill.

National Airlines was another active issue. The stock bounced back from an early loss and added ⅜ after an official told a press conference the company expects to increase its earnings this year even if the Civil Aviation Board allows Northeast Airlines, its competitor, to keep its New York-Florida route.

Steels dragged their feet for most of the session and finished fractions lower. In the motors, Ford dropped ¾ and General Motors ⅝ but Chrysler and American Motors firmed.

Oils showed Socony-Mobil and Amerada up 1⅛ each and Kerr-McGee and Wilcox Oil up fractions. Texaco shaded.

On the American Exchange prices were higher on a turnover of 2,160,000 shares, compared with 1,840,000 shares Thursday.

Clyde Johnson Hurt In Wreck; Reports Shots

Clyde Johnson, a Greenburg merchant and lay-minister who has been campaigning for governor as the "poor man's choice", was still in serious condition in a West Monroe hospital after wrecking his car south of Monroe early Friday.

He reported his car smashed into a bridge bracing on the new U.S. 165 bypass after being shot at between Monroe and Columbia. He was found lying beside his wrecked automobile shortly before dawn by a mail carrier and was rushed to the hospital for emergency treatment. Physicians reported he was still in serious condition Friday night, but that his injuries were still undetermined.

Johnson told deputies from the Ouachita Parish sheriff's department that a "late model Oldsmobile" had followed him from south of Colubmia to the point where he wrecked his car. He told officers he left Baton Rouge last Thursday, traveling north to Natchez, then to Ferriday, and Jean, politicking along the way.

After leaving Jena, during the night, he said he headed toward Columbia but on the highway noted he was being "followed." He stopped in Columbia where he thought he lost the "tailing car" and later stopped on the 165 bypass. As he stood beside the highway for a rest stop, he said the car that had been following him suddenly reappeared and as it passed by he heard "two pops," that sounded like "A cap pistol."

Johnson said he saw fire coming from the direction of the "pops" and jumped in his auto, jammed the accelerator to the floor. He said he fell over on the floor board as the car went wildly out of control, jumped a ditch and smashed into the bridge bracing. He was found with blood on his head.

Investigating officers said there were four indentions in Johnson's car, three on the left side and one on the left door glass. None, penetrated the car. They said the indentations "could have been made by a bullet." However, the incident was still under investigation.

The governor aspirant told the sheriff's department that he was shot at near his home at Greensburg about two weeks ago.

GRAIN

CHICAGO (AP)—The grain futures market finished the week with all grains on a strong trend but with soybeans under fairly heavy pressure of liquidation and weak Friday.

Most wheat deliveries advanced about two cents a bushel and other grains generally major fractions to a cent or so while soybeans declined two cents net at the extreme after having recovered somewhat from the lows of the day in late dealings.

The weakness in soybeans was ascribed to profit cashing and perhaps a moderate volume of short selling after the forecast of frost for Thursday night failed to materialize throughout all the area expected.

Wheat closed ⅞-2⅝ cents a bushel higher, September $1.89½-⅝; corn ½-1¾ higher, September $1.29⅛-¼; oats ⅛-1 cent higher, September 65⅜ cents bid; rye ⅛ to 2 cents higher, September $1.38-38⅛; soybeans 1⅛-2 cents higher, September $2.58⅛-¼.

Wheat was ⅞-2g cents a bushel higher at the close, September $1.89½-⅝; corn ½-1¾ higher, September $1.29⅛-¼; oats ⅛-1 cent higher, September 65⅜ cents bid; rye ⅛-2 cents higher, September $1.38-38¼; soybeans 1⅛-2 cents lower, September $2.58⅛-¼.

LOUISIANA

Grain prices at Louisiana country elevators were mixed compared to last weeks prices. Yellow corn registered the biggest change with prices sharply lower due to new crop corn moving to elevators. Oats were also lower this week. Wheat prices were a little higher but nominal as supplies were absent.

Prices were as follows
New corn 1.20-1.25
Red oats 80-85- nominal
Soybeans 2.45-2.50
Wheat 1.75- nominal.

Louisiana Gulf delivered prices on soybeans fluctuated within a wide range this week and closed sharply lower. at 2.68-2.71 -) nominal per bushel.

Chips From The Stump

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

U. S. ambassador deLesseps Morrison qualified Friday as a Democratic candidate for governor of Louisiana.

He was one of three other candidates for top state offices in the Dec. 7 primary who qualified at Marksville with chairman Charles A. Riddle Jr. of the Democratic State Central Committee.

Raymond LaBorde of Marksville qualified as candidate for state custodian of voting machines on the Morrison ticket.

Morrison, U. S. ambassador to the Organization of American States and former mayor of New Orleans, became the eighth candidate to qualify for governor. He has resigned as ambassador, effective Sunday, to seek the governorship.

He has made two unsuccessful bids for the post. He was defeated in a 1960 Democratic runoff by Gov. Jimmie H. Davis.

Dave Pearce, state commissioner of agriculture, qualified in his campaign for re-election as an independent and John W. Davidson of Alexandria qualified for commissioner of insurance.

Riddle will move to Baton Rouge Saturday and set up shot in the Louisiana House chamber to receive qualification papers and fees.

The final deadline for filing qualifications is 5 p.m.

In Baton Rouge, Claude Kirkpatrick said he would qualify Saturday. Kirkpatrick is state director of public works.

Rep. Gillis W. Long announced in New Orleans his candidate for lieutenant governor is R. O. Rush of Baton Rouge.

Long told a news conference he didn't think he was in first place yet, but was up among the contenders.

Rush, who appeared with Long, is an attorney and insurance man who said he always has been with the Longs in politics. He made an unsuccessful bid for district attorney in East Baton Rouge Parish in 1954.

Claude Duval of Houma, who qualified Thursday, said he is the lieutenant governor candidate on Morrison's ticket. State Rep. Jack Dyer of East Baton Rouge has qualified for state insurance commissioner on the Morrison ticket.

At Glenmora, John J. McKeithen, state public service commissioner, said the state would see deadheads fall from the state payrolls if he is elected governor.

In a swipe at the Davis administration, McKeithen said Louisiana government must be brought out of the shadows where the present administration has it.

The state has enough of smoke-filled rooms, he said, along with almost semi-annual press conferences.

McKeithen will campaign at Dry Creek, Sugartown, Merryville and Singer Saturday.

Kirkpatrick, in a Baton Rouge speech, said, "Businesslike administration is a very important factor in creating confidence of the people in government.

"Contrary to the common belief, all government is not run in a haphazard, inefficient manner.

"I know from first-hand knowledge that the department of public works is staffed and operated by dedicated men and women we have reduced the number of employes in our department to a new low even while expanding services."

Market Comment

It appeared as if the markets attempt to close on the plus side would be successful. However, profit taking in the final minutes caused the Dow Jones Industrial Average to finish off .13 on total volume of 5,230,000 shares. In the auto section attention continued to focus on Studebaker which was actively traded and closed at 8⅞ up ⅛. While General Motors 77¾ fell ⅝ Ford 57 declined ¾ and Chrysler 73⅛ added ¼. Steel shares continued soft after recent strength. Most of the issues declined fractionally with U.S. Steel 55½ off ½ Republic 43¼ off ⅛ Bethlehem 32¾ and Youngstown 119⅞ both off ⅛. Price increases by a number of leading paper manufacturers spurred the group into new high ground. Kimberly Clark 70⅛ up 1⅜ St Regis Paper 36 up ⅜ Scott 37½ up ⅛ Rayonier 33¼ up 1 and International Paper unchanged at 35. Selected drug shares were strong paced by Carter which rose 2 and Parke Davis which moved up 1¼ on a late buying spree. Pfizer 54⅝ rose ½ Schering 43¾ gained ⅜ and Merck 102½ climbed ⅜. Westinghouse was the most actively traded item in the electronic section as the issue reached 40⅛ but closed at 39⅞ up ⅜ while the rest of the group was generally mixed. A number of specialty items came to the forefront during todays activity. Minneapolis Honeywell 124⅜ rose 3⅛ Bell and Howell 25⅞ up 2⅛ CBS 75¼ up 1⅜ Shamoon Industries 23⅞ up 1¾ North Amn Car 25¾ up 1¼ and Commercial Solvents 30⅝ up 1⅛. A mystery still seemed to surround U. S. Smelting. After advancing 6 yesterday the issue opened 4 points higher and rose until trading was halted due to an announcement by the companys president stating no negotiations were being held with Kennecott Copper. The issue then dropped sharply but rallied and finally closed at 107 off 1.

COTTON

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK (AP) — Cotton futures closed 5 cents a bale lower to 10 cents higher Friday.

Switching operations from October to December in near months highlighted the limited trading. Some of this business was in anticipation of first notice day for October contracts on Sept. 24. Short covering caused distant December to spurt up about 75 cents a bale as the light demand found offerings scarce. However, at the close the bid in that position was lowered to the previous close.

Stocks Dip Into Red At Last Minute

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stocks dipped into the red in the averages at the last minute Friday after holding a small gain through most of the session.

Brokers had expected Thursday's easier trend, combined with normal pre-weekend profit taking to hold prices own and they were impressed with the list's ability to hold up so well under selling pressure.

Dow-Jones industrial average rose around a point early in the day but gradually slipped back and finished off 0.13 at 740.13. The more superstitious members of the Wall Street community noted the 0.13 drop in the blue chip indicator occurred on Friday the Thirteenth.

Standard & Poor's more inclusive 500 stock index, however, showed a gain of 0.02 at 73.17. Trading lagged at 5,230,000 shares compared with the 5,560,000 shares which changed hands on Thursday.

Of the 1,309 issues traded, 541 advanced, 61 to new 1963 highs and 486 declined, 14 to new lows.

Studebaker topped the market in activity again tacking on ⅛ to another new 1963 high of 8⅞ on a turnover of 313,600 shares.

U.S. Smelting took second place with a loss of 1. The stock swung widely during the day, opening up 4¾ and later dropping as much as 1¾. Brokers said the activity in the issue reflected speculation over rumors the company would merge with Kennecott Copper. The rumors were denied by both companies.

Westinghouse was third most active with a gain of ½. Parke, Davis was fourth with a gain of 1¼. The company is awaiting government approved of its new birth control pill.

National Airlines was another active issue. The stock bounced back from an early loss and added ⅜ after an official told a press conference the company expects to increase its earnings this year even if the Civil Aviation Board allows Northeast Airlines, its competitor, to keep its New York-Florida route.

Steels dragged their feet for most of the session and finished fractions lower. In the motors, Ford dropped ¾ and General Motors ⅝ but Chrysler and American Motors firmed.

Oils showed Socony-Mobil and Amerada up 1⅛ each and Kerr-McGee and Wilcox Oil up fractions. Texaco shaded.

On the American Exchange prices were higher on a turnover of 2,160,000 shares, compared with 1,840,000 shares Thursday.

Clyde Johnson Hurt In Wreck; Reports Shots

Clyde Johnson, a Greenburg merchant and lay-minister who has been campaigning for governor as the "poor man's choice", was still in serious condition in a West Monroe hospital after wrecking his car south of Monroe early Friday.

He reported his car smashed into a bridge bracing on the new U.S. 165 bypass after being shot at between Monroe and Columbia. He was found lying beside his wrecked automobile shortly before dawn by a mail carrier and was rushed to the hospital for emergency treatment. Physicians reported he was still in serious condition Friday night, but that his injuries were still undetermined.

Johnson told deputies from the Ouachita Parish sheriff's department that a "late model Oldsmobile" had followed him from south of Colubmia to the point where he wrecked his car. He told officers he left Baton Rouge last Thursday, traveling north to Natchez, then to Ferriday, and Jean, politicking along the way.

After leaving Jena, during the night, he said he headed toward Columbia but on the highway noted he was being "followed." He stopped in Columbia where he thought he lost the "tailing car" and later stopped on the 165 bypass. As he stood beside the highway for a rest stop, he said the car that had been following him suddenly reappeared and as it passed by he heard "two pops," that sounded like "A cap pistol."

Johnson said he saw fire coming from the direction of the "pops" and jumped in his auto, jammed the accelerator to the floor. He said he fell over on the floor board as the car went wildly out of control, jumped a ditch and smashed into the bridge bracing. He was found with blood on his head.

Investigating officers said there were four indentions in Johnson's car, three on the left side and one on the left door glass. None, penetrated the car. They said the indentations "could have been made by a bullet." However, the incident was still under investigation.

The governor aspirant told the sheriff's department that he was shot at near his home at Greensburg about two weeks ago.

GRAIN

CHICAGO (AP)—The grain futures market finished the week with all grains on a strong trend but with soybeans under fairly heavy pressure of liquidation and weak Friday.

Most wheat deliveries advanced about two cents a bushel and other grains generally major fractions to a cent or so while soybeans declined two cents net at the extreme after having recovered somewhat from the lows of the day in late dealings.

The weakness in soybeans was ascribed to profit cashing and perhaps a moderate volume of short selling after the forecast of frost for Thursday night failed to materialize throughout all the area expected.

Wheat closed ⅞-2⅝ cents a bushel higher, September $1.89½-⅝; corn ½-1¾ higher, September $1.29⅛-¼; oats ⅛-1 cent higher, September 65⅜ cents bid; rye ⅛ to 2 cents higher, September $1.38-38⅛; soybeans 1⅛-2 cents higher, September $2.58⅛-¼.

Wheat was ⅞-2g cents a bushel higher at the close, September $1.89½-⅝; corn ½-1¾ higher, September $1.29⅛-¼; oats ⅛-1 cent higher, September 65⅜ cents bid; rye ⅛-2 cents higher, September $1.38-38¼; soybeans 1⅛-2 cents lower, September $2.58⅛-¼.

N.Y. Judge Sentences French Star

NEW YORK (AP) — Jacques Angelvin, popular star of French television, was sentenced to three to six years in prison Friday for smuggling $3.5 million in heroin into this country as a money-making sideline. He hid the dope in his car and shipped the auto here aboard the liner United States.

Angelvin, 48, a reddish blond who was master of ceremonies on the French television show "Paris Club" swallowed and nodded at the sentence, then seemed to relax somewhat. A co-defendant got 11 to 22 years.

State Supreme Court Justice Samuel S. Leibowitz described Angelvin as courier for an international dope ring, which was to have paid him $10,000 for bringing in the heroin. Leibowitz added:

"He was a goodtime Charlie who was not adverse to making an easy buck, as they say in the vernacular, " Leibowitz added. "He's one of those nightclub habitues who rub shoulders with very fine and outstanding people who appeared on his program, where he was known as 'the Jack Paar of France.' "

However, Leibowitz said, Angelvin was drawn into the Paris narcotics operation because "he consorted with the lowest scum of that fair city."

"He was essentially a courier," Leibowitz continued, "but he was not a messenger who didn't know what was in the package. Nothing may be said to condone what he did, but the punishment must fit the crime and the criminal.

"He felt this was an easy way to pick up $10,000. I am going to temper justice with mercy. There is no more horrible crime, next to murder, than the sale of narcotics. Think of the human lives that have been wrecked, the misery and the aggravation caused through the sale of narcotics."

Sent to prison with Angelvin was Francois Scaglia, 34, also of Paris, who drew 11 to 22 years as the contact man in the ring who supervised the transfer of the smuggled narcotics.

The ring operated in France, Canada and the United States, and got its supplies of dope from Lebanon.

Its operations first came to light Jan. 18, 1962, when police and federal agents raided the apartment of a Brooklyn longshoremen and found 24 pounds of heroin plastered into the ceiling. In followup raids, heroin valued at $25 million in the illicit market was seized.

ART EVENT

More Participants In Festival Cited

COLUMBIA (Special) — More noteworthy art participants in the Caldwell Parish Library Art Festival have been announced.

Mrs. J. R. White of Monroe will be present with her three books of poetry that carry authentic pen and ink sketches of landmarks at Clinton, La.

Since the last festival, Mrs. White has given poetry programs at different schools as well as meeting with a group of English students at Louisiana Tech for a program and discussion of poetry. In June she presided at a poetry panel of the Pen Womans Writer's Conference held in Little Rock, Ark.

An adult group, the Creative Writing Group, meets in her home twice monthly. Most of the members have received some National recognition. They have been invited to be hostesses in one of the five small garden areas at the festival.

At intervals during the day, the members will read informally from their own writings, principally poetry, and will introduce others who wish to join in.

Roy Pennycuick of San Antonio, Tex., business executive and former newspaperman, will join the group to read his poetry "In the Spanish Mood."

Hostesses for the Poetry Garden will be Charline Hayes Brown, Lillian Carter, Vivian Combs, Emma V. Hunnicutt, Christine Hutts, Adelaide Long Lawson, Joy G. Phelps, Lena Wallace, Thelma Williams and May Smith White.

Another guest artist at the festival will be Mrs. W. C. Oliver, art instructor for the Monroe Recreation Department. Each year, Mrs. Oliver has received recognition at the show with coveted blue ribbons, as have many of her pupils.

Mrs. Oliver has served as judge each year for the Natchez Art Show and twice for the Caldwell Parish Festival. Last year, she was chosen to judge at the Claiborne Fair Art Show.

Among those showing with Mrs. Oliver's class will be Mrs. Sylvan Masur of Monroe, Mrs. Underwood Fourmy of Monroe, Mrs. A. J. Varnado of Monroe, Mrs. Lyda Tolbird of West Monroe, Mrs. Dolly Legrone, Mrs. H. S. Trammell, Mrs. Thelma Oseland, Monroe, Mrs. Oscar Blazer, West Monroe, and Mrs. H. W. Haynes of West Monroe.

Greek Church Spurns Appeal Toward Unity

By CHRIS ELIOU

ATHENS, Greece (AP) — The head of the Greek Orthodox Church turned down Friday papal appeals for unity with the Roman Catholic Church. He called the Roman Church "centralist and absolutist."

"The Orthodox world will never be disposed to accept the infallibility of the Pope," said Archbishop Chryssostomos.

The archbishop, primate of Greece, talked with newsmen less than a week before Orthodox churchmen from around the world are scheduled to meet on Rhodes to discuss Pope Paul VI's invitation to send observers to the Vatican's Ecumenical Council.

Most of them, led by Patriarch Athenagoras of Constantinople (Istanbul), are believed to favor accepting the invitation. The Greek branch of the Orthodox Church, however, has maintained stiff opposition.

Alexei, patriarch of Moscow and all the Russians, sent two observers to last year's session of the council in a move widely interpreted as a bid for better relations between the Vatican and Moscow.

In return, Pope Paul sent two representatives to celebrations of the 50th anniversary of Alexei's elevation to the rank of bishop.

Archbishop Chryssostomos accused the Roman Catholic Church of trying to win converts from Greek Orthodoxy—a crime under the laws of Greece.

Martin Enters Parish Police Jury Seat Race

R. B. Martin, 40-year-old Monroe businessman, has announced his candidacy for the Ouachita Parish Police Jury from Ward 10.

A World War II veteran, Martin is a past president of the Lakeshore Lions Club. He and his family, including three daughters, have lived at 709 Guy Avenue in Lakeshore for the past seven years.

"With the thought uppermost in my mind that I am interested only in good govenment and that I do not have political aspirations past that point, I offer my candidacy to the voters of Ward 10," he said.

Ward 10 will elect four jurors in the December 7th first Democratic primary.

Martin, a member of the First Christian Church, is a member of the Graham-Surghnor Lodge No. 383, Free and Accepted Masons. He formerly was a committeeman for the Boy Scouts and had served as vice-president of the Lakeshore P.T.A.

He issued the following statement:

"I believe that good, conservative government must be experienced on a local level before the people can expect the same on a state or national level. My philosophy on this can be summed up in the fact that I am a registered Democrat and yet I am presently serving on the Executive Committeee of the Fifth District Citizens for Goldwater organization.

"While it is true that if elected I will plainly represent Ward 10, I firmly believe that the interests of the people of each ward, the entire parish, can best be served by harmonious and closely knitted actions on the part of the total Jury.

"I think that a close examination of facts, sensible deductions and definite opinions are far more conducive to good parish government than are weak opionions, avoiding of issues and refusal to appear before citizen groups for consultation or failing to publicly denounce that which is not fair to every single tax payer in a ward or parish."

"I believe that my friends and acquaintances, my community will agree that if elected, I will follow those statements to the best of my ability. I believe that I can successfully justify the confidence of all of the voters of Ward 10 who have not met me personally but who may support my candidacy.

"I will welcome all comments, questions, advice and help that you of Ward 10 wish to bring to me. My decision to seek this office was not reached overnight. I am not indebted to any man, faction or group, past fair play and honest service."

"My business experience and leads me to believe that I can be of definite service to our ward. I very sincerely solicit your vote and support."

Fiery Refugee Hates Castro

EDITOR'S NOTE — Rafael Rodriguez, leader of a band of 89 Cubans who fled their homeland by ship to Mexico last week, says he did not flee to sit back and enjoy himself but to return and organize more such expeditions and to help tear out "the evil" by its roots. His own story, as put down by AP correspondent Oscar Kaufmann, follows.

By RAFAEL RODRIGUEZ

COZUMEL, Mexico (AP) — Ninety-five per cent of my compatriots are not Communists. If they had the opportunity, all of them would do what we did—leave our beloved island.

Either that or—with weapons and an opportunity—they would overthrow Fidel Castro, because it is impossible to eat or to live in our country.

Essentially, I am a Christian man. I am convinced that anything done to help my countrymen will have good results because God is helping us.

That is what urged us on in the operation which we have successfully completed.

But neither I nor the biggest majority of my friends fled Cuba with the intention of sitting back and enjoying ourselves.

We want to, we have to, return to Cuba at the earliest possible opportunity to organize more expeditions such as this one.

But it is not merely a question of bringing out of the island those who do not wish to live under a Communist dictatorship. The evil has to be torn out by the roots.

I have men in the Escambray Mountains, many men, who are struggling to overthrow the infamous Castro dictatorship.

We shall return to them; the sooner the better.

Our homeland is full of Russians. They are in a world apart, without contact with the Cuban people. But it is they who dictate. That we can not tolerate.

The people suffer increasingly worse hunger and privation. Most do not even have shoes.

New work in the interest of beautification of the campus also will be noticed by the fall registrants.

Colorful new uniforms for the Tech band also are among the items on the current "new" list.

More Participants In Festival Cited

COLUMBIA (Special) — More noteworthy art participants in the Caldwell Parish Library Art Festival have been announced.

Mrs. J. R. White of Monroe will be present with her three books of poetry that carry authentic pen and ink sketches of landmarks at Clinton, La.

Since the last festival, Mrs. White has given poetry programs at different schools as well as meeting with a group of English students at Louisiana Tech for a program and discussion of poetry. In June she presided at a poetry panel of the Pen Womans Writer's Conference held in Little Rock, Ark.

An adult group, the Creative Writing Group, meets in her home twice monthly. Most of the members have received some National recognition. They have been invited to be hostesses in one of the five small garden areas at the festival.

At intervals during the day, the members will read informally from their own writings, principally poetry, and will introduce others who wish to join in.

Roy Pennycuick of San Antonio, Tex., business executive and former newspaperman, will join the group to read his poetry "In the Spanish Mood."

Hostesses for the Poetry Garden will be Charline Hayes Brown, Lillian Carter, Vivian Combs, Emma V. Hunnicutt, Christine Hutts, Adelaide Long Lawson, Joy G. Phelps, Lena Wallace, Thelma Williams and May Smith White.

Another guest artist at the festival will be Mrs. W. C. Oliver, art instructor for the Monroe Recreation Department. Each year, Mrs. Oliver has received recognition at the show with coveted blue ribbons, as have many of her pupils.

Mrs. Oliver has served as judge each year for the Natchez Art Show and twice for the Caldwell Parish Festival. Last year, she was chosen to judge at the Claiborne Fair Art Show.

Among those showing with Mrs. Oliver's class will be Mrs. Sylvan Masur of Monroe, Mrs. Underwood Fourmy of Monroe, Mrs. A. J. Varnado of Monroe, Mrs. Lyda Tolbird of West Monroe, Mrs. Dolly Legrone, Mrs. H. S. Trammell, Mrs. Thelma Oseland, Monroe, Mrs. Oscar Blazer, West Monroe, and Mrs. H. W. Haynes of West Monroe.

Greek Church Spurns Appeal Toward Unity

By CHRIS ELIOU

ATHENS, Greece (AP) — The head of the Greek Orthodox Church turned down Friday papal appeals for unity with the Roman Catholic Church. He called the Roman Church "centralist and absolutist."

"The Orthodox world will never be disposed to accept the infallibility of the Pope," said Archbishop Chryssostomos.

The archbishop, primate of Greece, talked with newsmen less than a week before Orthodox churchmen from around the world are scheduled to meet on Rhodes to discuss Pope Paul VI's invitation to send observers to the Vatican's Ecumenical Council.

Most of them, led by Patriarch Athenagoras of Constantinople (Istanbul), are believed to favor accepting the invitation. The Greek branch of the Orthodox Church, however, has maintained stiff opposition.

Alexei, patriarch of Moscow and all the Russians, sent two observers to last year's session of the council in a move widely interpreted as a bid for better relations between the Vatican and Moscow.

In return, Pope Paul sent two representatives to celebrations of the 50th anniversary of Alexei's elevation to the rank of bishop.

Martin Enters Parish Police Jury Seat Race

R. B. Martin, 40-year-old Monroe businessman, has announced his candidacy for the Ouachita Parish Police Jury from Ward 10.

A World War II veteran, Martin is a past president of the Lakeshore Lions Club. He and his family, including three daughters, have lived at 709 Guy Avenue in Lakeshore for the past seven years.

"With the thought uppermost in my mind that I am interested only in good govenment and that I do not have political aspirations past that point, I offer my candidacy to the voters of Ward 10," he said.

Ward 10 will elect four jurors in the December 7th first Democratic primary.

Martin, a member of the First Christian Church, is a member of the Graham-Surghnor Lodge No. 383, Free and Accepted Masons. He formerly was a committeeman for the Boy Scouts and had served as vice-president of the Lakeshore P.T.A.

He issued the following statement:

"I believe that good, conservative government must be experienced on a local level before the people can expect the same on a state or national level. My philosophy on this can be summed up in the fact that I am a registered Democrat and yet I am presently serving on the Executive Committeee of the Fifth District Citizens for Goldwater organization.

"While it is true that if elected I will plainly represent Ward 10, I firmly believe that the interests of the people of each ward, the entire parish, can best be served by harmonious and closely knitted actions on the part of the total Jury.

"I think that a close examination of facts, sensible deductions and definite opinions are far more conducive to good parish government than are weak opionions, avoiding of issues and refusal to appear before citizen groups for consultation or failing to publicly denounce that which is not fair to every single tax payer in a ward or parish."

"I believe that my friends and acquaintances, my community will agree that if elected, I will follow those statements to the best of my ability. I believe that I can successfully justify the confidence of all of the voters of Ward 10 who have not met me personally but who may support my candidacy.

"I will welcome all comments, questions, advice and help that you of Ward 10 wish to bring to me. My decision to seek this office was not reached overnight. I am not indebted to any man, faction or group, past fair play and honest service."

"My business experience and leads me to believe that I can be of definite service to our ward. I very sincerely solicit your vote and support."

Fiery Refugee Hates Castro

EDITOR'S NOTE — Rafael Rodriguez, leader of a band of 89 Cubans who fled their homeland by ship to Mexico last week, says he did not flee to sit back and enjoy himself but to return and organize more such expeditions and to help tear out "the evil" by th eroots. His own story, as put down by AP correspondent Oscar Kaufmann, follows.

By RAFAEL RODRIGUEZ

COZUMEL, Mexico (AP) — Ninety-five per cent of my compatriots are not Communists. If they had the opportunity, all of them would do what we did—leave our beloved island.

Either that or—with weapons and an opportunity—they would overthrow Fidel Castro, because it is impossible to eat or to live in our country.

Essentially, I am a Christian man. I am convinced that anything done to help my countrymen will have good results because God is helping us.

That is what urged us on in the operation which we have successfully completed.

But neither I nor the biggest majority of my friends fled Cuba with the intention of sitting back and enjoying ourselves.

We want to, we have to, return to Cuba at the earliest possible opportunity to organize more expeditions such as this one.

But it is not merely a question of bringing out of the island those who do not wish to live under a Communist dictatorship. The evil has to be torn out by the roots.

I have men in the Escambray Mountains, many men, who are struggling to overthrow the infamous Castro dictatorship.

We shall return to them; the sooner the better.

Our homeland is full of Russians. They are in a world apart, without contact with the Cuban people. But it is they who dictate. That we can not tolerate.

The people suffer increasingly worse hunger and privation. Most do not even have shoes.
